Rain, Rain, Go Away, Giants, Yanks Have To Play

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A steady rain forced cancellation today of scheduled workouts of the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants at Candlestick Park.

The two teams had been slated to stage workouts in preparation for the sixth game of the World Series tomorrow.

"But yesterday's soaker, plus the all-night drizzle and the continued rain today has forced us to keep the infield covered," said a Giants spokesman. "And the outfield is pretty wet."

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants didn't even get up this morning when he was informed it was raining. The Giants had been slated to work out at 11 a.m.

"He told me not to awaken him again until 1 p.m., said Mrs. Dark.

The rains let up to some extent late in the morning, but low, dark clouds hung over the ball park and there seemed little chance for the field to dry.

The weather man wasn't too optimistic about the future, either.

"The present storm will pass over the Bay Area early this afternoon, but another one far out to sea is on the way in," reported the weather bureau. "We do not know if it would arrive in time to stop the game scheduled tomorrow."

Meanwhile, manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees pondered whether to pitch Whitey Ford, Bill Stafford or one of the second-line hurlers.

The odds-makers in New York rated it even money if it is Stafford against Billy Pierce, who is scheduled to go for the Giants. If Ford hurls, the odds-makers have it six and one-half to five for the Yankees. The series odds still list the Yankees at three and one-half to one.

Dark has announced he'll definitely go with Pierce, the crafty 35-year-old southpaw who has never lost a game in Candlestick Park and boasts a 12-0 record there. If Pierce wins, then it probably will be Billy O'Dell in the seventh game.

Civic Center Dedication Set Saturday

(Other stories, photos, pages 13, 14, 15)

The first unit of the Marin County Civic Center—the result of millions of dollars and dozens of disputes—will be dedicated Saturday.

Dedication ceremonies will begin at 9:15 a.m., and tours of the building will be conducted from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The number of people expected to attend the long-awaited dedication has been estimated anywhere from 3,000 to 30,000.

Featured speaker at the dedication will be Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo. Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, wife of the building's architect, will also speak.

9:15 START

At 9:15 a.m. the ceremonies will begin with music by the Terra Linda High School band, followed by the flag raising by Boy Scout Troop 39 and the Hamilton Air Force Sergeants Assn.

A program of music will begin at 9:45 a.m. by the Marin Youth Orchestra, San Rafael High School Chorus and the Terra Linda High School Band.

INVOCATION

Msgr. C. J. McKenna of St. Vincent's School will offer the invocation at 10:15 a.m., and Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors will accept the keys to the building from contractor R. B. Rothschild.

Other guests participating in the ceremonies will be Judge Jordan L. Martinelli and Mrs. William Brice, grand vice president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Dedication will be said by Rev. John Riley of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

BAND CONCERTS

During the afternoon there will be band concerts by the U.S. Marine Corps Band from El Toro Station, Las Gallinas Sanitary District Non-Marching Band, Twelfth Naval District Band from Treasure Island, Novato High School Band and the Guckenheimer Sauerkraut Band.

After the dedication, a luncheon for guests will be held at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael.

The first unit, or administration building of the civic center, is part of a planned four-part complex. Second and third units will house courts, sheriff's department, jail and health department and estimated cost will be five or six million dollars.

Fourth unit will be an 80-acre fairground with amphitheater and lagoon.

By the end of this month, 18 county departments should be moved into the civic center's initial unit.

Adenauer Will Talk To JFK On Berlin

Would Precede Russ Chief

COMBINED UPI & AP

BONN—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer plans to visit President John F. Kennedy in Washington next month for Berlin talks in advance of a possible meeting between Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, it was learned today.

There was no official announcement of the 86-year-old chancellor's trip, but a Foreign Ministry spokesman indirectly confirmed it will take place. The time probably will be late in November.

Reports circulated here two weeks ago that Adenauer wanted to see Kennedy. The Foreign Ministry siad at that time there were no plans for such a trip this year.

WILLING TO MEET

Today, the spokesman said "it is correct to say that this comment no longer stands."

Kennedy has said he would be willing to meet with Khrushchev if the Soviet premier goes to New York to attend the United Nations session. Informed sources said Adenauer wants to confer with Kennedy before the president holds any talks with Khrushchev.

Earlier today Adenauer heatedly defended his Berlin policy against opposition charges that it lacks initiative and does not serve the national interest

NO CHANGES

He said Kennedy and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt agree with him that no basic changes were called for in the handling of the Berlin crisis.

The 86-year-old chancellor unexpectedly strode to the speaker's platform in the Bundestag (Parliament) during a debate on foreign policy after he was sharply criticized by Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the opposition Social Democratic party.

Adenauer said Ollenhauer's attacks went in the face of efforts to maintain a common Berlin and German policy and were made with the knowledge that they could not be fully answered during a full Bundestag session.

DRAKE'S BAY KNOLL

Rep. Miller Grave Site Is Selected

A half-acre knoll overlooking Drake's Bay will become the final resting place of Rep. Clem Miller and the first federal land acquisition for the Point Reyes National Seashore he helped create.

Graveside services for the Corte Madera congressman, killed last Sunday in a Humboldt County airplane crash, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday on the knoll in Bear Valley Ranch, north of Double Point, the congressman's headquarters announced today.

The half-acre has been deeded to the National Park Service by Bruce Kellam, owner of the vast Bear Valley Ranch, under a provision of the Point Reyes National Seashore Act which provides that lands for the national park may be donated.

There on Saturday, the congressman's body will be buried, under direction of Harry M. Williams Mortuary of San Rafael. Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will conduct the service. Congressional colleagues of Miller will be pall bearers.

The body was flown to Hamilton Air Force Base by an Air Force plane yesterday from Arcata, where it had been at a

Murphy Assails Second Deck As 'Hooey,' Wants New Span

Golden Gate Bridge directors will meet as a committee of the whole next week to discuss the possibility of a second deck on the span.

But some directors, particularly Marin director Leland Murphy, think a second deck "is a lot of hooey" and are urging construction of another bridge.

President Matt Graham of San Rafael called the committee meeting for 10:30 a.m. next Friday. It would consider a proposal by the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney for a $60,000 pre-preliminary study of engineering feasibility of a second deck.

But San Francisco director Daniel Del Carlo warned that increasing the number of lanes across the bridge is like "putting two necks on a bottle." Widening the bridge will not be effective unless roads leading to it are greatly improved, he said.

Director Ben Lerer of San Francisco said the bridge management should "take some initiative" in the planning of a second bridge whether it be built by the bridge district or some other agency.

He suggested a special committee of directors be set up to expedite such planning and warned that it would take seven to 10 years to build another crossing.

Murphy stressed that "we need a new bridge, possibly one to carry rapid transit. Let's get it."

The directors also called on their financial adviser, Arthur Young and Co. to produce an overdue special report on how bridge accounting procedures could be tightened. They also heard that September traffic across the bridge had increased four and one-half per cent above the same period last year and revenue had gone up four per cent to a total $425,790 for the month.

Marin's Storm Slacks Off; Mill Valley Festival Canceled

Marin's first heavy storm of the season slacked off last night.

Lighter rain and wind continued last night and today throughout Marin with overcast skies and some rain forecast for tomorrow.

The forecast caused the postponement of the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival, which was scheduled to be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday in the Old Mill Park.

(The announcement was made too late to revise the story on page 40 of today's Independent-Journal, although the schedule will remain virtually the same.)

The festival will be held next weekend, Oct. 19-21.

Heaviest rain was reported in Novato, where a half inch fell during the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today. In San Rafael, rain slacked off to a scant .02 of an inch for a 24-hour period ending at noon today.

Other rain figures taken for fall during the night were Woodacre, .12 of an inch, Mount Tamalpais, .22, and no rain at Point Reyes as of this morning. The Larkspur City Hall recorded 1.6 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today.

Bridge Transit Study Questioned

State officials have questioned the legality of the Golden Gate Bridge Board engineering review committee which turned down the feasibility of rapid transit trains on the bridge.

But the bridge's attorney gives the organization a clean bill of health.

Attorney Jerome B. White told the bridge directors this morning he had received a letter from Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk regarding the affair. Mosk said a complaint had been received from the state bureau of registrations, which administers the civil engineering act on the validity of using engineers not registered in California.

Kennedy Signs Self-Employed Pension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's signing of the self-employed pension bill was interpreted today as a peace gesture to the doctors who opposed his program of health care for the elderly.

Kennedy has been depicted as reluctant to let the measure become law. It permits self-employed persons such as doctors and lawyers to set up tax-eased pensions for themselves and their employees.

The fact that the president wasn't very pleased with the bill seemed to be substantiated by his silence in signing it. The usual White House statement and ceremonies which accompany such actions were conspicuously missing.

Reports of the president's reluctance were so widespread that Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), sponsor of the bill, contributed his efforts toward keeping Congress in session so the measure could be pocket-vetoed.

Recall Of Muir Beach CSD Head Is Demanded

By BRUCE COLEMAN

A conflict over a proposed water assessment district at Muir Beach has resulted in the demand for the recall of Wilbur R. Brown, president of the Muir Beach Community Services District.

The district provides water—labeled by various people as "terrible," "rusty" and "full of iron"—to 42 connections at the tiny seaside community. The petition, with 24 signatures, was filed late Tuesday in the county clerk's office by Muir Beach writer, Charles A. Borden.

The petition asks for recall on grounds that "without advance notice to his constituents he (Brown) abetted in the selection of an engineer and bonding counsel" and otherwise proceeded toward development of a project "which if approved would be a direct tax against the property of a majority of his constituents, and would include among other costs a $12,000 fee for engineering, legal and administrative costs."

It also states that Brown has been "less than diligent in directing and seeing that the present water system is maintained efficiently.

"He acted," the petition reads, "against the interest and request of a responsible and representative group of district property owners by his denial and negative attitude toward a petition presented to the board by 80 per cent of the resident home owners."

The "denial" refers to the stormy meeting of the board Oct. 3 at which time Borden, acting as spokesman, presented a petition to the board asking that the assessment district idea be dropped. The assessment district, the petition said, could lead to a rule by a minority of the largest land owners and "would take control of our indebtedness out of the hands of a voting majority of the members of our community."

A proposal to drop the assessment district was made but it died for lack of a second to Director Leslie M. Anderson's motion.

Brown said today that there was no action by the board because most board members felt that "the other side of the story" should be heard.

A meeting has been set to get all points of view, Brown said, to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the home of Robert Nelson under the sponsorship of the Muir Beach Improvement Assn.

At this meeting, according to Brown, residents will have an opportunity to hear the views of the district's engineer,

Pope Opens Vatican Council

He Says Meeting May Bring World 'Unity Of Mankind'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII, portly, fatherly figure in white, today opened the 21st Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church that he said may pave the way for the "unity of mankind."

With the scene and the 80-year-old Pontiff's words broadcast through space by the Telstar satellite, the Church in a four hour and 38-minute ceremony began the task of attuning itself to the nuclear age.

From the great basilica of St. Peter's the Pope addressed his words to all people as well as the 3,000 Roman Catholic leaders and about 50 observers from other Christian faiths assembled for the conclave.

Pope John spoke for 37 minutes after an inaugural Mass and a magnificent procession of richly-garbed prelates which made its way through St. Peter's Square to the sound of pealing church bells and the cheers of more than 150,000 spectators.

"Long live the Pope," they cried in a multitude of languages.

The traditional Italian language cheer of "Viva il Papa" was repeated inside the Basilica after the Pope's speech.

The Pope, who descended from his portable throne to enter and walk down the aisle of the ancient church converted into a modern council chamber with electronic novelties, was buoyant in the enthusiasm of opening the first Ecumenical Council in almost a century.

Historically, it will be known as the Second Vatican Council, held on the site where the Roman emperor Nero once fed Christians to the lions. It is the largest council in history, with prelates present from 53 countries on the six continents, and the first to be attended by protestant observers.

The Pope set the tone of optimism with his opening words: "Mother church rejoices.

For those of the non-Catholic observers who did not comprehend the ancient Latin tongue, Vatican interpreters mumured discretely the translation in modern languages.

When he finished his address, Pope John gave his apostolic benediction, left his throne, and mounted his gestatorial chair — or portable throne. Then, to the applause of the cardinals, archbishops and other prelates, and the playing of a hymn on the great organ, he was carried out of the basilica.

A few minutes after the ceremonies ended, the Pontiff appeared at the window of his apartment to impart his benediction to 8,000 persons in the square below—including many of the council fathers who had just left the basilica.

The obviously pleased Pope waved his hands and said, "Well, good afternoon." There was a murmur of amusement from the crowd.

Pope John, whose church must face the materialism, secularism, and the atheism epitomized by world communism, confronted the issue frankly in his 4,000-word speech.

"The great problem confronting the world after almost 2,000 years, remains unchanged," he said. "Christ is ever resplendent as the center of his history and of life. Men are either with Him and His church . . . or else they are without Him and against Him."

Those who are against God," he said, "give rise to confusion, to bitterness in human relations, and to constant dangers of fratricidal wars."

At the same time, the Pope made clear Christianity had to keep pace with a world in the dawn of the space age.

The pontiff spoke from a special podium erected before the central altar of St. Peter's which underwent an astonishing transformation to accommodate this 12th Ecumenical Council in almost 2,000 years of Christianity.

Just before he spoke the Russian Orthodox Church announced in Moscow that it would send two observers — Vitali Borovoi, its representative in Geneva, and Vladimir Kotliarov, deputy head of a church mission in Jerusalem.

A handful of churchmen from some of the other communist countries also were able to attend.

Pope John spoke in an obviously optimistic mood.

"We feel we must disagree with those prophets of gloom who are always forecasting disaster, as though the end of the world was at hand," he said.

"Divine providence is leading us to a new order of human relations.

"In the daily exercise of our pastoral office, we sometimes have to listen, much to our regret to voices of persons who, though burning with zeal, are not endowed with too much sense of discretion or measure.

"In these modern times, they can see nothing but prevarication and ruin. And they behave as though they had learned nothing from history. . ."

Pope John said this council would make no changes in Christian doctrine but would take a hard look at the way it is presented.

"Our duty is not only to guard this precious treasure (Christian doctrine) as if we were concerned only with antiquity, but to dedicate ourselves with an earnest will and without fear to that work which our era demands of us, pursuing thus the path which the church has followed for 20 centuries," Pope John said.

"The salient point of this council is not, therefore, a discussion of one article or another of the fundamental doctrine of the Church, which has repeatedly been taught by the fathers and the ancient and modern theologians, and which is presumed to be well known and familiar to all.

"For this a council was not necessary. But from the renewed, serene and tranquil adhesion to all the teaching of this church in its entirety and preciseness . . . the whole world expects a step forward towards a doctrinal penetration and authentic doctrine which however should be studied and expounded through the methods of research and through the literary forms of modern thought."

"One thing," said Pope John, "is the substance of the ancient doctrine."

"And another is the way in which it is presented.

"It is this that must be taken into great consideration, with patience."

Pope John has dedicated his four year reign in a mission to erase outstanding differences between religions.

And not only Christians.

He told vatican authorities to eliminate — and they did — "offensive" references to the Jews in various catholic prayers.

Pope John spoke of tolerance for all. Mankind will understand itself as it gets old with knowledge, he said.

"At the outset of the Second Vatican Council," he said, "it is evident, as always, that the truth of the Lord will remain forever. We see, in fact, as one age succeeds the other, that the opinions of men follow one another and exclude each other, and often errors vanish as quickly as they arise, like fog before the sun."

Treasurer Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed yesterday President John F. Kennedy's nomination of Rep. Kathryn E. Granahan, of Philadelphia, a Democrat, to be treasurer of the United States. She succeeds Mrs. Elizabeth Gatov of Kentfield.

The energy produced by one pound of coal burned in a modern electric generating station is equivalent to the energy exerted by a man working a full week.

Mississippi Faculty Unit Unable To Agree On Students' Discipline

OXFORD, Miss (UPI) — The University of Mississippi faculty senate was unable to agree last night on a resolution demanding disciplinary action against students heckling Negro James H. Meredith.

Firecrackers were exploded by students during the meeting of the 28-member body.

The president of the senate, Dr. Randolph Kinabrew, refused to comment on the resolution but denied there was any "major disagreement" during the two-hour meeting.

Kinabrew said that two resolutions were presented and referred to a special committee for possible consolidation.

It was learned that one resolution called for university officials to take all necessary steps to bring the student body "under the discipline proper to an institution of higher learning, including, if necessary, the expulsion from the university of all students participating in future disorders." The other resolution was believed critical of the university's handling of unruly students.

Earlier in the night, about 100 students gathered in front of the university cafeteria and jeered Meredith when he came out with his escort of marshals after dinner. "Go back to the cotton patch, you nigger," shouted one student. The taunts continued until the Meredith party disappeared from view.

Deputy U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach yesterday turned over to Dean of Students L. L. Love a list of seven students the government accused of participating in the bloody rioting which followed Meredith admission Sept. 30.

Katzenbach said "we have competent evidence" of the group's involvement but the university later said that one of the persons listed "had no connection" with the university.

The Justice Department official said that other names probably would be turned over to school authorities later. He emphasized that the releasing of evidence to the university did not preclude court action against the students.

"We don't plan to limit the names to those involved in the Sept. 30 rioting," a federal spokesman said. He said an effort is being made to get the names of students involved in a rowdy demonstration in front of the cafeteria Monday night.

"We are hoping the university is making its own inquiry and will take appropriate action," he said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Kennedy Signs Postage Hike Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy today signed a bill raising postage rates, and boosting salaries for more than a million federal employees.

Kennedy hailed it as an important step toward putting the postal system on a self-sustaining basis and making federal jobs more attractive.

Among the changes: first class mail will cost five cents, air mail eight cents beginning next Jan. 7.

With legislators who worked on the bill and representatives of postal unions watching, Kennedy put his signature to the legislation in his White House office as the first item on his day's schedule.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Rescue crews still searched for victims today in the wreckage of two international express trains that collided in a fog, killing at least 34 persons and injuring 67 others.

JFK Signs Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy signed into law today the historic trade expansion bill giving him vast power to reduce most tariffs, repeal others and forge economic links with the booming European Common Market.

The special authority to work out economic arrangements with the Common Market is regarded by the administration as the heart of the bill.

The booming six-nation area is looked upon as a potential vast new market for sales of American consumer goods and farm surpluses.

'Justifiable Homicide'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A coroner's jury yesterday cleared actress Saundra Edwards of criminal responsibility in the shotgun death of her actor-boyfriend who threatened to kill her. The jury ruled "justifiable homicide" in the case.

U.S. Nuclear Test Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans to set off another missile-launched nuclear test miles above the Pacific Sunday or Monday.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday that a submegaton device, of less force than a million tons of TNT, would be triggered at an altitude of "tens of kilometers."

Cuban Prisoners Delay

HAVANA (AP) — Negotiations hit a snag last night and the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners was delayed again. But Prime Minister Fidel Castro planned further talks with negotiator James B. Donovan, possibly later today or tomorrow.

Test Ban Failure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Pressure by smaller nations apparently had failed today to bring the Soviet Union and the West any closer to agreement on a nuclear test ban.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made it clear yesterday that the United States and Britain will have nothing to do with another uncontrolled moratorium on nuclear testing as demanded by Moscow and some neutrals.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minpeated the Moscow refrain that the United States just wants international inspections for "espionage" purposes.

Army Assn. Honors Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, which went through lean times while old soldier Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, showed him last night that all is forgiven.

Eisenhower stood before about 2,000 bemedaled soldiers to receive the Army Assn.'s highest award.

The association, a private organization promoting Army causes, conferred on Eisenhower its George Catlett Marshall gold medal, named for the man who plucked him from obscurity and tapped him for the World War II command that made Eisenhower a hero.

5 Children Die In Fire

MODENA, N.Y. (UPI) — Five children of a migrant farm worker died last night in a fire which gutted their temporary home. State police said the youngsters, aged 8 to 17, were asleep on the first floor of the two-story wooden frame building on the Stanley Orchards Farm in this mid-Hudson Valley community. Three others, including two brothers of the victims, escaped unharmed.

Cut In School Time Off For Church Hit

Nearly 150 Catholics and some Lutherans poured into the meeting room of the Dixie School District Board of Trustees last night to protest a proposed cut in time granted district students for outside religious instruction, Supt. Dennie B. Willis reported today.

State law allows school districts to release students after they have completed a minimum school day. The minimum for first through third graders is 200 minutes, for fourth through eighth graders, 240 minutes.

Dixie trustees proposed that students from grades four to eight should remain in school for 30 minutes over the minimum. Students from grades one through three would have been free to attend religious classes if they wished.

John Maurer of 535 Quietwood Drive, Marinwood, representing a lay committee for the Catholic St. Isabella's Church, Terra Linda, said the church completely opposed any reduction in time for religious study.

A representative of the Lutheran Church said his church planned to ask religious instruction time this year and was in accord with the Catholic position.

None of the 150 members of the audience spoke in favor of keeping the students in school for the entire day.

"I evidently wasn't communicating with the lay committee," said Supt. Willis, "I worked with them for a month and thought we had worked out a satisfactory solution."

After a two hour discussion, the board voted unanimously to continue the present policy of granting the released time for this school year. Representatives of the district and churches will begin meeting immediately to establish a permanent policy.

Board members said they will announce the permanent policy no later than February, 1963.

Reviewing a proposed school district reorganization that would combine the Dixie, San Jose, Fairfax, San Anselmo, Lagunitas, Nicasio and San Rafael school districts, board members said they haven't had enough time or information to approve or disapprove the proposal.

They did, however, offer these comments:

1. The area described does not make up a community;
2. It appears to disregard topography;
3. It separates San Anselmo and Ross, which have no natural boundaries.

The board also agreed to slow down its building program by delaying the building of a school on the Miller Creek site. The district has enough schools now, they said, to take care of the students for a while. Grading on the site, however, to be done by O. C. Jones and Co., will begin next week and be completed within 90 days.

The board also approved a land trade of less than an acre off Nova Albion Way with the City of San Rafael. The school adds to the Vallecito School site; the city gets land for an enlarged street.

Ex-Marine's Murder Trial Is Recessed

The murder trial of ex-Marine Claude Hilton Bradley, 32, is recessed until Monday at 10 a.m. in Marin Superior Court.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety called a police sergeant and a 10-year-old girl to the witness stand yesterday to tell the jury how they found the body of Mrs. Carole Leona Frederick, 29, in her apartment last June 3.

The district attorney contends that Bradley, a husky truck driver and handy man, strangled Mrs. Frederick in the bedroom of her apartment at 45 Woodland Avenue. Bradley lived at 36 Woodland Avenue and knew the Frederick family.

A jury of nine women and three men, sitting before Judge Thomas F. Keating, heard from Nadine Schoeps, 10, a neighbor girl, who was staying with the Fredericks that night.

On Saturday, June 2, Nadine said she and her two younger brothers stayed at the Frederick home because their mother, Mrs. Zenaide Schoeps, went to work.

The next morning Gail Frederick, 11, went to her mother's room and came back crying, Nadine testified. They contacted Mrs. Schoeps, who called police.

San Rafael police Sgt. Louis Foster told the jurors he found Mrs. Frederick lying on top of her bed, dressed in a robe.

Remodeling Is Approved For Del Monte Hotel

Sausalito planning commissioners last night told developer F. Bruce Bernhard he can remodel the "deterioriating" Del Monte Hotel at 703 Bridgeway.

A ruling from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan states remodeling is permissible, chairman Mel Wax said today. There had been a question as to whether remodeling could be done since in the past the city had said that if cost of remodeling is more than 50 per cent of the building's value, the entire structure must be brought up to building code standards.

Bernhard plans to reduce the number of hotel rooms by half, said Wax. He had been told by the county health department to remodel or vacate since the four-story structure is considered to be in an advanced state of deterioration.

The commission decided Morris Singer must apply for a use permit to discontinue his Lucky Porky meat department, within the Del Monte Hotel building, and install a 12-stool coffee shop. This would change the use to restaurant use.

Stanley P. Berney of San Francisco was told to apply for a variance from the city council to permit him to place off street parking in an area zoned apartment-hotel for his proposed shop and apartment project near the corner of Bridgeway and Princess Street. Commissioners continued Berney's application for use permit until they see detailed plans of the project.

James Rector Lucas of Orinda was told he must seek a use permit from Sausalito to build a portion of his 73 unit apartment project within city limits. The greater part of the project at Waldo Point would be in unincorporated area.

Commissioners also forwarded their proposal for an interim sign ordinance to council. The ordinance, Wax said, has as its basic principle that signs are for identification rather than advertising. It states that there would be no multi-colored, illumination nor revolving signs permitted and that no illuminated signs be left on after stores closed.

McInnis Wins Bay Decision On Regional Planning Staff

San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis won a decision yesterday by a general assembly of the Association of Bay Area Governments to set up its own regional planning staff and assume responsibility henceforth for overall planning in the nine Bay Area counties.

"This should prevent repetition of any such fiasco as the recent project for a bridge between San Francisco and Tiburon," said McInnis, vice president of the association and chairman of its regional planning committee.

Action of the assembly, meeting all day at the Hotel Claremont in Oakland, was unanimously behind a report submitted by McInnis's committee as culmination of a year and a half of work.

"We expected a hassle but came out smelling like a rose," McInnis summarized.

McInnis said the committee was successful in persuading ABAG to assume responsibility for direction of regional planning in a way which has never been done. The plan will entail retention of a small full-time staff relying a great deal upon field work by city and county planning organizations of the member counties, he said.

Need for such work had been recognized in many quarters, particularly since the recent breakdown of "second bridge to Marin" efforts because of lack of necessary preliminary planning. McInnis said that the San Francisco Bay Transportation Coordinating Committee in seeking four million dollars for a transportation survey of the area had underscored this need.

"But we didn't want to see some super-planning body created," said McInnis. "The solution seemed to be for ABAG to take up the load, though opposition was expected but fortunately didn't materialize."

Part of the expense of the ABAG effort probably will be met by federal and state grants for which application is to be made, he added.

Union School Unit Meetings Change

Meeting night for the Union School District board was changed last night from the second Monday to the second Wednesday of each month, at the school.

This will make the board meeting coincide with the meeting of the Mother's Club, according to Mrs. Eleanor Pomi, clerk of the board.

A three-school Halloween party was planned last night for Union School, starting at noon on Oct. 29. It will be a costume pot-luck lunch party with Lincoln and Laguna schools, Mrs. Pomi said.

mortuary since recovery Monday from the steep mountainside where the small twin-engine plane crashed last Sunday to carry Miller, pilot George Head, 41, of San Rafael, and Head's son Ronald, 14, to their deaths. Funeral services for the pilot and his son were held in Palo Alto, their former home.

The congressman's widow, Mrs. Katharine Miller, and their five daughters are to fly to Marin by Air Force plane from Washington, returning there after the services.

Aboard the same plane, arriving at Hamilton Air Force Base at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, will be Charles Daly of the White House staff, representing President John F. Kennedy; Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Calif.), and Reps. Harold T. Johnson, B. Frank Disk, John J. McFall, Harlan Hagan, and Jeffery Cohelan, all California Democrats. Other congressmen will also be present at the graveside services, traveling to Marin by private transportation.

Never before has a congressman been buried in a national park, according to Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service. But, said Wirth: "Point Reyes will be Congressman Miller's monument. We feel it is only appropriate that his last resting place be on the peninsula he saved for the rest of us and our children."

About 175 persons attended a 25-minute memorial service for Miller yesterday at Bethlehem Chapel in Washington. Beside his widow and daughters; his mother, Mrs. Katherine Miller, and his father-in-law, who is chief justice of the Delaware Supreme Court, those attending included political and governmental dignitaries and friends.

TOLD BLUNTLY TO GET IN POLITICS

School Aides Hear Facts Of Life

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Jerome Waldie, majority leader of the California State Assembly, startled Marin County school administrators last night with some facts of political life.

There were gasps from among the audience of about 70 as Waldie, Contra Costa County Democrat, bluntly told a joint dinner meeting of the Marin County Elementary School Principals and Administrators Assn. at Sabella's Restaurant in Alto that:

1. Classroom teachers within the California Teachers Assn. need to hire their own lobbyist if they want the legislature to believe that CTA speaks for them.

2. The CTA ignored a basic fact of political life by having its bills in a Democratic-controlled legislature introduced by a Republican.

3. Teachers and school administrators had better talk with the legislators of their own districts if they expect to make their problems understood in Sacramento.

On the first point, Waldie pointed out that school administrators, although they belong to CTA, have their own organizations with Sacramento lobbyists, yet the classroom teachers do not.

"It is amazing how frequently the CTA position is in concurrence with the administrators' associations," he said.

Little wonder then, said Waldie, that the Legislature tended to believe the contention of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers that it, rather than CTA, spoke for the classroom teachers.

On the second point, he noted that "for 50 years the nonpartisan CTA has been introducing its bills quite properly through Republican legislators, but it failed to note that the political climate had changed in 1961 and the Democrats now have the majority party in Sacramento."

On the third point, he asked that "everyone present who knows Assemblyman (William T.) Bagley personally raise your hands." He had to repeat the request twice before about one out of 10 raised his hand.

"You also, I might add, should know his opponent," commented Waldie. (Bagley, Republican incumbent, is opposed by Democrat Robert D. Carrow for the Marin-Sonoma Assembly seat in the Nov. 6 election.)

"I think you are going to have to get some political awareness," said the speaker. "Bob McKay (the CTA's veteran lobbyist in Sacramento) cannot speak for you to Assemblyman Bagley the way you can speak to Assemblyman Bagley."

In introducing Waldie, County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis said, "Most of us feel the 1961 legislature was the most disastrous to education in the history of California."

Waldie said the session produced "perhaps some intemperate legislation dealing with education," but defended its major acts as attempts to gain needed reforms.

He said the provision of the Casey Act which requires that 60 per cent of a school district's operating budget be spent for classroom teacher salaries needs some revision to include some other positions which assist the classroom teachers but are not now included in the 60 per cent. But he said he firmly supports the philosophy of that act.

He said the Fisher Act, embodying many recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Education, was amended before passage to eliminate most of the objections raised by the CTA—yet the CTA continued to oppose it.

The primary issue of the next legislature regarding education, he predicted, will be restoration of state aid to school districts, which was reduced last year, "but how that's to be done is going to be a real problem." He said he was opposed to raising the additional funds through the property tax.

Asked regarding school district unification, Waldie declared it is necessary. He said he was one of three members of the Assembly Education Committee who opposed a two-year extension on the deadline for submitting county unification plans, and one of only eight assemblymen who voted against the extension on the floor. Gov. Edmund G. Brown vetoed the extension.

However, Waldie admitted ruefully that unifying school districts "is going to be extremely difficult politically. . . . There are too many little empires that are threatened by this."

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

To Discuss Issues

The Marin branch of the American Association of University Women will hear candidates and discuss issues on the November ballot at a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Ross School.

Republican Assemblyman Bruce Reagan of Pasadena, candidate for state controller, and Robert L. Coate, Northern California chairman for incumbent Controller Alan Cranston, will speak.

Seventh District Assemblyman William Bagley, a Marin County attorney, and attorney Alvin Goldstein, representing Bagley's Democratic opponent, Robert Carrow, also will be heard.

Mrs. Robert Rhoads and Mrs. R. J. Houston, members of the AAUW branch's legislative section, will speak on behalf of the two candidates —for state superintendent of public instruction, Mrs. Rhoads for Max Rafferty and Mrs. Houston for Ralph Richardson.

Mrs. Kenneth Moynihan will review Proposition 1-A, which provides funds for state college and university facilities; Mrs. Hugh G. Marchant will discuss Proposition 4, Mrs. J. S. Detweiler will talk on Proposition 23 and Mrs. Robin A. Galloway on Proposition 24.

The meeting is open to the public.

Coakley Meeting

"Marin Swings to Coakley," a party honoring Thomas Coakley, Republican candidate for state attorney general, will begin at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at 1 Main Street, Tiburon.

Coakley will attend the gathering, open to the public for ticket donations of $1, to discuss issues in the campaign.

Cranston To Visit

State Controller Alan Cranston will visit Marin County next Monday, on a tour which will take him through northern Mendocino County that night.

Cranston, Democratic candidate for re-election, will speak on the present and future state of business in California before the San Rafael Rotary Club at noon at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant. He will address the Mill Valley Awareness Group at 2 p.m. before driving on for a rally in Sonoma County.

His talk to the Rotarians will be heard over radio KTIM Monday at 6 p.m.

Prohibition Party

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "I lay awake three nights in a row trying to decide whether to vote for Brown or Nixon," said Dr. Robert L. Wycoff. "I felt I could vote for neither so I decided to run myself."

In a news conference yesterday, Wyckoff, 35, a Glendale attorney running for governor on the Prohibition Party ticket, said, "I am a definite underdog, but I believe I have a chance."

The Prohibition Party has a registration of 4,824 voters for the Nov. 6 election.

Busterud Charges

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sparks flew in the California political campaign today from an angry exchange in a previously quiet contest — the race for state treasurer.

State Treasurer Bert Betts, a Democrat, last night denied a charge by his Republican opponent, Assemblyman John Busterud of Santa Rosa, that two of his aides were guilty of conflict of interest.

Busterud, in a capital news conference yesterday, said Asst. Treasurer Santine Mee and his predecessor, E. Lee Friedrich used their positions to sell promotional stocks in corporations dealing in bank stocks.

He said this was a conflict of interest because California deposits its funds in banks throughout the state and the treasurer is the man that selects the banks.

In other developments:

1. Gov. Edmund G. Brown got into an argument with a Republican leader over a fishing trip the governor took on an oil company president's yacht.

2. Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R-Calif.) returned from Washington and launched his campaign for re-election against State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles.

3. Brown's mental hygiene director, Dr. Danial Blain, blasted Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for governor, for saying he would cut $6 million from the state budget "by not allowing derelicts to use state institutions as winter resorts."

But the ruckus over Busterud's charges created the biggest stir.

"We have scrupulously avoided any conflict of interest during my administration as state treasurer," Democrat Betts said.

"The false charges of my opponent serve only to again disclose his lack of knowledge and complete ignorance of financial affairs concerning the treasurer's office."

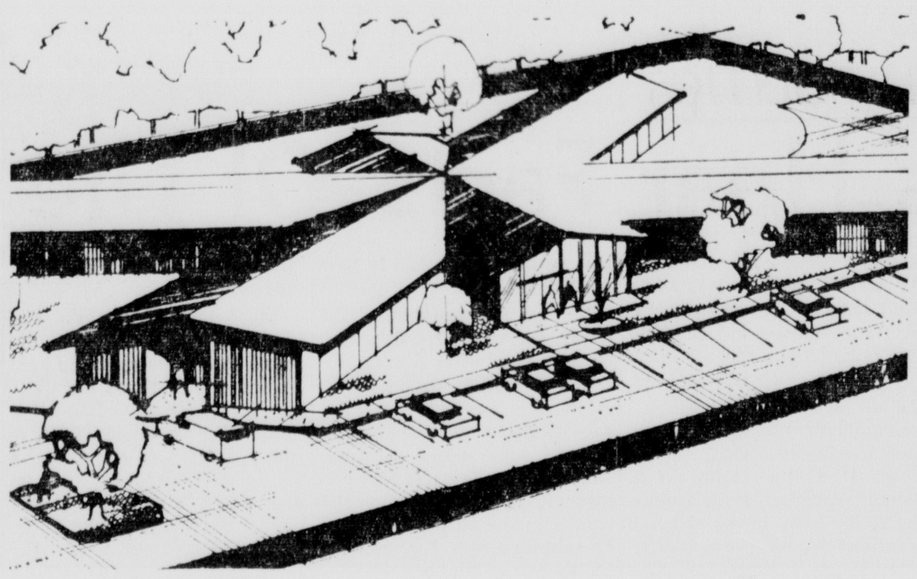
Corte Madera Park Job Let

A contract for returfing the first portion of the Corte Madera town park was awarded by the town council yesterday to A. and J. Shooter of San Rafael for $21,387, lowest of four bids.

Provision was made for seeding and turfing as well as six months maintenance on an area totaling 234,000 square feet, including the softball diamond.

The council also adopted a memorial honoring the late Rep. Clem Miller.

This was an adjourned regular meeting and the next regular session will be at 7:30 p.m. next Monday.



NEW CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL FOR NOVATO—Construction on this Novato Convalescent Hospital projected for a two-acre site on Tamalpais Avenue between Center and Novato Boulevards is expected to begin next week. The buildings were designed by Bond and Dougherty of Vallejo and will be of frame, stucco and stone construction.

Car Stolen From Nave Lanes Lot

A car vanished from the Nave Lanes parking lot in Ignacio last night, the owner complained to the sheriff.

Airman Carl S. Gray of 78th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base, said he had parked his 1953 convertible about 8 p.m. Two hours later, the car was gone.

The vehicle is a Chevrolet, white top and green body, with license number LBU 767.

Bolinas-Stinson Unit Due Social Studies Talk

Teachers of the Bolinas-Stinson Union High School District will explain how social studies are taught in the district at a board meeting to be held Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. at Bolinas School.

Trustees met last night and discussed possible tree planting around Bolinas School but took no action. It was noted, clerk Arthur E. Carpenter said, that the storage shed and new wiring circuit at Bolinas School have been completed.

Construction To Begin On Hospital Facility At Novato

Construction will begin next week on a $300,000 convalescent hospital on Tamalpais Avenue, Novato, between Center and Novato boulevards.

Developers of the project are Emil and Lydia Yanke, former operators of the Rafael Nursing Home in Santa Venetia and now living in Lodi. They also built the Center Medical Hospital opposite Terra Linda.

Yanke said the new facility will have a 70-bed capacity and offer complete nursing service and will be leased and operated by Frederick F. Babo and Associates, San Rafael.

It is being designed to handle patients in three categories: Post-operative convalescents, the chronically ill requiring special nursing care and geriatric patients.

The building contractor is Maurice Ray Jr. of Lodi. Completion is expected by next March.

$12 Theft From Taxi

Theft of $12 in change from a coin changer in a taxi cab parked in front of 4 G Street, San Rafael, was reported to police yesterday by Louis J. Milani, owner of the San Rafael Yellow Cab Co. Milani said the coin changer was placed under the front seat of the cab.

TWO FIGHTS LOOM FOR LEGIONNAIRES

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—American Legionnaires entered the final day of their annual convention today with two sprightly fights in view—school prayers and commander's election.

The school prayer issue popped up yesterday when a resolution committee suggested asking Congress for a constitional amendment allowing prayers in public schools.

When a spirited battle broke out, Legionnaires tabled it until today. They said the less than one-third representation of the 3,015 eligible voting delegates was insufficient.

The resolution would ask Congress to "enable spoken prayer of a free and voluntary nature to be said in any and every location and place, including public schools, where citizens of the United States may gather."

Rabbi Robert I. Kahn of Houston, Tex., former national chaplain of the Legion, warned the delegates they were playing with fire."

The national commander's election between James Powers of Macon, Ga., and Joseph Matthews Fort Worth, Tex., looms as the closest in 14 years in the three-million member Legion.

Powers is the candidate of an informal but powerful selection committee. Matthews is the first serious challenger to the committee choice since 1948.

Backers of the committee claim Powers still will win by a 2-1 majority or more. The Matthews camp says its opponents may be surprised by large defections in such states as Pennsylvania, Missouri, Kansas and Cailfornia.

Novato Woman Kicked By Horse

Mrs. Gladys Johnston of 1530 Indian Valley Road, Novato, was in the hospital today with possible rib fractures suffered last night when a horse kicked her.

Hospital officials said she also suffered a puncture wound of the thigh. She was reported in good condition this morning at Novato General Hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Wiggins was called to investigate the accident about 7:30 last night.

A nurse at the hospital said Mrs. Johnston apparently had been leading one horse when another horse kicked her.

Demo Meeting Off

An "issues conference" scheduled by the Marin Democratic Assembly for Saturday at College of Marin, has been canceled because of the funeral of Rep. Clem Miller, Mrs. Jules Becker, chairman, announced today.

Muir Beach Recall Of CSD Head Demanded In Conflict Over Water

Watson S. Clifford, and its attorney, Edwin V. Ness.

"Muir Beach has the poorest water in the state," Brown said. "It's rusty and untreated well water. It requires treatment and it's the prime duty of the board to work to improve it."

County Health Officer William L. Desmond, who says his department takes samples of the water monthly, added that though the water system is substandard, it is not unsafe from a health standpoint.

"The water is high in iron content," he said, "having 30 parts per million, almost like a flat iron. It's terrible. It's not brackish, however," he said. Desmond also said he is personally well acquainted with the district which has "water lines sticking out of the streets. . . . There is an awful lot to be desired. . . . They are out of water sometimes for days at a time."

Deputy County Counsel Richard Godino said today that he estimates that if the petition is found to be sufficient, a recall election could be held between 90 and 100 days.

District Secretary William Hunt said that Mrs. Charles Graham has plans to file for nomination to Brown's post if he is recalled.

Muir Beach residents yesterday received letters signed by Oliver McMillan, board vice president, entitled "Open Letter to Charles A. Borden."

The letter charged Borden with having "created an atmosphere of suspicion and mistrust which threatens not only any hope that Muir Beach will ever have good water but even the continued existence of the present inadequate system."

It stated there is only one major question: "Do the people of Muir Beach wish to have good water, supplied in adequate quantity and at pressures sufficient not only for domestic use but for providing badly needed fire protection."

It also listed five "assinities." They are, in brief form, that Borden tried to convey that the assessment district is undemocratic, that Borden raised fears that pumping tests on the present well might result in salting of the well, that Borden claims the district has been advised that any further development of the present well site is inadvisable, that Borden maintains that planned development on former Weil property will obtain special advantages out of the proposed water improvement program and, lastly, that Borden conveyed the impression that "by withholding water the community of Muir Beach can prevent development in the area."

Borden, answering the letter yesterday, said "in order not to obscure the basic issue behind personal ones I will not dignify the attack on my integrity by reply.

"Everyone in the community should give the open letter quiet thought, to consider the statements made by the land developer and by the board, then make their own decisions."

Development Firm Moves

San Rafael Associates, Inc., a real estate development firm, has moved its offices from 1405 Fifth Avenue to 1800 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The firm has been active in developing many Marin County properties, principally in the construction of apartment houses, during the past three years. Recent projects have been the Sherwood Oaks Apartments in Fairfax and the Colonial Apartments under construction near Terra Linda.

Zunich Realty, which has acted as the firm's leasing agent and has shared office space with it at the Fifth Avenue address, has also moved to the new location.

No Tomales Meeting

The Tomales Bay Union School District board did not meet last night, but will meet some night next week after Roy Parks, who represents the Tomales High School District, returns from the State Board of Education meeting in Oceanside this weekend, according to Merle Lawson, chairman of the board.

LUCKY TO MOVE TO MARIN

Mrs. Glenn Osika started off her residence in Marin County with a good omen. She filled in an entry blank at Dexter Car Co., San Rafael, and won a 1953 four-door Dodge sedan. Here she is shown receiving the keys to her prize from sales manager Ronald Goode. A. L. Nieri of Crocker-Anglo National Bank, San Rafael (right) drew the lucky number. Mrs. Osika and her husband recently moved to Marin from Alaska and have purchased a home in Novato.

Larkspur Council Votes To Make Streets, Drainage Major Project

The Larkspur City Council last night took first constructive action on a 1961 five-year projection by City Mgr. Ronald E. Piper and a citizen committee report on it by voting to make improvement of streets and drainage a major city project.

The motion by Councilman Neil R. Brixon favoring the work on a pay-as-you-go basis passed 4-to-0, Mayor James J. Lienkaemper dissenting.

The mayor favored taking action on all needed improvements, not just the items the motion cited. Other councilmen indicated they preferred taking up other points in the report later.

The citizens committee report urged that:

1. The council consider earmarking specific sources of revenue for secondary street improvements and drainage repairs;

2. Remaining marshland be reserved for "highly controlled light industrial, administrative and professional or quality apartment" development;

3. Consideration be given to rezoning of some older single residential areas to apartment use;

4. Possibility of combining fire protection with the Kentfield fire district be considered;

5. The council consider "updating of the report every two years to assure the city is keeping abreast of any changes."

The council resumed its public hearing begun last week on the proposed new zoning ordinance, which the mayor praised as "a monumental effort."

Greenbrae developer Niels Schultz Jr. said from the floor he would "like to keep the door open for restricted and high density apartment construction," which he said made for lower city maintenance costs.

"Concluding the 45-minute renewed public hearing, the council returned the ordinance to the planning commission for one specific change: the provision voted last week that nonconforming signs be removed after three years instead of one year.

The Larkspur council also:

1. Reached policy decision that the planning commision may approve subdivision maps submitted for condominium apartments, clearing the way for approval of a condominium built by Heiman-McCall in Bon Air subdivision 4.

2. Voted 3-to-2 against a League of California Cities recommendation to increase the state gasoline tax by one-cent for roads. The vote was a defeat of a motion by Councilman Daniel Allen, seconded by Neil B. Brixon. Mayor Lienkaemper said the freeway program "has to level off somewhere."

3. Heard comment by Piper that secondary road improvements would cost $12,800 per year "plus all gas funds" and the city has only $4,000 budgeted for this; and storm drainage would come to $5,000 with only $4,000 budgeted.

Film On Moose Lodge To Be Shown In Novato

Prospective charter members of Novato's new Loyal Order of Moose Lodge may watch a movie about the lodge and talk to state membership director Jack Torrenga at a dinner meeting next week.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Cloud Five restaurant. Dr. Donald W. Lannan, publicity chairman, said that since the lodge has nearly enough applicants to obtain a charter, residents interested in being charter members should apply. Dinner reservations may be made with Lannan.

Larkspur To Lay Out City Park

After 33 minutes of see-saw discussion the Larkspur City Council last night in a 3-to-2 vote allotted the recreation commission $1,500 for planning consultant fees to lay out a 42-acre city park.

Councilman Lesly A. Daveler's motion, seconded by Councilman Neil R. Brixon, was opposed by Councilmen Robert J. Smith and Daniel Allen.

Smith wanted to delay until November.

The park will be situated in filled land, presently containing a county dump, between Doherty Drive and Corte Madera Creek.

Before the vote Brixon said he agreed with Smith's plea for delay and fellow councilmen appeared to agree. Then Daveler made his motion and Brixon switched his position.

Asking for action, recreation commissioner Peter Krug said the commission might as well disband if it had nothing to do.

School Unification Foes Speak Tomorrow

Bonnie S. Short of Inverness and Suzanne G. Baty of Point Reyes will speak before the State Board of Education in Oceanside tomorrow against the proposed school district reorganization proposal for the Tomales High School District area.

Mrs. Short will represent the West Marin Citizen's Committee for Better Education, which opposes the proposed plan. She said the board is expected to vote on the plan tomorrow.

RUSSELL W. BERNHARD
Parade in his honor

Academy Trustee Head Told

Cadets of the San Rafael Military Academy will participate in a dress parade at 4 p.m. Sunday to honor Dr. Russell W. Bernhard of San Rafael, elected president of the academy trustees Tuesday.

Dr. Bernhard succeeds Paul Ciampi, also of San Rafael, who is retiring after 12 years of service to the academy.

Re-elected to positions on the academy board were Roy A. Ibach of Mill Valley, vice president; Don Corey of San Rafael, secretary and Dr. Glenn W. Anderson of San Francisco, treasurer.

The annual parent-faculty tea sponsored by the Academy Mothers' Club will be held Sunday.

The parade and an open house from 2 to 4:30 p.m. will be open to the public.

Less than half of the 15.7 million Californians counted in the 1960 census were born outside the state.

Fairfax Parking Ban Held Up Temporarily

Enforcement of Fairfax's all-night parking ban, which went into effect yesterday, will be held up temporarily, it was announced today.

Mayor W. E. Radtke said City Atty. Wallace S. Myers is studying an amendment to the parking ban ordinance providing six-month permits for "hardship cases" to see how it can be made an emergency measure.

First reading of the amendment was held by the council Monday night. As passed by the council, without an urgency clause, the amendment would not go into effect until Dec. 13—one month after the council had intended it to take effect.

The council, in previous discussions, according to Radtke, "had intended that it be an emergency ordinance" to take effect at the same time police started issuing tickets after a one-month warning ticket period.

Police Chief James Orr said today that his officers would not issue warning tickets as it would be a "waste." He said he would wait until the ordinance is clarified, possibly at a special meeting.

Grindstone Finally Gets Delivered

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A grindstone ordered in 1898 was delivered the other day — 64 years late.

The late W. Gibson, of Bunbury, 114 miles south of Perth, ordered the grindstones at a local store. It was being brought from England in the barque Sepia which sank in 1898 just off the West Australian coast.

Old files showed it had been ordered by the Gibson family, and the barnacle-encrusted grindstone was delivered to the late Mr. Gibson's 77-year-old son.

Hearing To Suspend Bar License Continued

A hearing by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Department on possible suspension or revocation of the liquor license of Oscar's, 114 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, was tentatively continued today until Nov. 19.

Owner of the bar, Beatrice D. Williams, has been charged by the ABC with selling liquor to minors. The hearing will be held in Painters' Hall, San Rafael. It was originally continued last July for today.

DON'T COUNT THEM OUT

Foreign Stock Holders Have Some Effect On Wall Street

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—In judging which way the stock market is likely to jump don't count out the foreign holders of American common stocks.

What they think of the prospects for good or bad times ahead in the United States—the chances of higher profits or of a profit squeeze, the outlook for capital gains or losses, and particularly their views of individual companies—can have important, if limited, effect on prices on Wall Street.

Foreigners hold U. S. common stocks valued currently at nearly 12 billion dollars. Any crisis selling—like that at the time of the Suez Canal pinch on Europe's economy — might be felt in American exchanges.

Usually foreign assessment of the situation here lines up pretty much with American investors' ideas. But the view from a distance sometimes can be different. In recent months Europeans have been quite free in offering Washington advice on how to handle its monetary and trade policies.

And what Europeans, Canadians and others think of how the American economy is shaping up could be important in setting some future stock market trends.

Americans, in turn, hold some 11 billion dollars in common stock of foreign corporations. In the last few years the volume of these holdings has fluctuated more than has that of foreign investment in American ventures.

U. S. investors woke up late to the opportunities offered by a revived European economy. And recently they have been disappointed in the downturn of European stock prices, like those of American stocks, and have cut their holdings.

International bankers cite the 12 billion dollars of U. S. stocks held abroad and the 11 billion dollars of foreign stocks held here to point the moral that today the financial communities of the world are perhaps as closely tied as are the international political policies.

While stock investments are the easiest to dispose of, direct investment by foreigners in American business also play an increasing role in the U. S. economy. Such investment — foreign controlled enterprises here like Shell Oil, Lipton, Lever Brothers, Bowater Paper—has increased in value threefold in the past 20 years. It now totals 7.5 billion dollars.

MARINITE HONORED FOR TRADE AID

James Campbell of 40 Clorinda Avenue, San Rafael (right) was given the Officers' Cross of the Order of Merit by Dr. Franz Breer, German consul-general in San Francisco, for aid to German trade in his capacity as superintendent of the Foreign Trade Zone in San Francisco. During the past 14 years Campbell played an important part in introducing such German products as the Volkswagen, German stainless steel, and Bavarian pottery.

Mabel Hubbard Bell, the wife of inventor Alexander Graham Bell, was the first woman patron of aviation. She backed the Aerial Experiment Assn., which was organized in 1907 to build and test early aircraft.

Car Dealers Report No Adverse Comments On New Body Styles

If there is any one thing auto dealers seem to agree on this year—regardless of makes and models—it's the marked absence of adverse comments on body styles. So manufacturers must have arrived at a new milestone in designing.

Jack Hunt in San Rafael finds it so in the Chrysler and Plymouth lines. Chrysler Motors, he believes, has corrected what was considered objectionable in 1962. Big interest here seems to be in Chrysler's 300 hardtop. Opening days of the 1963 run have started off favorably, he reports.

New Mill Valley Chrysler and Plymouth dealer James L. Walker, Inc., reports a gratifying turnout since its recent opening. Activity has been brisk in all lines and the outlook is for heavy Valiant sales in particular.

Emil Bettini of Bianco Motors, San Rafael, claims "Americans love to look at cars, especially at the beginning of the season." We've also found that true—the same faces at different showrooms on the same day. It's a pastime for many. No lack of customers at Bianco's apparently. Sales of Cadillac, Pontiac and Tempest outpaced 1962 introductory days.

But Jim Riggins, sales manager at Scripture Oldsmobile, San Rafael, felt the lookers were fewer. "However, those who came in were mostly buyers," he commented, "and that's what counts. The whole line was active. As for styling, people seem to go for the impression of size and room in a car. If they're going to spend a buck they want something to show for it." He thinks the World Series reduced the numbers of lookers.

Don Collins of Stenstrom Buick, San Rafael, reported both crowds and initial sales, attributing some of the interest to Buick's new Riviera. "It was the best introductory showing we've had," he said, and sales are cruising. That's a good sign—for 1962 was the best sales year we had since 1955. Collins finds heavy interest in the Skylark hardtop coupe.

The World Series also gets blamed by Emil Bugna for taking some of the edge away from initial car looking, though apparently it hasn't been serious enough to actually crimp Lincoln-Mercury-Meteor-Comet sales.

by "I've been just as distracted by it as everyone else," he admitted. "After this if we win the pennant we might just as well close down for the playoffs and then we can get back to serious business."

GOOD START—After just four months, Novato Savings and Loan Assn., has passed the one-half-million-dollar mark in deposits.

DR. EDWARD M. LEWIS of Fair, Isaac and Co., computer consultants and a resident of Los Ranchitos, will address a technical session of the Oakland East Bay chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants tonight on data processing history and new developments.

JACK G. FRANK and J. Harry Goff of San Rafael will attend a New York Life career conference in Cottage Grove, Ore., Oct. 15-17. . . . Kenneth A. Thorp of Ignacio, assistant manager of Pacific Mutual Life's San Francisco agency, has been awarded the Chartered Life Underwriter designation by the American College of Life Underwriters.

San Rafael Rec Classes Offered

Classes in natural science, puppetry and folk dancing will be offered to San Rafael students beginning this month by the San Rafael Recreation Department.

"Science Explorations" is a new program to be offered to a limited number of fifth graders Tuesdays and sixth graders Thursdays, both days from 3:45 to 5 p.m. First class is Tuesday, Oct. 22, in the science building at Santa Venetia Junior High School. Students may register by calling Dennis Sullivan at the recreation department.

The puppetry class, to be held Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3:45 to 5:30 p.m., in the multipurpose room at Santa Venetia Junior High School, is open to students 8 to 13 years old. Mrs. Nicole Smith will instruct in the making of puppets. Folk dancing will be taught from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m. Fridays in the same place by Mrs. Joanne Newcombe. Ages 8 to 12 years.

GOBLINS, GHOSTS WILL PARADE AT GREENBRAE

Goblins, ghosts and other strange characters will parade for prizes Oct. 30 in Greenbrae.

The Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. today announced prizes for the best costumes will follow a Halloween parade for pupils of Greenbrae School. The line of march will be from Eliseo Drive and Via La Cumbre to the school, with the procession scheduled to move at 6:15 p. m. Refreshments will be served at the school.

Third annual harvest ball of the association will be held Oct. 20 at Corte Madera Recreation Center. Burt Milo, chairman, said he expected 250 to 350 to attend.

No Greyhound Fare Increase For Marin

Marin County and the Bay Area generally won't be affected by an otherwise statewide increase granted Western Greyhound Lines by the State Public Utilities Commission.

Favorable action by the commission yesterday, company officials estimated today, will produce around $931,200 a year as offset to a cost increase of $1,183,700 annually caused by pay increases effective last March 1.

First Aid Course

The American Red Cross chapter in San Rafael will begin a standard first aid course at 7:30 p.m. today with Ensare Claudio instructing. Persons wishing to register for the five-week class may do so through the chapter at 712 Fifth Avenue.

Who To Sue If House Is Faulty?

New Legal Theories Helpful

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you buy a home, and the thing cracks down the middle, whom do you sue?

The contractor: Sure. But who else?

According to recent legal theories—either promulgated or pending—California home owners may also hope to benefit by suing:

The building inspector who approved the job.

Or, perhaps, the savings and loan firm which financed it.

A January, 1961, California State Supreme Court decision lets suits be filed against governmental agencies not only for negligence of their employees but also for badly administered building codes.

And the state's savings and loan firms are watching a case known in Los Angeles court files as Eilkin vs. Conejo Valley. In it an attorney is seeking to have a lending agency held responsible for damages which occurred to homes it financed.

Conejo Valley has become a prime legal battleground in the issue of homeowners' suits because so many homes there have suffered damage.

The valley lies in Ventura County near the Los Angeles County lines. More than 400 homes were built there in 1959, most of them in the $15,000 class. Since then 40 owners have complained of such damages as:

Floor slabs which cracked, making more than one home a house divided.

Pipes which cracked in the slab, flooding interiors and exteriors with water.

One toilet which cracked right down the middle. So did the bathroom.

Home owners, headed by Thomas B. Eilkin, hired Los Angeles attorney Jerrold A. Fadem to represent them. After filing suit against the subdividers, Eilkin amended his complaint to include Great Western Savings and Loan Assn. of Los Angeles.

His contention:

"Great Western, by reason of its deep involvement in the tract—by financing it completely, exercising control over what was built, how the tract was laid out, ect.—is not a mere lender of money, but a joint venturer, and is liable as a partner for everything the subdivider did."

Great Western still hasn't officially replied to the charge, and no date has yet been set for the trial of the complex case. But officials of savings and loan firms are giving it considerable thought.

"I think we can safely say that if this contention is proved legally it will set a precedent in the state," said Fadem.

The State Savings and Loan Commission is already reported to be looking into somewhat the same matter—the fact that savings and loan firms are getting more and more involved in the development of land.

However, Great Western vice president Elwood A. Teague insists that the Conejo Valley has no connection whatever with the state's investigations.

"Our position in the entire matter has been strictly that of a lender," he said. "It is ridiculous for anyone to allege that we had any connection with the construction of homes."

Meantime, governmental jurisdictions are doing some apprehensive watching.

Since the California Supreme Court's 1961 decision, some two million dollars in suits have been filed each month against the state alone. Not all, of course, are homeowners' suits. Many are traffic matters.

The State Legislature has passed a moratorium on the trying of such suits, postponing hearings until 91 days after the close of the 1963 legislature.

Suits may be filed in the meantime, however. So far there have not been any filed against Ventura County, which surprises some viewers of the embattled Conejo Valley scene.

The county, although admitting it was shorthanded in the building inspector department, contends that inspectors who studied the Conejo Valley work enforced all the codes, the way they now stand.

County Public Works Director M. C. Lorenz has said he can find no evidence of delinquency by inspectors or builders.

"A county building permit," Lorenz said, "is not a guarantee that you will make a good purchase or one on which you can make a profit.

"The code is based on the police power to provide physical protection against an inadequate structure which might collapse on you and kill you.

"A cracked slab may be an economic loss but it cannot collapse and injure you physically."

The county says the trouble was a type of soil which shifts easily.

Nevertheless, County Department of Public Works is now investigating its own codes—to see if the codes, like the soil of Conejo Valley, need strengthening.

WHOSE FAULT IS THIS?—A housewife in the Conejo Valley section of northwest Los Angeles displays an unwanted crevice in the concrete slab of her home. Defects have appeared in other homes in the area and homeowners are suing. (AP Wirephoto)

Father Hurt In Fight With Son

A Greenbrae father suffered a possible broken ankle and concussion last night in a fight with his son, Sheriff's Deputy Wade R. Powell reported today.

The victim was Creighton Grant Thompson, 47, of 114 Bretano Way, who went to Marin General Hospital with a swollen face, black eye, bleeding nose, and swollen left ankle.

Thompson's wife, Helen Elizabeth Thompson, called the sheriff for help at 8:20 last night. She said she was in the kitchen when she heard a fight start between Thompson and their son, Airman 3/c Bruce Thompson of 78th Field Maintenance Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. Thompson told the officer the son knocked his father down, then kicked him. Thompson told Deputy Powell he did not want to press any charges.

The son was gone by the time the officer arrived. Marin Ambulance took the victim to the hospital.

According to the United States Office of Education, the salaries of public school teachers have risen from an estimated $325 in 1900 to an estimated $5,135 in 1960.

After 10 Years Civic Center Dedication Finally Here

Survived Turbulent History

After a 10-year, sometimes turbulent history, Marin County's multi-million-dollar civic center will be dedicated Saturday.

The initial unit of the center is nearly completed. Construction of the remaining units is not expected to begin for four years.

The idea of a civic center was stimulated in 1952 when the county government began to expand rapidly. The board of supervisors earmarked $1,250,000 for an addition to the courthouse. But construction was delayed at the request of chambers of commerce and other community organizations pending a thorough survey of need. This was conducted by the planning department and special consultants.

The resultant report, made in August, 1952, urged purchase of one of four sites for a government center. It was put to a popular vote, and two choices appeared on the November ballot: To spend 1.5 million dollars to build additions to the courthouse in downtown San Rafael or to spend 3.5 million dollars to buy land and build a civic center somewhere else. Voters emphatically said "no" to both propositions.

More studies were asked by the supervisors. Two citizens' advisory committees recommended purchase of the 140-acre Santa Venetia site. For six months the county held an exclusive option on the property at a price of $237,000. The option expired without action. When negotiations were resumed, the price had risen to $377,000.

Condemnation proceedings were instituted but were held to be improperly prepared and were thrown out of court. A year later negotiations began again, and finally, in April, 1956, the land was bought for $426,168.

Another survey that same year indicated county offices occupied 58,995 square feet when, for efficient functioning, they should occupy over 101,000 square feet.

During 1956 and 1957 the board of supervisors, with the help of department heads, interviewed 24 architects who might design a civic center.

At the same time, a $600,000 courthouse addition was built to satisfy immediate needs of the courts.

Following interviews with architects, the board signed a contract with Frank Lloyd Wright July 30, 1957. Wright came to Marin March 25, 1958, to present his preliminary plans.

First reactions to the plans were either enthusiastic or insulting. They were displayed throughout the county and approved by the board April 28, 1958.

Wright's own comment on his design was: "In Marin County you have one of the most beautiful landscapes I have seen, and I am proud to make the buildings of this county characteristic of the beauty of the county."

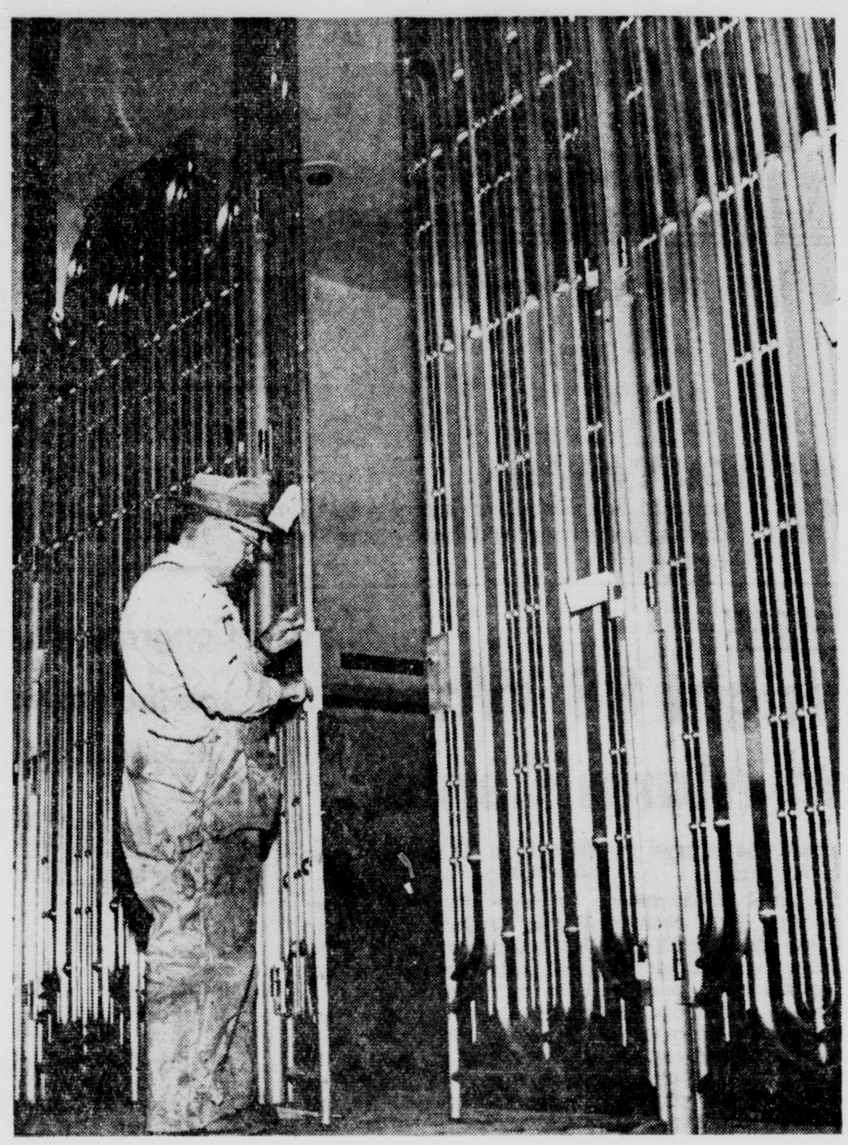
The construction firm of Rothschild, Raffin and Weirick, Inc., submitted a low bid of $3,230,200. Ground was broken in February, 1960, and work began the following month.

Plans for the civic center frequently had rough going at the hands of the board of supervisors, and on Jan. 11, 1961, the famous work stoppage took place. Six days later, 125 workers were pulled off the job, and a study began to consider use of the center as a county hospital.

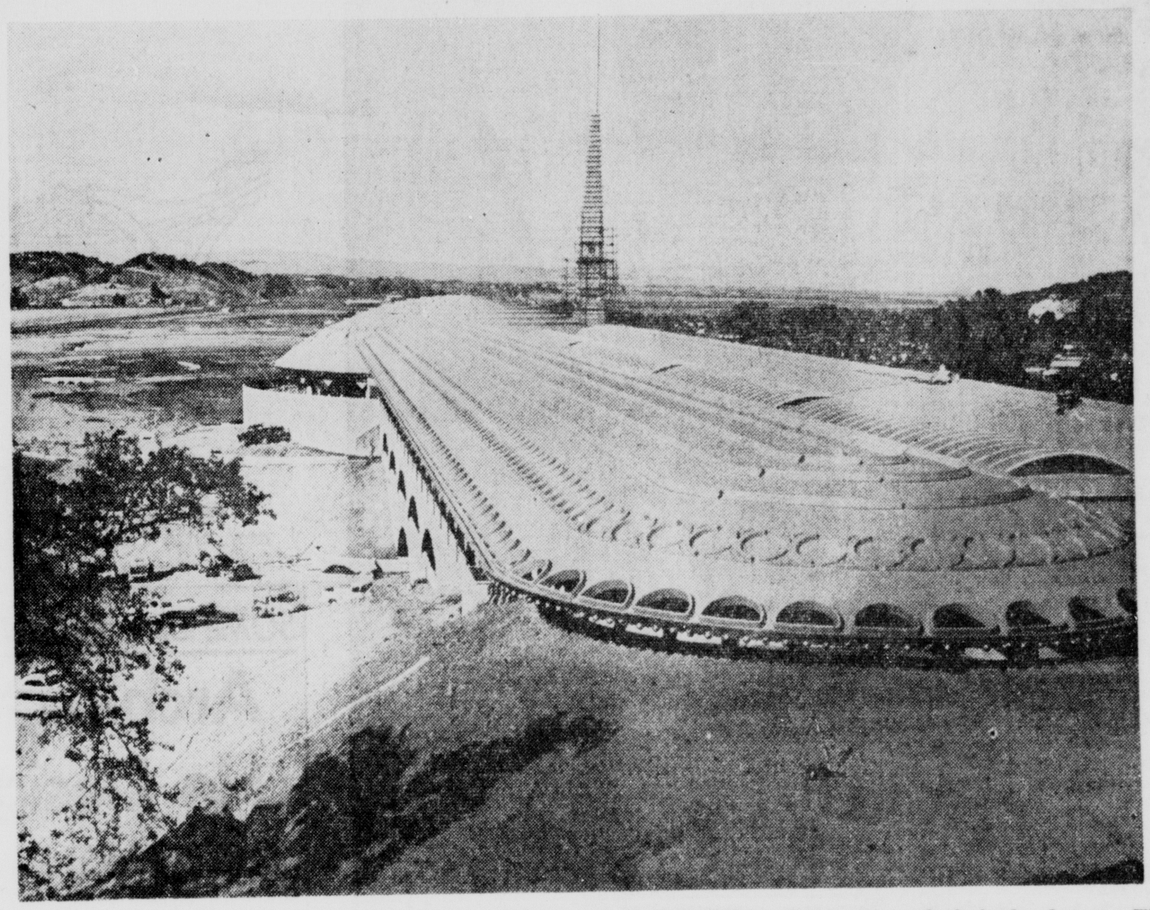
A public opinion poll was conducted by the Independent-Journal, resulting in 8,152 people against the stoppage and 1,225 in favor. Work resumed Jan. 17.

The first unit, or administration building, will be occupied by about half the county's departments. A second unit of identical design will join it to share the rotunda and create a wedge-shaped building connecting three hills. The second unit will house the courts and law enforcement departments.

A third unit will be a separate building to house the county health department. Some work has been started on the adjacent 80-acre fairgrounds site.



GOLDEN GATES—These "gold-aluminum" gates will mark the main entrance to the formidable civic center. Locks on the gates are checked here by O. N. Kringen of San Francisco.



INTEGRATED—The long, curving, sky-blue roof of the civic center is an extension of a hillside, in accord with architect Frank Lloyd Wright's demand that buildings be a part of their landscape. The building may be entered from the ground at any one of four levels. (Independent-Journal photos)

Marinwood Fire Department Open

Marinwood fire department has issued invitations to all children in the community to visit the firehouse, with their parents, to meet "Sparky," the department's 15-week old Dalmatian.

The dog is to be used in fire prevention work at schools, Fire Chief John G. Unsworth said.

Marinwood is holding open house this week at its Lucas Valley station in connection with fire prevention week and is also starting home fire prevention inspections.

Athletic Commissioner Is Named At College

Stephen C. Bryant of Mill Valley has been named student athletic commissioner by the College of Marin student executive council.

Bryant, of 36 Corte Madera Avenue, Mill Valley, was a member of the college's 1961 varsity basketball team.

Civic Center Visitors

The first unit of the Marin County Civic Center is already popular: an estimated average of 200 persons have visited the site every day in recent months in hopes of touring the building. It will be open for public inspection Saturday.

Center Is Example Of Wright's Principle Of Improving Landscape

The Marin County Civic Center, to be dedicated Saturday, is an example of Frank Lloyd Wright's principle of "organic architecture."

Wright declared a good building "makes the landscape more beautiful than it was before that building was built." He also said function should be a first consideration.

Accordingly, Wright's theme of circles in the civic center reflects the contours of Marin's hills. Viewed from the building, the round hills are framed by the same form.

Wright insisted buildings should never be placed "on" hills, but rather "around" them. The roof of the center's first unit forms an unbroken line, emerging from one hill, with the building's arches blending into the hill's contours.

The 700-foot-long building contains three floors with 160,000 square feet of floor space. Offices were planned with movable partitions to permit changes as required.

A highly functional section is the semi-circular second-floor room in the rotunda. The room will seat 204 people. When divided by a folding partition, it will become two soundproof chambers for use by the board of supervisors and the planning commission.

Under the rotunda dome on the third floor, a circular library will be lighted indirectly and book stacks will radiate from the center.

Rotunda space on the first floor will be occupied by a cafeteria that will open onto a 100-foot terrace with a fountain in the center.

At the main entrance, under a great arch, motorists may get out and step on an escalator to the first floor.

A central mall running the length of the building allows natural light through a plastic skylight. The 172-foot tower, which hides boiler stacks, could be used for radio and television broadcasting.

The few colors in the building are "skyblue, clay-toned pink-tan, tile-red and gold-aluminum."

Floors in the building are pre-cast concrete slabs with vinyl asbestos on top.

Balconies run along the entire length of the three levels, five feet beyond the glass-walled interiors.

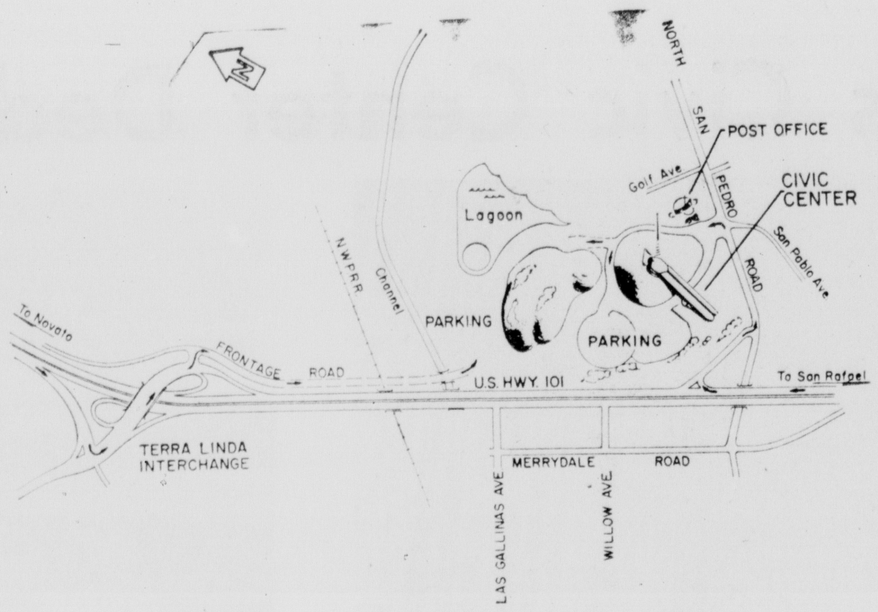
Community Chorus Seeking More Singers

Rehearsals for the College of Marin Community Chorus's Jan. 19 performance of "Elijah" are now in the fifth week and director Dr. S. Drummond Wolff is still seeking more singers.

The chorus now has 95 members, but more are needed, especially tenors and basses. Rehearsals are held at 8 p.m. each Thursday at Olney Hall, where the Mendelssohn oratorio will be staged.

Center Easy To Build

Despite its unusual features, the new civic center was not difficult to build, according to contractor R. B. Rothschild. "The structure is so logically designed from an engineering standpoint," he said, "that it presented no real construction problems. It was challenging but not difficult."



HERE'S WHERE YOU CAN PARK

This map shows location of the new civic center on Highway 101 north of San Rafael, with access to parking areas north and south of the center.

SOME SAY GREATEST WORK

Architect Wright 88 When He Designed Marin Center

Frank Lloyd Wright, the rebellious architect whose name and work created controversy throughout his life, was 88 when he designed the Marin Civic Center, one of his last major works.

He did not live to see final approval of plans for the center.

Preliminary plans for the center were approved in April, 1958. Wright died in Arizona April 9, 1959, when plans were 90 per cent complete, and final plans were approved in November, 1959.

William Wesley Peters, Wright's student and associate for 20 years, directed the completion of plans. He was assisted by Aaron Green, San Francisco architect and representative of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation.

Wright would have denied that the Marin Civic Center was his greatest work—as alleged by some. When asked what he considered his finest achievement, he always answered: "My next."

At the outset of his career late in the 19th century, Wright was considered a radical. When wooden gingerbread was the mode, he advocated simplicity of design. He made free use of modern methods and "glass, steel and the machine." Yet one of his tenets was design which enhanced the natural surroundings.

A native of Richland Center, Wis., Wright scorned popular American architecture but was proud of being an American. His public image was that of an irascible critic, but Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, sister of architect Peters, remembers Wright as warm and friendly in his personal relationships.

During his long career Wright designed more than 700 homes and public buildings, including the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo and the Guggenheim Museum in New York City. He received many honors, including the gold medal of the American Institute of Architects, although he was not a member.

Wright's wife, the former Olga Iovanovna Hinzenberg, will be among dedication day speakers. A co-founder of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, she is a lecturer, teacher and author of books emphasizing the relationship of art and life and the integrated individual.

Charles Catania Performs The Sound Engineering For The Civic Center

The consulting audio or sound engineering for the County Supervisors's Chambers was performed by Charles Catania, who is well known in Marin County as the owner of Catania Sound in San Rafael. Charles Catania has had more than 26 years of experience with sound.

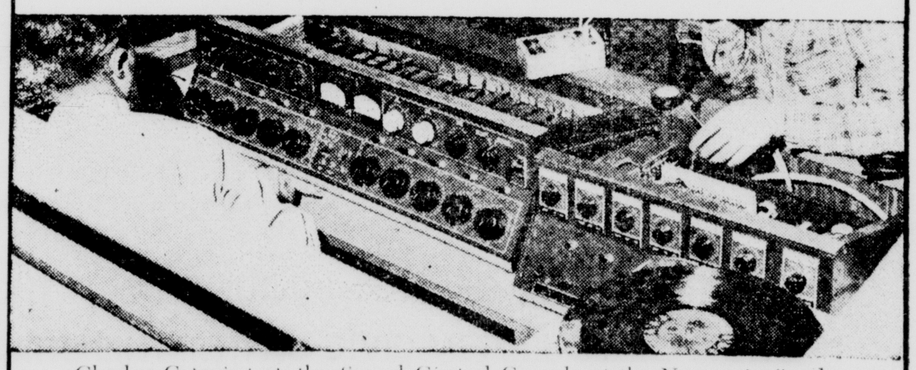
The modern and flexible system designed for the Supervisor's Chambers includes a tall rack loaded with a professional tape recorder, amplifiers, control relays, monitoring equipment, facilities for interconnection to the Planning Commission Chambers and facilities for feeding outgoing broadcast lines.

At the Clerk's position in the Chambers, Mr. Catania designed complete facilities for the remote control of the equipment in the rack which is located in another room.

The clerk can start and stop the recorder, individually control the volume of each microphone, rewind and play back the tape into the chamber, turn on and off the audience microphones, etc.

After discussion with the Supervisors, it was agreed that lavalier microphones should be used, so the design included tiny microphones which can hang from a neck band and yet give complete freedom of movement. At each Supervisor's position Catania engineered a control box with lights and switches to give each Supervisor even more flexibility.

Another outstanding feature of this unique engineering design, is the use of FM Wireless microphones for complete freedom of movement with no wires attached to the sound system and tape recorder.

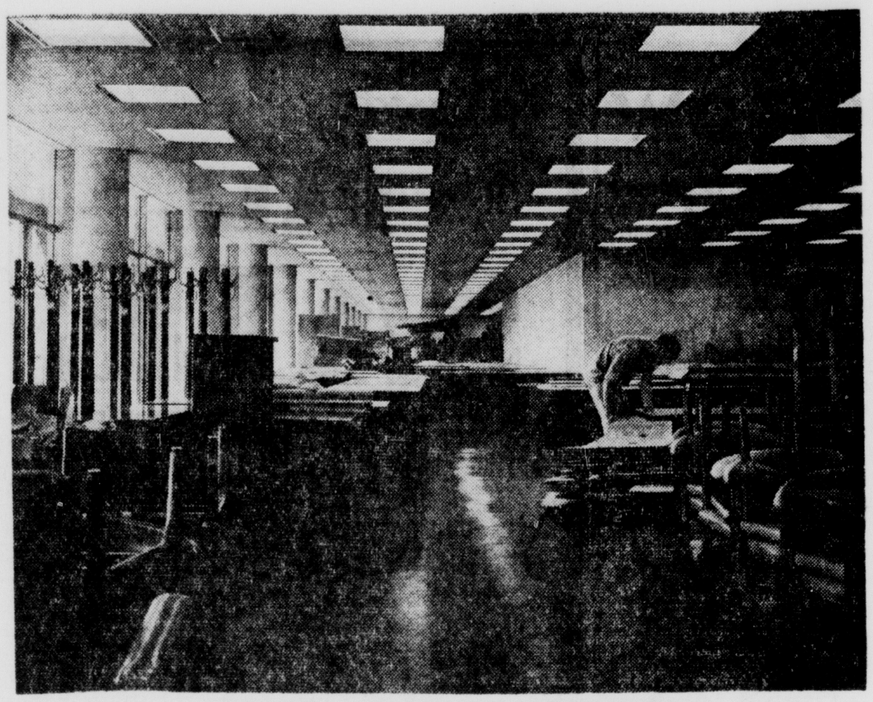


Charles Catania tests the Sound Control Console at the Nugget in Sparks, Nevada. This equipment was engineered and designed by Charles Catania of San Rafael.

Charles Catania's consulting activities have taken him away from our area. He recently designed and engineered the complete sound system for the Nugget Theatre Restaurant, and the gambling casino additions at Sparks, Nevada. The Circus Room, as the restaurant is called, is a Las Vegas type show place featuring top flight entertainment. This Sound System features such elaborate innovations as a time delay unit, an enormous reverberation unit, electronically positioned microphones, and an operator control booth that sits right out in the middle of the Circus Room. An operator mans this sound booth throughout the show.

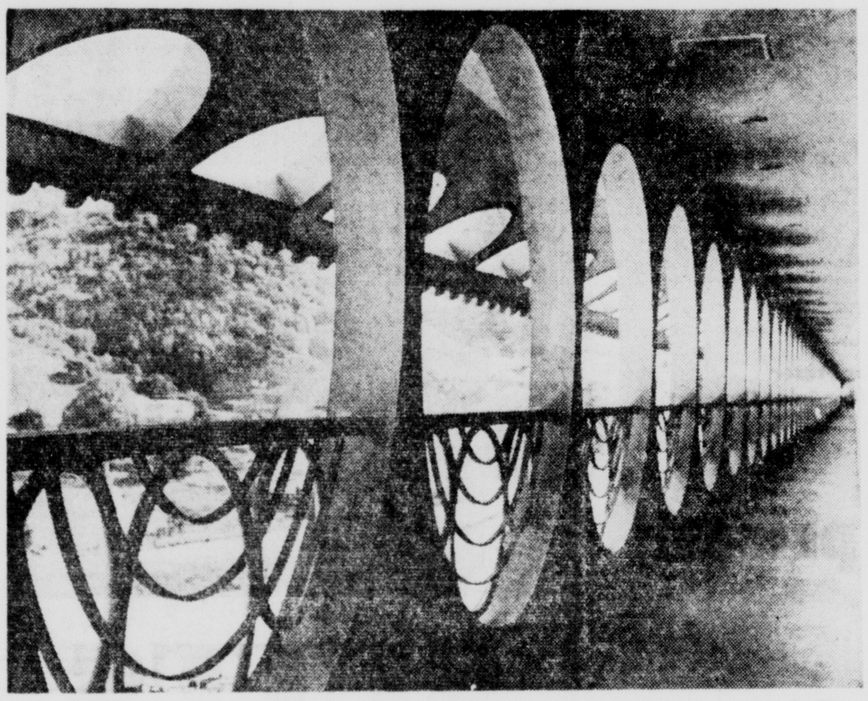
Other engineering jobs handled by Charles Catania are the completely new Sound Column Type Sound System in St. Raphael's church in San Rafael, the City of Oakland City Hall Council Chambers, the Diablo Valley College centralized sound system in their Activities Building, and many others too numerous to mention. At present, Mr. Catania is designing the complete sound system for the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. He is acting as a consultant for a large San Francisco Sound Contracting firm.

As Charles Catania puts it, professional consulting audio electronic engineering is a must for any architectural structure where the spoken word or music is to be used or performed.



SCENES AT CIVIC CENTER

Specially-designed walnut furniture for the civic center was made at state prison workshops in San Quentin and Soledad. Some of it, shown here, will be on display in the building's upper levels for Saturday's dedication.



REITERATION—Facade of the civic center emphasizes Wright's use of circles and half-circles throughout the building. From arches to roof trimming, the design is repeated. Enclosed balconies extend along all levels of the structure. (Independent-Journal photos)

Guide Dogs School For Blind Sets Graduation

An unusually small class of four blind persons will graduate from the Guide Dogs for the Blind Training school in Terra Linda in ceremonies beginning at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on the campus on Los Ranchitos Road.

The March graduating class of three was the smallest in the 20-year history of the school. Other classes this year ranged from five to nine students.

The four who have completed the month's training with their golden retrievers are Mrs. Alice Cox, Ardmore, Okla.; Mrs. Esther, Espinoza, Azusa; Mrs. Faye Langdon, Phoenix, Ariz., and Jack Polston, Huntington Beach.

Those interested may attend the graduation, which will include a guide dog demonstration.

Iron Grating Stolen

Theft of an iron grating, weighing between 400 and 500 pounds, which covered the San Rafael High School incinerator was reported to police yesterday by groundskeeper Louis Magetti. High school officials said the incinerator would be unusable until the grating was recovered or replaced.

2 Hurt In Separate Accidents

A Cotati man suffered a chin cut when his car blew a tire and tumbled from Highway 101 to the Lucas Valley road early today. Just after noon yesterday a Fairfax woman was similarly hurt because of a blowout on Highway 101 north of the Waldo Tunnel.

Basil L. Davidson was northbound at 3:50 a.m. today when his car left the highway after its right front tire exploded just south of the Lucas Valley overpass.

The car careened down the divider section between the northbound and southbound bridges and after traveling 169 feet, tore out some guard rail and then crossed both lanes of the Lucas Valley road. Davidson was treated at San Rafael General Hospital.

Alfreda May Schunk of 17 Taylor Drive, Fairfax, southbound 500 feet from the Waldo tunnel at 12:20 p.m. yesterday, told the California Highway Patrol that her car struck a rock on the roadway and its left rear tire exploded.

The vehicle ran into the bank. Despite her cut chin the driver declined hospitalization.

Fairfax Police Exam

Application forms are available now at the Fairfax Police Department for the position of police officer with the starting salary $515 for the first six months, followed by a raise to $540. The written examination for the position will be given at 10 a.m. Oct. 27 in the council chambers for applicants between the ages of 21 and 35.

Tam Valley Sanitation

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary district directors will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Tamalpais Valley firehouse to discuss a proposed assessment district to install sewers in Fairview Park subdivision. The subdivision is located off Shoreline Highway near West California Avenue.

Speech At Civic Center Dedication To Be Personal Tribute To Wright

The civic center dedication speech by Dr. Theodore A. Gill will be a kind of personal tribute to architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

When Gill was an undergraduate at the University of Wisconsin he met Wright, who was a frequent visitor there. Now president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Gill continues to be an admirer of the work of the world-famous architect.

"Wright was the first truly great man in my young life," Gill says. He recalls Wright, then a resident at nearby Taliesin East, was a dramatic figure whose bold stride and regal air were enhanced by his traditional cape.

Gill was a student of art and philosophy before turning to theology in his senior year, and he followed Wright's career closely. During his world travels, Gill has made special efforts to view most of Wright's creations.

Commenting on his invitation (he was number four) to make the civic center dedication speech, Gill said: "When the committee was unable to get the notables, they decided to turn to home talent. I am not sure that I am 'talent,' but I am at home and I was never more glad that Marin is home than when I went through its magnificent civic center."

Gill, 42, is the fifth president of the 90-year-old theological seminary. He is known for his forthright critiques on the religious, political and social scene. He has expressed his concept of the church's function in such statements as: "I have a deep conviction that before the church can know how to give its answers to the world it has got to listen to the world's questions."

Gill was born in Eveleth, Minn. After his graduation from the University of Wisconsin, he attended Princeton and Union Theological Seminaries and the University of Basle and University of Zurich in Switzerland.

Door-To-Door Crusade Starts Tomorrow

Tomorrow is kick-off day for the 1962 United Crusade residential campaign.

Volunteers are ready to begin door-to-door calls throughout Marin, according to Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon of Kentfield, long-time Crusade leader and this year's residential division chairman.

A week's concentrated drive is planned.

The residential division involves five times more volunteers (about 3,000) than the six other divisions combined, and its quota is by far the largest. This year's goal is $48,085, approximately one-third the county quota of $145,893.

Work in the residential division is the last to start, and follows by several weeks the kick-off in the advance gifts and on-the-job divisions.

"Higher dollar production" in the door-to-door campaign is anticipated by the division chairman.

"I have never seen more enthusiasm or better organization," Mrs. Mellon said, "not even last year when our division went over its quota by more than $5,000.

Crusade agencies, their assigned areas and quotas are:

Catholic Social Service, Greater San Rafael and Santa Venetia area, $6,480; Marin Jewish Community Center, Terra Linda, $1,365; Camp Fire Girls, Greater San Anselmo, $3,500; Marin Aid to Retarded Children, Oak Manor (Fairfax), $165; Family Service Agency, Ross, $4,450; Sunny Hills, Kentfield, $4,360; Children's Home Society, Greenbrae, $2,285; Catholic Youth Organization, Larkspur, $1,350; Y.M.C.A., Corte Madera, $995; Girl Scouts, Greater Mill Valley, $5,150; Marin Council of Community Services, Marin City, $210; Marin Chapter American Red Cross, Sausalito, $2,960; and Belvedere-Tiburon-Strawberry, $7,225; Y.W.C.A., Novato and Black Point, $875.

In addition to the Crusade agencies, the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc., is taking part in the campaign and has been assigned to Point San Pedro east of San Rafael. Quota is $2,830.

Areas not assigned to agencies will be covered by individual volunteers. They include Fairfax, $420; Marinwood-Lucas Valley, $640; Loma Verde-Marin Golf and Country Club Estates, $675; San Geronimo Valley and Nicasio, $565; West Marin, $1,585.

Radio KTIM will broadcast special instructions for Marin volunteers at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. tomorrow, following telecasts at 10 o'clock on KTVU and 3 o'clock on KQED for all Bay Area residential campaigners.

We're guilty of selling '63 models at year end prices!

Being of sound (?) minds and bodies, we willingly admit, without being subjected to duress, that we are guilty.

Yes, we are guilty of violating the unwritten law of automobile merchandising by accepting deals on the whole line-up of new 1963 Ford cars and trucks, including the Thunderbird, that other dealers might begrudgingly accept only on last year's models at so-called clearance sales.

Our crime has resulted in over 150 sales of 1963 models already to our happy customers who don't mind winking at an old fashioned law.

And, being incorrigable, we intend to continue breaking this law, and we're betting at least 150 more otherwise law-abiding citizens of Marin will also wink at this law by October 31.

Ole Kopy Kats

Notice how other dealers are trying desperately to imitate our merchandising policies? There's still a big difference though. They can't and won't give up as large a share of their profit on each car.

You may win a new Thunderbird or one of 1224 other terrific prizes. No obligation, of course.

GIANTS RETURN HOME

The San Francisco Giants returned home last night from New York and were greeted by a small group of 100 persons when the Giants' plane landed at the airport. The crowd was a small comparison to the 50,000 which greeted them after the Giants won the playoff game from the Los Angeles Dodgers. (See story on page 18.)

Giants Must Win Tomorrow; Call On Lefty Billy Pierce To Pitch

It just had to happen. And now the Giants can try to bounce back once more.

San Francisco's own were one game from disaster today following yesterday's 5-3 New York Yankee victory in New York that gave the American League champions a three-to-two edge in the World Series.

As the rivals prepare for the sixth game here tomorrow, the Yankees need only one more victory to record their 20th world championship in the last 40 years.

The Giants, of course, must win tomorrow's as well as the seventh game on Saturday to reign as champions. Since they were forced to come from behind all through the regular season, why should the script be scrapped in the World Series?

They didn't catch the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race until the final day of the season after trailing since July 9. Then they had to overcome a 4-2 deficit with four runs in the ninth inning to win the final playoff game for the pennant.

The Giants' task is much more difficult now despite the fact the balance of the series will be played in their home park. They must beat southpaw Whitey Ford and righthander Bill Stafford, although not necessarily in that order. Each owns a victory without having tasted defeat in the series.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants named lefty Billy Pierce his sixth game pitcher immediately after yesterday's Yankee victory, which was triggered by Tom Tresh's three-run homer in the eighth inning. The blow by the rookie outfielder, off righthander Jack Sanford, snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Ralph Terry his first World Series triumph after four defeats, one in the current series.

Dark, however, delayed naming the rest of the lineup until he learned the identity of the Yankee starting pitcher. New York manager Ralph Houk said his pitcher would be either Ford or Stafford, but declined to name him until after the workout this afternoon.

"I still think we'll win it," said Dark, despite odds making the Yanks 3½-1 favorites. "I've said all along the series will go seven games and we'll win it. I feel we can beat them two straight."

Houk did no gloating. He is fully aware thatt his has been a terrific struggle so far, with very little to choose between the two teams. Going into the seventh inning, neither team has had more than a one-run lead in any of the five games.

The Yankees have collected 38 hits to 37 for the Giants. Tresh's homer yesterday was only the second for the Yankees. The Giants have hit five off Yankee pitching. Only in the first game has either team hit in double figures.

If Ford pitches tomorrow, he will be making his third start in the series. He won the opener 6-2 and then went six innings, giving up two runs, in the fourth game, last Monday, won by the Giants 7-3. Jim Coates was charged with the loss.

Independent-Journal Sports

Bulldogs, Hornets Clash Tomorrow

With both teams trying for their first Marin County Athletic League victory for the season, the Novato Hornets and San Rafael Bulldogs will clash tomorrow at 4 p.m. on the San Rafael High School field.

Novato lost to Redwood 6-0 in its league opener last week and the Bulldogs were downed by Drake 14-13 in San Rafael's '62 league debut.

Novato could not get its running game moving last week against the Redwood Giants as Novato only rolled up 71 net yards and made but three first downs.

Big running threat for Novato tomorrow will be John Miller, a left halfback who carried the ball 12 times last week. Miller will be trying to move the ball to pick up his 2.1 average which he managed against the Giants in the league opener.

San Rafael will be hoping for a comeback after their close defeat in its opener. Head grid coach Bob Muster now knows his chargers are possible of winning many games after last week's showing.

Although Drake won on the scoreboard — and that's what counts — San Rafael had the wide margin on paper. San Rafael led in total offense, 241 to 118 for Drake. And San Rafael hit for 13 first downs to four for the Pirates.

Left halfback Mike Shafer for San Rafael is fresh from a big ground game last week. Against the Pirates, Mike picked up 142 yards in 29 carries. If Novato is to stop San Rafael, they will have to stop the hard running halfback.

Dark Says Series Will Go Full Limit Of Seven Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants still are full of fight.

"It'll go seven games," said manager Alvin Dark, "whoever takes the seventh takes it all."

"We have a great record in our own park," said 35-year-old lefthander Billy Pierce, who'll pitch the sixth game when the World Series returns to San Francisco tomorrow with the New York Yankees leading 3-2 victories. "We still have a good chance to win it."

Pierce lost the opener at San Francisco last Thursday but he'll have four days of rest before his next start and he vows he'll be ready to prevent the Yankees from winning their 20th world championship. He has won 12 games while losing only one in that park.

SANFORD GLUM

In the Giant clubhouse after yesterday's 5-3 defeat on an eighth inning homer by Tom Tresh good for three runs off Jack Sanford, most of the losers still were full of fight. But not Sanford.

"This is the one we wanted to win, the big one," he said in a barely audible voice.

But after holding the Yankees to two runs on three hits for seven innings, Sanford gave up singles to Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson with one out in the eighth and then Tresh homered to wrap up the victory.

"I tried for a strike on the outside corner but it was a fast ball right up the middle and that was it," Sanford said. "I was trying to strike him out with two men on and (Mickey) Mantle coming up next.

OVER PLATE

"We want to pitch fast balls to Tersh on the outside and curve balls low. I got it over the plate and about knee high.

"It was the worst game we have played in a long time," Dark said, but he refused to elaborate except to parry a question with, "What kind of a first inning do you call that?"

Second baseman Chuck Hiller and first baseman Willie McCovey both made errors in the inning although the Yankees didn't score. Sanford bailed himself out with a double play after catching a liner by Tresh and throwing to first to double Richardson. McCovey tried to turn it into a triple play by throwing to second in an effort to trap Kubek but Tony got back safely.

Through the first seven innings, the Yankees had managed to score their two runs on a wild pitch and a passed ball instead of the power for which they're noted.

A SLIDER

"I can't remember when I let in a run with a wild pitch," Sanford said. "This one came on a slider that spun away from the catcher."

Catcher Tom Haller, who let a passed ball go by him for a run in the sixth, said, "It was a curve ball that hit my glove and I must have taken my eye off it."

One gleeful Giant was little Jose Pagan, San Francisco's hottest hitter of the series, who rapped a homer and a single off winner Ralph Terry.

"I love to play these big games," said the 27-year-old shortstop from Puerto Rico who played a 100-game schedule of winter baseball in addition to the 165 in the National League. "My homer? It was a fastball, inside."

What Happened To Big Power Hitters Of Yanks And Giants?

CONNOLLY

What do you suppose comes over a ball club that one day picks you up and sends you into ecstacies, and the next day leaves you flat as a pancake?

Your guess is as good as mine. The so-called vaunted power house attack of the Giants and Yanks has been a lot of malarkey.

Who of the high priced athletes, the guys who collect the real sugar, have done a dime's worth in this World Series swinging into its sixth game tomorrow?

You can't say Willie Mays, the anchor man all year, has looked like a $90,000 a year baby; you haven't seen a thing resembling the "Baby Bull" Cepeda earning his $46,000, and outside of Felipe Alou, who looks better than usual, the penny ante players on both clubs have carried the burden. Guys like Chuck Hiller, Tom Haller, Willie McCovey and Jose Pagan, the small pay check guys, have done what the other guys are paid to do. Of course I'll add that the pitching staffs, to a man, really deserve a lot of credit for checking the high priced and high powered Yankee thunderbolts.

BUT GOOD pitching, if it isn't coupled with timely hitting is wasted, just like it was when Jack Sanford struggled through yesterday's ball game.

Even the radio announcers like Joe Gargialo and George Kells saw in Sanford a tiring individual. But Manager Dark who has so often jerked Sanford yesterday allowed him to continue.

The Yankees have a similar situation. The big salaried guys like Mantle, Maris, Howard haven't proved they are worth their paychecks.

IT'S A FUNNY thing but you'd suppose that in a short series, such as a seven game affair, managers would be more alert than they are. But they are so engrossed in so-called strategy and so close to the forest "they can't see the trees."

Todate the World Series has been, if you want to call it major league baseball, a monumental catastrophe. From a standpoint of real down to earth playing, it leaves a lot to be desired. Fielding has been offshore, hitting, excepting by the window smashers on both clubs, has been missing.

All season long the managers cry for pitching strength and then they get into a seven game series they have to pitch a single pitcher three times in a week to save face. I ask you, if that is major league baseball?"

WHITEY FORD has been in two games; Ralph Terry has been in two games; Jack Sanford has been in two games and so has Billy O'Dell. Where and what has become of the pitching depth that is synonymous with flag winning ball clubs?

Tomorrow in Candlestick Park the Yanks and Giants go at it again in what could be the final game. Billy Pierce, a 35 year old vet will be pitted against Bill Stafford, if the Yankee righthander can walk to the mound. He almost had his leg amputated free of charge when Felipe Alou drove a liner through the box that hit him on the shin. Stafford no doubt will recover for the sixth game and then we'll see Whitey Ford if Manager Houk doesn't get shakey and use Whitey tomorrow.

Now that Juan Marichal has been eliminated from any further use in the series, the only available pitcher, if the series goes to seven games is Jack Sanford. It'll take Billy Pierce and perhaps Billy O'Dell to finish off the Yanks tomorrow if they're real lucky.

THE BIG ONE

New York Manager Ralph Houk holds up one finger representing the one more victory his club needs to wrap up the World Series. The Yankees now lead the Giants three games to two. The sixth game of the series will be tomorrow at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Trio Of Mighty Mites Top Football Offense

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A trio of mighty mites—none over 170 pounds — lead the three major individual offense departments in college football today, according to figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Edlon Fortie, a 167-pound senior tailback who is the sparkplug of Brigham Young University's attack, leads in total offense with 886 yards in four games. He is 232 yards ahead of Jerry Gross, Detroit's 168-pound quarterback, who tops the passers.

Pistol Pete Pedro, the 5-foot-7, 160-pounder from West Texas State, is the rushing leader with 621 yards, 94 more than Fortie.

Terry Baker, Oregon State's all-around quarterback, is third in total offense with 643 yards in three games. He is also the third-ranked passer, having picked up 560 yards through the air.

Jim Pilot of New Mexico State is the No. 3 rusher with 373 yards in four games.

Golden Gate Winner

ALBANY (UPI) — Tenserino ($10.80) splashed through the stretch to score a head victory in the Golden Gate feature on a muddy track yesterday.

Bermuda Palms Win

Litchfield's Bermuda Palms baseball team will play the "Saints" for second place in the San Francisco Class C League Sunday in San Francisco. Both teams finished the schedule with seven wins and two losses. In a practice game Sunday, the Palms team downed "The Rebels" 10-5.

SHOT BLOCKED—San Francisco Seals' goalie Bev Bentley got a stick and a pad in front of this shot by Portland Buckaroos' Tom McVie (19) enough to deflect puck from going into goal in this second period action of last night's Western Hockey League opener in San Francisco's Cow Palace. Seals Hockey Men Nip Portland 4-3

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Almost lost amid the clattering spikes of football and baseball, hockey season came to the West Coast last night to the quiet satisfaction of 6,376 renegades from other arenas.

The Western Hockey League got out of the starting blocks with the San Francisco Seals nipping the Portland Buckaroos 4-3 at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

The Seals' winning goal came off the stick of defenseman Tom Thurlby, who hit from 30 feet out with less than three minutes to play.

Thurlby trotted off to the penalty box about a minute later and the Seals withstood a final Buckaroo bid featuring six forwards and no goalie, as coach Hal Laycoe went all out to tie it up.

Edmonton is at Calgary to open northern division play tonight, while tomorrow finds Portland at San Francisco, Seattle at Vancouver, and Los Angeles at Edmonton.

Series Sidelights

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the series:

IN SPRING training, the pitchers usually are ahead of the batters. This also seems to be the case in this World Series. The San Francisco Giants, as a team, are hitting .228 for the first five games while the New York Yankees' batting average is only .214.

THE THREE "Big M's" of the clubs haven't been faring too well at the plate. Willie Mays of the Giants and Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris of the Yanks all failed to hit in the fifth game. Mays was 0-for-4 while Mantle and Maris were 0-for-3. Mays' series average is .238, Mantle's .111 and Maris' .188.

THE WILD pitch by Jack Sanford and the passed ball by Tom Haller in the 5-3 Yankee victory over the Giants were the first such misplays by anyone in the series so far. No pitcher has yet to commit a balk.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, the Yanks defeated the Giants 4-2 behind the pitching of Lefty Gomez and captured the World Series, 4 games to 1.

IF SHORTSTOP Jose Pagan of the Giants maintains his batting pace, he can equal the record for the highest batting average in either a six or seven-game series. Pagan has seven hits in 14 trips for a .500 average. The record for both six and seven games is .500.

THE THREE Yankee victories all have achieved with a National League umpire working behind the plate. Both of the Giants' triumphs came with an American League man calling balls and strikes.

EVEN MONEY FOR SIXTH SERIES GAME

NEW YORK (UPI) — The oddsmakers today quoted "even money" in man-to-man betting on tomorrow's sixth game of the World Series at San Francisco.

It was the first time since this best-of-seven series between the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants opened last week that the Yankees were not favored before a game.

The professional range for tomorrow's contest is "6-5 and pick 'em."

However, New York is favored at 7-2, in man-to-man wagering, to win the series, now that the Yanks are ahead 3-2 in games.

Beginning Sailors Can Pick Up Some Knowledge In Class

There is still time to learn a heap of boating knowledge with a group of eager boaters. Coast Guard Auxiliary classes are being held Tuesday evenings in the Little Theater of the San Rafael High School. Classes start at 7:30 p. m. and five more meetings are scheduled. There is no charge, and all persons interested in the curriculum are welcome.

An examination is held at the end of the course. Those wishing to, can take it and will receive a certificate if they pass.

Just so the boat owner will not refer to his craft's stern as its end, or the lines as ropes, seaman's nomenclature will be one of the lessons. Also on the list is knot tying, small and large boat handling, and general motor maintenance. How to read charts and symbols will be taught, and on the subject of the compass, how it acts and why. "Students" will learn the rules of the road and some law, and two sessions will point up general safety practices.

EVERY YEAR qualified persons give their time as instructors. Bob Soldavini, Abe Blumenfield, Mel Moore and Al Hart are among the current faculty.

Colored slides relating to the varied subject matter make for interesting presentation, and on this Al Hart says, "We owe the school a vote of thanks. They not only furnish this visual-slide equipment—but an operator as well."

REP. CLEM MILLER will be deeply missed by Marin County's boaters. He recognized the magnificent potential of this area, and was fully alert to the rapid growth and coming necessities in this field of pleasure and sport. We have lost a good ally.

DON'T BE a galley slave! This column proposes saving the feminine boater from this horrible detail. Send us your easy-to-prepare-and transport, food or beverage recipe, one especially engineered for the small-boat owner's convenience. Here's the first, from Mrs. John Cadou of San Rafael. It is Slum-gullion, and prepared thus: one-pound hamburger, two cups chopped celery, one chopped green pepper and one chopped medium sized onion. Brown everything, season and add to a package of macaroni, cooked as usual. Take on your trip hot in an insulated container—or heat it later. Actually it's tasty hot or cold. We tried it! And please, don't look Slum-gullion up in the dictionary. We never knew a dictionary could be so wrong.

She also advises cubed lunch meats and cheeses with crackers as a boatman's snack-fest.

MEMBERS OF the Gallinas Boat Club will celebrate their annual Bass Derby next Saturday. A pot luck dinner will follow at the home of Maury Cisco in San Rafael.

QUESTION: Recently my boat ran out of gas on the North Fork of the Mokolumne River and I tried paddling upstream a short distance for fuel. I finally threw the paddle overboard and accepted a tow. What's all this jazz about carrying a paddle in a boat? All the mules in Mexico couldn't beat my boat for stubborness. Why?

Up a Stream WITH a Paddle; Kent Woodlands

ANSWER: You didn't say, but we'd guess you own a planing hull. It will behave well only when doing precisely what it was designed to do. Planing, that is. Without power, and in a current they are simply miserable to hand-propel. Worse than a waddly, water-soaked duck. Even so, I'd sure go back and dive for that paddle. The knack can be acquired.

QUESTION: What's a good bailing kettle to use for my old fish boat. She's a clunk alright, and has some leaks which never seem to get worse.

Al F., Novato

ANSWER: A slow leak today. Tomorrow, an artesian gusher; however, on the question of bailing: Take a look at the plastic or metal buckets that are square on one side. Check with a marine supply store. We prefer the flexibility of the plastic.

$20,000 Bowling League!

A new league is now being formed at Country Club Bowl that will be one of the largest and most sensational leagues on the west coast—with more than $20,000 in cash prizes and five new compact automobiles going to the winners — announced Zeno Gelatti, co-owner of Country Club Bowl.

The league, scheduled for Sunday nights, will be composed of 40 teams. Fifteen teams have already indicated they will enter, Gelatti said. He said he expected entries from Marin, Sonoma, San Francisco and the East Bay.

The league will be a 925 maximum for men only. The members of the winning team will each win a compact car, Gelatti declared. He said entries are now being taken at the bowl.

In the week's bowling, Frank Wilson, bowling in the Men's 900 Classic League, led series scores with a big 621 series. High game honors went to Fred Butler of the Wednesday Men's Handicap League with a 249. Second was Virg Dodson of the 900 Classic League, 245.

Small Group Meets Returning Giants

What a contrast!

On Oct. 3, the San Francisco Giants returned from Los Angeles after winning the National League pennant and a howling mob of 50,000 was on hand to greet them.

Last night, the Giants returned from New York down 3-2 in the World Series and only about 100 friends and family showed up. A total of 152 police officers were on hand but had little to do.

But the quiet reception does not mean that this baseball-happy city has lost any of its enthusiasm.

The differences between the homecomings were twofold. First, officials kept the exact landing spot a secret and the Giants came down two miles from the airport at the maintenance base.

Second, city officials have promised fans a mammoth parade in honor of the team after the series.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants said the trip home was uneventful and repeated his prediction that the Giants would win it in seven.

National League home run king Willie Mays echoed these sentiments.

"We're ready for two games," he said, "and we'll send New York home a loser."

A few minutes after the Giants had landed, a jet carrying the New York Yankees set down at the main airport.

There was no noticeable crowd to welcome the New Yorkers. They stepped into a waiting bus and slipped away much as any other group of passengers.

Canada Takes Lead In World Golf Tourney

KAWANA, Japan (AP) — Canada shot into the lead in the third World Amateur Golf Team Championship today, overtaking a faltering United States squad with consistent near-par play on the dismally cold and wet Fuji course.

Long-hitting Gary Cowan, the first player on the course for the second round of the 72-hole stroke play tournament, showed the way with a 71 on the rain-soaked par 70 Course which measures 6,587 yards.

Two other Canadians, Bill Wakeham and Nick Weslock carded 73s to give Canada a 217-stroke team total for the day and a two-day score of 432. Only the lowest three scores for each team each day are counted in compiling the team figures. After the first round yesterday it was 212 for the United States and 215 for Canada.

The Americans, who had led by three strokes after the first round, came apart in today's cold rain and wound up six strokes behind Canada at 438. Meanwhile Ronnie Shade, playing in the next-to-last threesome, shattered the Fuji course record with a round of 33-33—66 and boosted the combined Britain-Ireland team into contention.

Las Gallinas Golf Results

Mrs. Phillip Berven won a sudden-death playoff with Mrs. Lois Davidson to win the A Flight of the golf tourney at Las Gallinas Womens Golf Club.

Mrs. Berven shot a 37-10—27 to tie with Mrs. Davidson who scored a 36-9—27. In the B Flight, Mrs. Richard Sites scored 42-14—28 to beat Mrs. William Zepponi, 43-13—30.

Fullmer And Tiger In Fine Trim For Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer says he's "ready to fight right now," and a decision was due after today's workout on whether he will box again before he takes on Nigeria's Dick Tiger next Tuesday night.

Veteran boxing observers said Wednesday they can't recall when two middleweights were ever in better fighting trim. Both boxers like to work hard over a long period of time in preparation for a bout.

Fullmer boxed four rounds Tuesday — giving him 234 rounds to date. "That's more rounds than he's ever boxed for a single fight," manager Marv Jenson explained.

Fullmer took the day off yesterday and went to the nearby Golden Gate Fields race track.

Tiger, meanwhile, gave U.S. 6th Army soldiers a treat by working out at the Ft. Scott gymnasium at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Peacock Gap Golf Results

Mrs. George Prydz of Mill Valley won low gross Tuesday when Indian Valley women's golf club held guest day.

Patterson Wants Liston Rematch

BOSTON (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager says the deposed heavyweight champion wants a rematch with Sonny Liston, who knocked him out last month and won his crown.

"There definitely will be a rematch," Cus D'Amato said yesterday at a news conference. "It's in the original contract and Floyd will insist on a second fight."

D'Amato, deflating speculation that Patterson might not hold Liston to the rematch agreement, said Patterson feels the second fight "will be a very different one."

Liston knocked Patterson out in the first round of a scheduled 15-rounder in Chicago Sept. 25.

Hickey Hopes For Revenge In Chicago

A determined Red Hickey declares "We're going to do something about that this week" — referring to the San Francisco 49er jinx at Chicago's Wrigley Field where they take on the Bears Sunday.

In the last three years the 49ers have lost in the Windy City in a most convincing manner, 14-3, 27-10 and 31-0.

Hickey predicted yesterday "I've got that good feeling about our ball club right now. If we stay away from the injury jinx, we don't have to take a back seat to anybody."

He said the squad is "taking people on and enjoying it. That's the way the game should be played. It's a determined team. They have a helluva lot of fire and concentration."

As of yesterday the only 49er doubtful of starting was Bob Gaiters, who has a bad charley horse.

Hickey put no faith in reports of injuries by Chicago Coach George Halas.

"I don't take any stock in wounded announcements out of Chicago. Fact is, I don't even ask about them, because I don't believe any of them."

Cal Bears Leave For Duke Grid Tilt

BERKELEY (AP) — The California Bear football team was scheduled to leave for Durham, N.C., today where they will work out for Saturday's game against the Duke Blue Devils.

Tom Meshack, a 205-pound junior center from San Diego, was named yesterday as second unit replacement for injured Mike Cezario, 210, from Richmond, who has a broken rib.

Davidson May Be Ready For Denver

OAKLAND (AP)—Injured Oakland Raiders quarterback Cotton Davidson has a 50-50 chance of starting against Denver in Sunday's American Football League game here.

Trainer George Anderson said Davidson had pulled ligaments in his right shoulder, which still is sore.

Davidson reported "As of Tuesday, I couldn't throw."

He was injured in the game against the Broncos at Denver last week.

Here Are 14 Questions And Answers For Duck Hunters

STEVENS

During the 28 years I have received releases from the DFG, I honestly believe the one just received is the most helpful to the duck hunter. It consists of 14 of the most frequently asked questions concerning waterfowl hunting, and the answers.

1. Q. If I shoot a limit of ducks today, how may I legally shoot another limit tomorrow?

A. By disposing of today's limit. By transferring today's limit to another person, by shipping the ducks to them or presenting them as a gift, or by eating them. In the northeast part of California where daily limit is four ducks and possession limit is eight, you may retain today's limit and shoot another tomorrow.

2. Q. May I take ducks into a restaurant to be cooked and served?

A. Yes, provided you are present on the premises. Or, if you leave the ducks to be served at a later hour, they must be tagged with a signed statement bearing your name and address, the date taken, and the total number and kind of ducks.

3. Q. May I take my ducks to a processing plant to be cleaned, and then may they be stored at a cold storage plant?

A. Yes, if they are properly identified and bear your name, address and the date killed. Remember, they are still in your possession.

4. Q. If I shoot a limit of ducks and geese, may I store them in my freezer and shoot another limit?

A. Only if ownership or possession of stored birds passes to another person, such as your wife.

5. Q. After I have my limit, may I help my friend get his?

A. No, you may kill only one legal limit during one day.

6. Q. If I have already shot four ducks, and get two birds on the next shot, what should I do with the sixth duck?

A. If limit is five ducks you have shot too many ducks. It is your responsibility to not shoot more than one legal limit in one day.

Q. May I hunt ducks on private property?

A. Only if you have permission from the property owner.

8. Q. If I hunt on private property, may I shoot over the limit?

A. No, the legal limits prevail on both public and private lands.

9. Q. If I want to hunt ducks in Nevada, must I buy a second Federal duck stamp?

A. No, the one duck stamp is valid in every state.

10. Q. Why are waterfowl hunting laws different in northeastern California and along Colorado River, than in the rest of the state?

A. Because of migration habits in these areas. Weather conditions, migration habits and population of certain species are all taken into consideration in establishing the laws.

11. Q. May I take or transport into another state, ducks and geese taken on a California hunting license?

A. Not without a permit from the Department. Only non-resident hunters may ship or transport game birds out of California.

12. Q. If I hunt in another state, where bag limits are greater, may I ship the birds into California?

A. You may ship your legal limits by common carrier. The label on the container must give full information regarding ownership and contents.

13. Q. To bring ducks and geese from other states, or from Mexico, where in California should I declare these birds?

A. Declare game at Department of Agriculture Quarantine Station you must pass through on your entry into California from another state. Entering California from Mexico you may declare them with U. S. Customs at the border station. Also, declaration may be made with nearest justice court or notary public at port of entry.

14. Q. If I hunt in Mexico, how many birds may I bring into California?

A. Ten ducks and five geese per calendar week. A calendar week begins on Sunday.

So there you are. Many other questions are asked of the F&G, but the above are the prevailing ones. Hope your question is answered. Goodbye, good luck and go get 'em!

There's Still Hope For Injured Boxer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Argentine boxer Alejandro Lavorante's doctors still remained hopeful today that the 25-year-old fighter would "wake up" but they would not predict his final condition.

Dr. J. DeWitt Fox, who performed two emergency brain operations on Lavorante after he was knocked out Sept. 21, said the boxer "improves slightly" each day.

"In view of that we still hold up hope he'll wake up," Fox said. "What will happen then, we cannot anticipate."

The neurosurgeon cautioned, however, that under such lengthy periods of unconsciousness, the greater were the hazards. "He is just like anyone in a deep sleep," he said. "If you touch him, he moves, as if trying to get around. But he does not talk or open his eyes," Fox said.

The doctor said he had cases in which the coma has lasted longer. In one, he said, "The patient got up and walked out three months after his injury."

Lavorante has remained in a coma since being knocked out and doctors have regarded his condition as serious.

Sanford Lost Tough Game

By HARVEY KUENN
San Francisco Giants
Written for Associated Press

Now it's a matter of winning two straight.

It's unfortunate that we were unable to get any more runs for pitcher Jack Sanford in yesterday's 5-3 loss to the New York Yankees.

Sanford pitched one of the best games I've seen him throw this year. Even the pitch that beat him—the one Tom Tresh hit for a three-run homer in the eighth—wasn't a bad pitch, just a little high.

You have to give Tresh credit. It wasn't a pitch that got away from the pitcher. Tresh just hit it, that's all. And the Yankees now have a one-game lead, 3-2, with the series back to San Francisco for the finish.

I think we're all still very confident we can win it in seven. This was a tough one to lose, but we've been bouncing back all year. Now we've got to win two straight. Well, we've done it before, and I see no reason why we can't do it again.

But let's get back to Sanford. He really pitched a great game. His best pitch was the fast ball. It tails away from a left-handed hitter. He kept his breaking stuff low and his fast ball away.

Why, in the first seven innings, only three balls were hit out of the infield, and one of those was a pop fly that went for a double. And those first two runs — one was on a wild pitch and the other on a passed ball. . . .

You must give Ralph Terry credit, too. He pitched a fine game, a very smart game. He had his stuff working just about like he wanted it to.

A reception followed the ceremony at the ranch home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Olsen of Kingsburg.

Nahapiets Tell Experiences During Their Stay Abroad

Enthusiastically describing her experiences during four months in Europe is Mrs. John Nahapiet, who with her husband has just returned to their home in Mill Valley.

AFTER LEAVING from Long Beach on June 5 sailing through the Panama Canal to Southampton in England, they spent two months in London visiting Nahapiet's family and taking many short trips into the surrounding area. One of special interest to Nahapiet was his visit to Bedford, one of England's well known public schools.

"I got so that I felt like a native in London," said Mrs. Nahapiet. "I could actually find my way around London by myself and handle their money without difficulty.

"THIS WAS our second visit. We found the countryside as lovely as ever but were impressed with the great amount of modern building going on, like the very modern Hilton Hotel.

"We spent three weeks in Scandinavia, where the highlights were the trip around the Norwegian shore to Bergen and the train trip from Bergen to Oslo.

"We were completely charmed with Copenhagen, which was a dream spot—so vivacious and full of fun and friendly people. There we met my sister, Mrs. Marshall Williams of San Fernando, who was conducting her own tour for the Southern California Automobile Assn. She is a retired junior high school principal who has just as much drive as ever.

"THEN WE returned to London for 10 days that were such a grand social windup with so many parties that my husband was glad to get away and go on to Germany, where we spent several days on the beautiful Rhine and visited a number of towns. We were especially impressed with Frankfort because though the buildings are new, they are designed in an old fashioned style that retains old world appeal."

The Nahapiets ended their tour by going to Milan and sailing for New York from Genoa. They stopped in Chicago and Milwaukee to visit friends before taking the train home to San Francisco.

Young Belgian Businessman Honored On Belvedere Visit

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Kenneth and Betty Frost have been entertaining a handsome young businessman from Brussels, Jean Perre Narinx, a houseguest at their Belvedere home. Jean came to San Francisco from Brussels representing his family's interests, which include advertising of all sorts. He visited the Frosts a year ago consulting with Ken, a civil engineer, on construction problems connected with outdoor advertising operations of his business in Belgium. He returned to make arrangements about manufacture of certain luminescent displays.

Jean, who is six feet, four inches tall, is an enthusiastic sportsman, a swordsman, yachtsman, drives sports cars, has his own plane and is a stunt pilot. He has a delightful sense of humor and exquisite European manners.

Jean speaks little English and Betty said it taxed her French to the utmost when she and Kent met Jean at the airport the same night the Giants returned from Los Angeles after their victory over the Dodgers, and tried to explain the typical American madness when the home team wins.

Mrs. Edwin Gratonik of Tiburon and her daughter, Lynn, a junior at Dominican, who had visited Jean's home in Brussels a month ago, a high point of their three months European tour, entertained at a dinner in his honor Saturday night. Other guests were the Frosts, their son, Tim, a sophomore at Redwood High School, Mrs. Gratonik's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hobson of Castro Valley, and Dante Leland of Tiburon.

That day the Frosts had taken their houseguest for a tour of Marin County including Muir Woods which Jean found "formidable". Sunday he participated in the final yacht race of the season, crewing with Ken on the yacht, Sumatra, skippered by Professor Jerome Raphael of University of California. The yacht returned to the San Frabcusci Yacht Club in Belvedere and then Jean went to the Corinthian Yacht Club with the Gratoniks and Frosts for dinner.

Tuesday night, Betty Frost's mother, Mrs. Charles W. White of San Francisco, honored Jean at a dinner party for 10 at Rocca's restaurant. He flew to Los Angeles yesterday with the Frosts' friend, Leon Willat of Alto, who will introduce him to several Hollywood celebrities. He will return to Europe Air France, having no desire to revisit other cities in the United States. Jean said as he left, in that Charles Boyer voice, "I live very much California, and particularment the Belvedere which makes me think of the Cote d'Azur (on the French Riviera), no?"

Kent and Betty hope Jean will relent enough to stop in Indiana to renew his friendship with their elder son, Ken Frost Jr., a freshman at Indiana University in Bloomington, a recent pledge to Phi Kappa Psi.

MRS THEODORE OSBORNE (Gloria Garvin) will fly from Hong Kong Nov. 2 to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denby Garvin of San Anselmo for a month. Mrs. Osborne and her husband, who is Far East director of Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co., live in Hong Kong. They have two daughters, Nicola, 14, and Deborah, 11. Mrs. Osborne recently saw Nicola off when she left by plane from Kai Tak for Switzerland. She is in her first year at La Pensee at Vevey on the Lake of Geneva. Her father, who was in Europe on business, met Nicola in Zurich. Deborah attends King George V School in Hong Kong. Her father will be at home while Mrs. Osborne visits in Marin and then flies to New York, London and Switzerland. She will take Nicola to Rome for a week during the holidays and then fly back to Hong Kong to be with her husband and Deborah on Christmas.

Tricks With Wallpaper

NEW YORK (UPI)—Turn leftover wallpaper to decorative advantage by pasting cut-out motifs or a border strip to your window shades. This is an easy way to achieve a coordinated window and wall look, and special adhesives are available to do the paste-up job without danger of the paper buckling or curling.

Tiny Gourmets To Enjoy Dishes 'Out Of Space'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Babies will eat like astronauts and busy mothers will cook in paper dishes—in the immediate future.

Baby food packaged in spoon-tipped aluminum squeeze tubes was introduced at the Fifth International Food Congress here. So were plastic-coated paper dishes that can be used for some oven-cooking.

Other new products shown at the congress and the 20th annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference included: a low-calorie salad topping made with a non-caloric food ingredient; pineapple-topped cream cheese cake; swiss cheese tarts and swiss cheese balls to be deep-fat fried; a guaranteed leak-proof wide mouth vacuum bottle;

Steel-clad aluminum pots and pans; bottled beef sauce containing seasonings, malt, apples, tomato puree, soy, lemon and orange juice; an electric blender with 5-cup container and 2-speed motor to handle heavy loads; packaged mixes for spaghetti barbecue, chili, pizza, curry and white sauces;

Plain and sandwich-type peanut butter cookies; fully-baked small dinner rolls in three shapes and four flavors; a dessert and beverage cookbook that stands like a stenographer's notebook; and hamburgers you slice from a roll—like sausages.

A new plastic roll package is said to keep ground beef fresh under refrigeration for as long as 10 days, five times longer than is possible with current packaging.

Neil Cummins P-TA President Active In Group Seven Years

Heading the Neil Cummins Parent-Teacher Assn. this year is Mrs. J. W. McClintock of Corte Madera.

With a special aim this year to "help inform parents regarding their school system and to bring about a closer relation between the home and the school," Mrs. McClintock hopes to accomplish the task through public meetings, discussion groups and with key speakers covering various aspects in the educational field.

A member of the organization for the past seven years, Mrs. McClintock served as hospitality chairman for two years and last year completed a term as program chairman and vice president. As the new leader of the group she will head a P-TA membership of nearly 500 persons.

MRS. McCLINTOCK also brings to the organization a seven year background of business from her employment with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Francisco.

The first spark of interest in P-TA activities for Mrs. McClintock came with the enrollment of her first child in the public school system, "so that I could learn more of my son's school and teachers." Her son, Scott, is now 11 and her daughter, Lauri, is 8 years old, both attending Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera.

Other community interests keeping the new president busy include Brownie leadership for troop 118 and the secretarial post for the Garden Section of the Corte Madera Women's Club.

NAMED TO SERVE on the P-TA board this year are Mesdames W. W. Nichols, vice president; Robert Gicker, second vice president; Robert Commins, corresponding secretary; C. R. Foster, recording secretary; Fred Nicholson, treasurer; Robert Vogel, auditor; Walter McEvoy, historian; and Dean Short, parliamentarian.

Chairmen include Mesdames G. L. van der Hoeven, Francis Fugate, John Campbell, Nicholas Suntzeff, Frank Turco, A. A. Timossi, Jack DeMille, C. W. Valk, Toby Rein, Howard Perry, John Friend, Anthony Compagno, Lewis Perry, Herbert Schmidt, Aubrey Mendle, Londo Casassa, Harold Kling, and Lester Spillane.

If You Have Extravagant Child Let Him Keep The Family Books

Are your teen-agers thrifty? Or extravagant? Most of our sons and daughters love to spend money. Have you noticed?

Their extravagance is really our fault. When they were little we could give them almost everything they wanted. They learned to ask, and to get. Now the costs of indulging them are greater. If we gave them what they wanted we'd go bankrupt. So we say no to them, and have troubles. Right?

You can teach your teen-agers to be thrifty. One good way is to bring them in on your family financial secrets. Have your girl take over your books for a year, letting her make the deposits, and add up your bills. Have her write the checks. Let her try to find the money needed to buy the expensive coat she wants. Do the same with your teen-age son. If your big kids can come to feel responsible for your money, they'll modify their expectations. They'll even preach economy to you. That'll be a switch, won't it?

Another way to teach thrift is to have your teen-agers earn their own way. Help them get jobs and allow them to spend their earnings. They may be extravagant at first. If so, have them suffer the consequences. They'll learn the hard way. I know that jobs are scarce, but you may be able to find work for them. Thousands of boys are learning about money by carrying poper routes.

Allowances are helpful too. Give each youngster a fixed sum. Have it cover his clothes, school expenses, church, entertainment, etc. Give each about the same amount his friends are spending, for the same things. Be sure not to bail your kids out when they spend their allowances foolishly. Then they'll catch on.

Psychologist Says An Honest Fight Good For Partners

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

Jane Doe down the street never gets a cross word from hubby—no matter how she crosses him.

She burns the toast, dents a fender or gives a charity his happiness and security object—a raccoon coat left over from college days.

Her mate fails to fling words or plate at her. He shuns fist shaking. But she's that peaceful type, too. She never gets angry—not even when he comes home at midnight when she expected him at six; not even when he snores through a lecture; not even when he reduces her allowance.

In the neighborhood, this angelic pair has a reputation for having found the way to make marriage work. Since there's no fighting, the marriage seems much happier than the fighty type.

Contrast the happy twosome with most families you know—now and then, there's a battle. A fuse blows in the nervous system. He thunders. She thunders.

The bone husband and wife growl about probably is a simple one—say she's being scolded about $50 she withdrew from their joint account without bothering to fill in the check stub.

What started the argument: A little notice from the bank.

Other times the arguments stem from equally pedestrian situations: She forgot to pick up the raincoat he left at the library; she hid a summons he got from traffic court because she didn't want to worry him; he brought three friends home for dinner but didn't call first.

Now take the two types of marriages: The one with no fights and the one with chronic fights—the type characterized by verbal punching punctuated when they kiss and make up.

Is the one with chronic quarrels less happy than the one without quarrels? Is it bound to fall apart some day?

The right answers: "No" and "no"—as one student of marriage views the situation. Quarrels, you see, aren't necessarily destructive.

"An honest fight about real issues can bring emotional release and a new intimacy between the partners," Psychologist George Bach notes.

Bach, a psychology instructor at Claremont College in Los Angeles, doesn't condone uncivilized quarrels—fights marked by plate tossing, kicking, punching and that sort of thing.

The quarrels he finds therapeutically sound are marked by discussion without hate, argument without rancor, fighting without violence.

His rules for therapeutic fighting:

Round one opens when she tells him her complaint.

Round two, he makes sure what the fight is about.

Round three, she tells him he stated the issue correctly.

Round four, he states under what conditions he would agree to her wishes—and how made it would make him.

Bach says you just keep adding rounds until you settle the argument. (UPI).

'The Cool Generation' Awareness Topic

Robert Prather, new principal of Tamalpais High School, will speak on "The Cool Generation" at Monday's 11:30 A.M. luncheon meeting of the Awareness Group at the Mill Valley home of Mrs. Edmond Gross.

Prather will emphasize "the good kids" and point out that some of the things they do that their elders do not like have their favorable aspects.

A graduate of Tamalpais High School and the College of Marin, Prather received his bachelor of arts degree from San Francisco State College and did graduate work for teaching credentials at the University of California. He has also done graduate work in administration at Stanford University.

All of the new principal's professional career has been in Marin County. From 1945 to 1951 he taught at Tamalpais High School, from 1951 to 1959 at Drake High School, and he was employed in the Tamalpais Union High School District guidance department from 1959 to the present.

Alto P-TA Head Has Sports Interest

Except for bowling and swimming as a family hobby, the Alto Parent-Teacher Association has occupied just about all of the outside-of-the-home activities for two years of its new president, Mrs. Everett Miles.

She has been a member five years and last year was in charge of the unit's hot dog sales project.

Highlights for the unit this year, she reports, will be the two music programs—one on Dec. 18 and the other on May 15—to be presented by the school's music department, and the annual Alto Fair.

"We are very proud," Mrs. Miles said, "Of the fact that singing instruction is made possible through the P-TA's taking over the responsibility of paying the salary of the singing teacher, Mrs. Ethelee Reed. The Alto Fair in May is our one big fund raising event."

Mrs. Miles has served as president of the women's auxiliary of the Alto Fire Department, and last year she was a Cub Scout den mother.

A native of San Francisco, Joyce Miles was graduated from Mission High School and worked as an IBM operator in San Francisco before her marriage. Her husband is a salesman for the Mill Valley Auto Parts Store, and they have lived in Alto 13 years. They have one son, Steven, 9.

Other Alto P-TA officers are Mesdames Oaka Roan, first vice president; Tabor L. Kopan, second vice president; Harry Magill, secretary; Warren Staiger, treasurer; Gwen Denk, teacher representative; and Alfred Mainini, historian.

Organizations Join In Crusade Drive

MRS. STANLEY BECK, left, is narrator, while Mrs. Martin Katzman, center, wearing a sure-enough halo, makes a call on Mrs. Arthur Collbran during a staging of the skit "How To Win Your Halo" at a training meeting for United Crusade campaigners. Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Katzman are members of the Terra Linda Little Theater while Mrs. Collbran, a captain in the Belvedere residential drive, here plays a typical Marin resident talking to the volunteer who calls at her door. (Ken Molino photos)

This year, in addition to the United Crusade member agencies and their auxiliaries which have taken the leadership for specific areas in the residential campaign, other organizations are donating time and work.

Two of these are the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco Inc., and the Terra Linda Little Theater.

THE JUNIOR LEAGUERS, as part of their community service program, are organizing the campaign in the Pt. San Pedro area. It is the fourth year that they have participated in the local residential drive and the third year that they have assumed leadership for a specific area.

Mrs. Robert W. Dawson Jr. of San Rafael is chairman and Mrs. Bradford Koles of San Rafael and Mrs. William V. Morris of Mill Valley are co-chairmen.

THE little theater's contribution is presentation of a skit, "How to Win Your Halo," at training meetings for volunteers throughout the county. Mrs. Stanley Beck narrates while Mrs. Martin Katzman plays the role of a typical volunteer making door-to-door calls and thereby winning her "halo."

DONE IN pantomime, the skit calls for a cast of four, so at each of the training sessions, two "extra players" are recruited from among the local volunteers. Mrs. Arthur Collbran of Belvedere and Mrs. Robert Fraser of Tiburon played these roles at a recent meeting held at St. Stephen's Parish Hall in Belvedere.

TWO MEMBERS of the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc., Mrs. R. M. D. Childs, left, and Mrs. Robert W. Dawson Jr., right, discuss the United Crusade residential drive with Mrs. Jose Alicastro of San Rafael, center, president of the Junior Social Service Auxiliary. The Junior League is organizing the campaign in the Point San Pedro area while the Junior Social Service Auxiliary is staffing in the Santa Venetia area for Catholic Social Service, one of the Crusade member agencies which are participating in the drive.

FACE AND FIGURE

Marin Women

You could always tell a Cecil B. DeMille spectacular movie by its inevitable trademark. There always was one scene in which the heroine was shown reveling in a super-luxurious bath, surrounded by suds, scents and solicitous attendants.

This trademark was an excellent bit of psychology directed at women who went to movies to escape for a bit from the frustrations of their own mundane lives. For to most women, a luxurious bath is the height of glamor and femininity, a ritual in which she can feel most pampered.

You may not have a sunken tub in which you can bathe in milk or champagne, but you can enjoy the pampered feeling of a DeMille heroine with your next bath.

THE FIRST STEP to a luxury bath is in the timing. Plan your bath for a period when you are not rushed with everyday chores. Choose a period when the family is out of the house and you have plenty of time to relax and enjoy your bath in leisurely, lazy fashion.

Make your bath glamorous with plenty of bubbly suds and a scented bath oil that fills the air with perfume as you leisurely prepare for the tub. Then, as you sink into the warm water, relax every muscle and soak to your heart's content. Surrounded by warmth and perfume, you can close your eyes and imagine yourself in the lap of luxury.

WHEN YOU'RE ready, and only when you are ready, shampoo if you must, taking time to enjoy a gentle scalp massage and the tingling feeling of utter cleanliness.

Dry yourself gently after your bath, using the softest, most fluffy towel you have. For that extra touch, dust yourself with fragrant body powder and apply a touch of that special perfume that makes you feel like a siren.

While your hair is drying, give yourself a slow, careful manicure while lying propped up in bed wearing your most feminine robe. Take your time and enjoy the feeling of luxury, of freedom from everyday duties. You're deliberately being lazy and loving every minute of it.

When you finally do have to pull yourself back from your pampered retreat from everydayness, you'll find your spirits have a lift that'll last until the next time you have a chance to pamper yourself with a luxury bath.

For Fraternity Men

The nation's capmakers have thought of the fraternity man who wants to give a heady gift. They suggest a peaked cap in green and black broadcloth tweed with stretchable knit band that fits every egghead's cranium.

Expert Shows How To Place Contract On The Right Side

Our week-long discussion of bidding the enemy's suit continues today with the expert's method of placing the contract on the right side of the table.

This is important in hands where the contract can be made only from one side of the table.

Opening lead — ♡ J

North bids two hearts, the enemy's suit, to show heart strength and to invite a game at the same time.

South is expected to try for game in notrump with strength in the unbid suit, particularly if he has some help in hearts.

ALL BY SELF

North would bid the game all by himself with either black ace as additional strength, and North might bid two notrump with an additional king. The actual North hand is good enough to suggest game, but no more.

South can well afford to accept the suggestion since he has a club stopper and additional heart strength.

If South wanted to reject the suggestion he would just rebid his diamonds.

DOUBLE STOPPER

With South playing the hand there is a double stopper in hearts. South lets the opening lead ride around to the queen, after which dummy's king will serve to win a later trick.

South should lead spades immediately to develop the two spade tricks needed for the contract. West must play low, and dummy's king wins.

South gets back with the king of diamonds and leads another spade.

NERVE NEEDED

Now West will defeat the contract if he has the nerve to play low, for he will eventually take two spades, one heart and two clubs. If West puts up the ace of spades, however, declarer will get two spades, two hearts and five diamonds.

It is all very close. South would have a far easier time with a sixth diamond.

North cannot make the game if he becomes declarer at three notrump. East would lead a heart, and West would finesse with the nine to drive out North's king. Sooner or later declarer would have to tackle spades, whereupon West would take the ace of spades and put East in with a club for another heart lead.

The defenders would get four hearts, a spade and two clubs.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Farm Bureau Strives To Retire Membership Trophy

Each year about this time we like to root a little bit for one segment of the Marin County economy—its farmers.

At one time the farm was the backbone of the county. There was a dairy in Mill Valley's front yard. Walnuts and grapes were major crops. Pear, peach, cherry orchards were much in evidence. There were field crops and truck gardens.

Now little is left in Marin County for the agriculturalist but dairying and, as the county grows, this too is being reduced.

The reason we pick this time of year to speak out is that this is the time the Marin County Farm Bureau conducts its annual membership campaign. And each year the Marin unit shows that it is a strong organization, rating high in the counsels of the state group.

For the last two years the Marin bureau has been first in the state to reach its membership quota. If it does it again this year, it will permanently retire the trophy offered statewide for the feat.

This year's quota is 373 membership among the farm families and farm cooperators of the county. The last we heard the drive had netted just under 250 memberships to date. Pres. Donald McIsaacs of Olema hopes to reach 400 members.

Go, Bureau, Go!

Help People Who Are Doing Their Part

Tomorrow scores of volunteers will kick off their annual residential solicitations for Marin's "One Big Give," the United Crusade.

Already workers have been seeking contributions in other of the nine divisions, driving toward their $145,893 goal. But as always, the largest single portion of Marin's share is expected to come from residential gifts, about one third of the total.

Marin, which set the pace for the Bay Area by being first over its goal last year, is leading in another way this year. Thirteen of the member agencies are organizing the residential drive in specific areas. Other agencies are helping in other phases of the campaign.

This "assumption of leadership" on the part of Marin agencies "has set an example for the entire Bay Area," according to Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon, United Area Campaign agency participation chairman.

This is the type of effort which we like to see from organizations directly benefiting from a fund drive. It is the type of cooperation which makes a person more willing to do his share, when other people are doing their's.

We hope the people of the county once more put Marin over the top first with numerous and generous contributions.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Ike Proves To Be Human Being Where Movie Star Is Concerned

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

We would guess that not one of the 2,750 persons who had dinner with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Monday night in the Cow Palace was as thrilled and excited about the whole thing as Mrs. Lee Sherry of San Anselmo. Dressed in a black evening gown with long white gloves, silver-haired Mrs. Sherry sat radiantly at the head table just one seat away from the former President.

"The general was so genuine, so real," she enthused after the dinner. What did she mean?

"Well, on the other side of me was Ginger Rogers. Ginger leaned over to me and said in a kind of embarrassed voice, 'Would you ask General Eisenhower if he would autograph my menu, please?'

"Here was a switch, a movie star asking for an autograph. I asked the general and he was most gracious. 'Of course I will,' he said. And he wrote a brief note before signing his name.

"Then, as he passed the menu back, he gave me a second one and added, 'Would you mind asking Miss Rogers if she'd give me her autograph too?'"

AT THE DINNER, most everyone pays $100 a plate for cold cuts with the trimmings and a slice of cake. My teenaged daughter was with me so I asked the waitress if she could have some milk.

"That will be 15 cents extra," she declared. But she was only kidding. They didn't have any milk.

THE AMERICAN Association of University Women has a public meeting scheduled next Monday night that should interest voters.

Legislative section chairman Ada Fusselman has arraanged for Bruce V. Reagan, GOP controller aspirant, to be there to discuss the campaign with Robert L. Coate, Northern California chairman for Controller Alan Cranston's re-election.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael will be there in behalf of his own candidacy, while Alvin Goldstein of San Anselmo will represent Robert Carrow, Bagley's Democratic opponent who had a previously scheduled meeting with a labor group.

There will be capsule presentations of the 25 ballot propositions by AAUW members Marian Moynihan, Alice Galloway, Alice Detweiler and Jean Marchant.

Carol Huston will present the case for Ralph Richardson and Carinne Rhoades for Max Rafferty in the superintendent of schools race.

An evening of politics and you're welcome at 8 p.m. in Ross School.

REAGAN, BY THE way, will be in Marin all day Tuesday with breakfast, luncheon, cocktail party at the Elks Club and dinner scheduled.

CRANSTON WILL be in Marin Monday as well, for a San Rafael Rotary Club luncheon at noon, and an address to the Mill Valley Awareness at 2 p.m. After the talk, which will be broadcast at 6 p.m. that night over KTIM-FM, he goes on to a rally in Sonoma and on into Mendocino County.

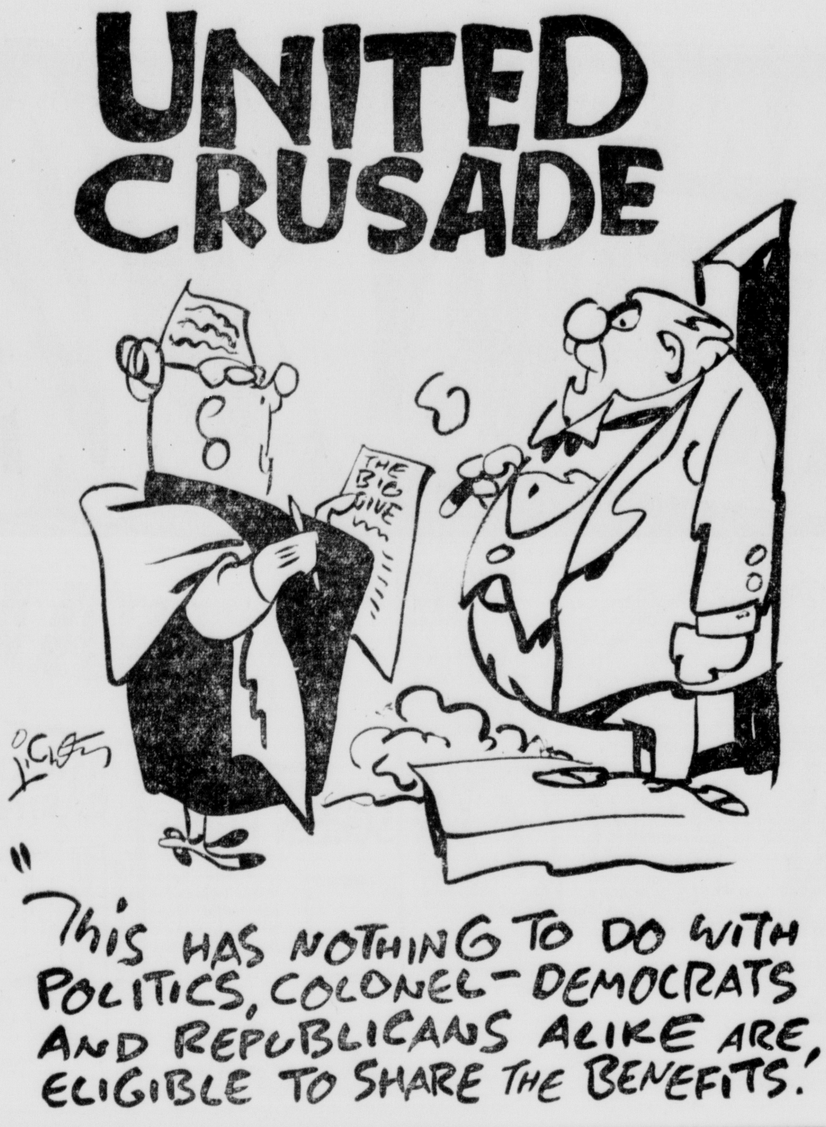
San Rafael's City Council decided on stricter regulations for bars and liquor stores, directing preparation of an ordinance setting midnight as closing time for bars and 11 p.m. as limit for sale of package goods.



WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Klahn's Answer Unfair To Realtors

The Independent-Journal welcomes contributions to "What Our Readers Say." Letters must be signed and must not exceed 300 words in length. The editor reserves the right to delete malicious material.

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Bert Klahn's critical response to the Marin Realty Board's request for a Grand Jury investigation of Marin City redevelopment, the stilt houses in particular, is not altogether fair. Because realtors have committed "sins by omission" in the past does not relegate them to silence and inaction now or in the future.

It is encouraging and commendable that Edward Ward, president of the board, recognizes that the whole county has something at stake in Marin City.

No matter how Director Klahn and other government officials, including Supervisor Peter Behr, justify the cost and design of the single family structures, the obvious fact is that they do not measure up to other buildings already occupied and, more important, the plans lack consideration of the feelings and needs of the people for whom they were intended.

Life savings, dearly earned and carefully saved, are not going to be invested in houses which remind Negro families, and those of us who have traveled by train in the South, of the shacks on poles throughout the depressed and ghetto areas, rural and urban, of those states, and which also are typical of the primitive and backward areas of other parts of the world. Who cares to be identified forever with symbols of this kind?

The whole situation is an exact illustration of Jane Jacob's critical views of urban redevelopment in her stirring book "Death and Life of Great American Cities" in which she gives planners the panning so often deserved.

I have asked Negroes, who have cash assets and good credit ratings, why they didn't buy lots in Marin City and build homes to suit their personal needs and taste. They said they had tried to do so but were told by the redevelopment agency that this was a planned community and that individual construction might not meet the high standard of architectural conformity set by housing authorities. Such irony!

We need apparently less authority and more individual initiative and some rewards for those who have proven their stability.

The worst planning is being done on an arrogant "take it or leave it" scheme for those who deserve better: the self-supporting, law-abiding families who have maintained standards of living and behavior which white society is always holding-up to the minority groups as the basis for acceptance.

There is good in every situation and the best to come out of the Marin City planning fiasco is that responsible, non-professional Negroes will now do their part in the process of integration by coming out into the rest of the county to buy housing of their choice and thereby making important contributions in the educational and civic life of Marin communities.

Realtors will have the opportunity to answer Mr. Klahn with deeds that speak eloquently and the rest of us will have the rare opportunity to prove our willingness to be good neighbors.

Practical Joke Was Not Funny

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

We were driving down our court, leaving for the city the other evening. We waited at the corner for a car to pass, then continued down the hill when suddenly my husband slammed on the brakes.

In the street was a young boy, lying face downward, lifelessly still. Our hearts just leaped at the sight. Our first reaction was to recall that car that had passed our corner moments before.

My husband went to the child, and lifting the hat covering his head, found a mop.

We are writing to you in the hope that if you print this letter, the person responsible for this act will be a little more thoughtful in the planning of his practical jokes in the future.

We were driving down the street slowly, but what if it had been a speeding driver who happened by? How would this jokester feel if he had been responsible for the injuries to life and property if the driver had to go off the road in an effort to avoid hitting the "child," or perhaps the shock would have been just too great for someone with a heart condition.

A good joke can be a lot of fun, and I feel that we both have a good sense of humor, but if someone thought this joke was funny, please let them be advised that we're not laughing.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Jack Kofoed swears he saw this happen in the dining room of a swanky Miami Beach hotel. A clumsy waiter spilled a plate of soup on the white jacket of an outraged guest. The manager rushed up immediately and purred, "Give that coat to me, sir. I'll have it sponged immediately and returned to you absolutely spotless before you've finished your meal."

Five minutes later, the waiter who had spilled the soup poked the guest indignantly on the shoulder, and demanded, "Don't you know you're not allowed in this dining room unless you're wearing a jacket?"

An underpaid English professor recently applied for a job of a highly technical nature at General Dynamics. "But you have none of the requirements," demurred the employment manager. "Whatever made you think you could hold down a position like this?" "Because," said the professor with great dignity, "this is probably the only chance you'll ever have of hiring a worker who has read "Beowulf' twice in the original Anglo-Saxon."

A bragging session at recess in a Clinton, Iowa, school produced this lively exchange: "You've learned about the Pacific Ocean? Well, my pa built the hole for it." "So what? You know about the Dead Sea? Well, it was my father who killed it!"

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRED WYATT

That Fused Soil In Greenbrae Came From A Short Not A Volcano

"Maybe it's a volcano!" was the cry that drew College of Marin students and instructors to Greenbrae's hot tree mystery last week.

A fireman interrupted geology instructor Stephen C. Bruff in class at 9:30 a.m. to exhibit a chunk of fused soil resembling volcanic rock taken from the base of the smoking or steaming oak tree at Corte Cordova and Los Cerros Drive. At 10 a.m. several students visited the curbside conundrum. At 11 a.m. more students.

At noon, Bruff went, reinforced by zoology instructor Paul Wilson and botany instructor Al Molina.

BY THIS TIME a utility crew had arrived and shut off a nearby street light and the smoking had stopped. The trouble was believed caused by a short due, county public works director Donald Frost said, to "rotted out" underground wires.

Possibility of a volcano's suddenly bursting from a peaceful flat earth surface was not without precedent in our times in the western hemisphere.

Such a case developed Feb. 20, 1943, in the village of Paricutin in the state of Michoacan, Mexico. County librarian Virginia V. Keating said I could dig it out of an old magazine issue in the Corte Madera branch of the library and I did.

FARMER Dionisio Pulido was turning furrows for corn with his ox accompanied by his son. The son heard an underground noise. Then the farmer heard a rumble and behind a furrow saw a spiral of white smoke.

Father, son and ox galloped away. That night they and their neighbors saw a luminous smoking above his field and heard thunderous sounds. The next morning there was a cinder cone 25 feet high. At noon it began to belch stones and the earth trembled.

In a week the cone grew to a height of 500 feet. In 10 weeks it was 1,100 feet high, said February, 1944, National Geographic. From the crater masses of vapor rose to a height of three miles.

A few months later the thing was 1,500 feet high and estimated to be flinging 2,700 tons of lava, cinders and ashes per minute as high as 4,100 feet into the air. Eruption finally ceased nine years later, leaving a cone 800 feet high, said the Encyclopedia Britanica.

Instructor Bruff said he investigated the heat-hardened rock-like dirt from the Greenbrae tree base because "I didn't want a volcano to start in our backyard without our knowing it."

Students have put pieces of the broiled earth on exhibit in the college library.

SHORT TAKES: Enthusiastic Larkspur City Councilman Lesley A. Daveler didn't quite keep last week's meeting going to midnight. He discussed things for future consideration and said:

"Another thing I want to bring up—"

Councilman Daniel Allen cut in, "I move we adjourn," and Councilman Neil R. Brixon seconded him.

Start of Francis Eaton as a Larkspur policeman next Monday will give the force six men including Chief Howard Clark, who says, "We now will have 24-hour coverage all the time with two men on duty each day and each night." . . . Anne Donovan from San Rafael succeeds Patricia Roulston as Corte Madera police clerk.

Dr. Charles M. Secor and his wife, Larkspur School District board chairman Pauline Secor, solve their phone problem by having a separate line and listing for their sons, 16 and 11, and daughters, 15 and 8.

As of last week Ralph Richardson was seeking a press agent in his quest for state superintendent of public instruction; his rival, Max Rafferty, has obtained heavy favorable publicity in many rural papers.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Even Measures Passed Show Democrats Don't Act Together

WASHINGTON—Like Hurricane Daisy, the first Kennedy Congress adjourns in a fenzy of action. Two different estimates of its record are valid. It has finally approved a solid and significant package of Kenendy's requests, much to please the President and much he can praise as he goes to the country to ask the voters to give him more pro-Kennedy Democrats.

Judged by the tremendous volume of requests which the White House heaped upon Congress and the promises he made during the campaign, this Congress turned against the President far more often than it supported him.

ITS POSITIVE record of Kennedy measures enacted is a good one and quite considerable.

Its negative record of Kennedy measures rejected is wide-ranging and decisively disproves Kennedy's repeated assurance that if the country would only elect a Democratic President to work with a Democratic Congress, it would be all systems go.

It hasn't been so. Congress has refused 80 per cent of the White House-sponsored bills.

THIS ISN'T peculiar to President Kennedy. Except in the field of bi-partisan foreign policy, every Democratic Congress serving under a Democratic President from 1938 through 1962 has been substantially unresponsive to the White House.

This 87th Congress resisted Kennedy's advocacy of medicare. It refused his plea for a Department of Urban Affairs. It mutilated his farm bill. It cut up his tax bill. It redeemed none of his promises of federal aid to the public schools. It took no initiative to redeem the President's pledges that new civil rights legislation would be the "first business" of the new Congress.

These are not minor measures to be explained away by the shrug of a presidential shoulder. These were top-priority presidential commitments on which he waged much of his campaign. Despite the nearly two-thirds Democratic majority in House and Senate, they went by the wayside.

It wasn't that the Congress was so busy that it put them off for another time. Except for civil rights, which the President did not deem it prudent to press, it did consider them—and rejected them.

AS HE CAMPAIGNS across the country Kennedy will have a number of achievements to stress. He will have the signal accomplishment of the Trade Expansion Act in behalf of which the President's leadership was decisive. He will have the manpower re-training bill, the U. N. Bond issue, the needed postal rate increase, the Satellite Communications Act, tightened drug control, standby public works, and the boon to business from the tax incentive for new investment.

Most of these measures received a substantial bi-partisan vote. This is a source of strength to the President—but also a source of weakness. It revealed that even with large Democratic majorities Kennedy had to gain considerable Republican support to pass any controversial domestic legislation.

Francisco Beauty Drive

A campaign to beautify and stimulate development of San Rafael's Francisco Boulevard business district was begun yesterday by the newly formed Francisco Boulevard Assn. at a meeting at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant on the boulevard.

Charles Bellach, who presided, said the organization will work as a sub-group of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce on problems of its own area.

Bellach, Herbert Crocker and Lother Salin were chosen as "troika" chairmen with equal responsibility for leading the association.

Dues of $5 per month were established, committee chairmen were appointed, and two meetings were called for next week, Bellach said.

A breakfast meeting will be held at 8 a.m. Monday at Dominic's in addition to the noon meeting Wednesday, when the area will be mapped into blocks for a membership drive.

Clarence De Long was appointed chairman of a committee to work on street and freeway problems including landscaping, better lighting of Francisco Boulevard and "more intelligent" directional signs for the boulevard exit routes.

Bellach said Mrs. Alma L. Easton of Easton Enterprises volunteered to be the association's secretary.

Robert L. Peterson, who is attempting to start a bus system in San Rafael, said he is hopeful that service to East San Rafael can be incorporated.

A new typewriter disappeared from the College of Marin business education building sometime Monday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Weaver Meadows, instructor at the college, reported the loss to the sheriff yesterday afternoon. He said two new typewriters were delivered Monday afternoon. One had vanished by 10 o'clock that night.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Air Pollution Is Matter For Public Action, Everyone Should Cooperate

VAN DELLEN

Several years ago a smog descended on Brisbane, Australia, and physicians began receiving telephone calls from patients with asthma. Hundreds of men and women started wheezing, and it was more than a coincidence because all of the attacks began within a brief period of time. Something in the smog was responsible.

Undoubtedly, many respiratory disorders are caused by air pollution. Smog accentuates the bad effects of contamination because it keeps the pollutants close to the earth. The chemical nature of the particles and gases also plays a role; some are more irritating or poisoning than others.

NORMAL AIR contains nitrogen, oxygen, and lesser amounts of argon, carbon dioxide, and several other trace elements. Civilized man has added a number of substances to this, usually in the form of dusts, fumes, mists, vapors, and gases. Some are harmful by themselves, whereas others become toxic only after they combine with other chemicals in the air.

This is important because physicians have noticed an increase in bronchitis and the more disabling lung conditions such as emphysema, bronchiectasis, and cancer. In addition, the death rate from respiratory diseases in this country has more than doubled since 1949.

SMOKING IS PARTLY to blame because it is concentrated air pollution. But the noxious chemicals in dusts, fumes, and gases we are forced to breathe also are factors. The respiratory passages teem with bacteria that cause few if any symptoms unless the membranes are irritated or congested. In the circumstances, the inhalation of the chemicals leads ultimately to disorders such as bronchitis or emphysema. Some of the chemicals constrict the bronchial tubes and this probably was responsible for the asthmatic attacks in Australia mentioned previously. Other chemicals are carcinogenic — that is, they are capable of causing cancer.

Years of exposure usually are necessary and some individuals are more susceptible than others. Air pollution is a matter for public action. All of us must cooperate to cut it down at the source.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

MOVING STONES

E.P.K. writes: When a person has gallstones or kidney stones, can they be felt moving from place to place?

REPLY

Not unless the stones decide to leave the gall bladder or kidney. When this occurs the individual has one of the worst pains he will ever encounter.

TIRED AFTER HEPATITIS

R. W. writes: My daughter was in the hospital 10 weeks with hepatitis. That was a year ago. She still tires easily. Does she need more blood tests?

REPLY

Only if your physician suspects the liver is responsible for the girl's fatigue.

THYROID TABLETS

A.W. writes: Do people suffering from thyroid deficiency become invalids in time?

REPLY

No, because the deficiency can be corrected easily and quickly with thyroid extract. A tablet or two a day and the individual is "alive" again.

'Cultural Level' Of Ross Center To Be Discussed

Are wedding receptions and fashion shows "cultural" enough to be held in the Marin Art and Garden Center?

Ross town councilmen will discuss the "cultural level" of activities in the center when they meet at 8 p.m. today in the town hall.

At the last council meeting, councilmen said the center is zoned for community cultural use only. Wedding receptions and fashion shows, they said, don't fit the bill.

The council will also hold a hearing on an abandoned house at 1 Bolinas Avenue that residents say has become a breeding hole for rats which have invaded the neighborhood. Persons objecting to the burning of the Tonini apartment will be asked to show cause why the "nuisance" should not be abated.

Councilmen will also consider a request from Fred Wetheim, Madrona Avenue, to keep a horse on his property.

12 Cases Of Mumps Reported In Marin

Twelve cases of mumps, all in San Rafael, were reported to the Marin County Health Department last week.

Six cases of strep throat infections, three in Mill Valley, the others in Belvedere, Tiburon and Corte Madera, were also reported. Other communicable diseases reported include four cases of gonorrhea, two of syphilis, three of measles and one of infectious hepatitis.

Episcopal School Will Be Discussed

Desirability of starting an Episcopal Church school in Marin County will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in Whittaker Hall of St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Speaker will be Rev. Canon David Forbes, headmaster of Cathedral Boys School in San Francisco. His topic will be "The Church School in Comparison with the Public School."

Presbyterians Set 'Harvest Festival'

"Harvest Festival," first of three events to be held this fall to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia, is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Oct. 20.

Proceeds from the event will help build a new addition to the church. The celebration offers food, dancing, free entertainment, an art show and booths for baked goods, plants and hobbies, jewelry, needlework, novelties, books and other articles. There will be rides — including ponies—for the children.

Artists may enter works in the festival by contacting Dorothy Saver, chairman. The receiving date is Oct. 19, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

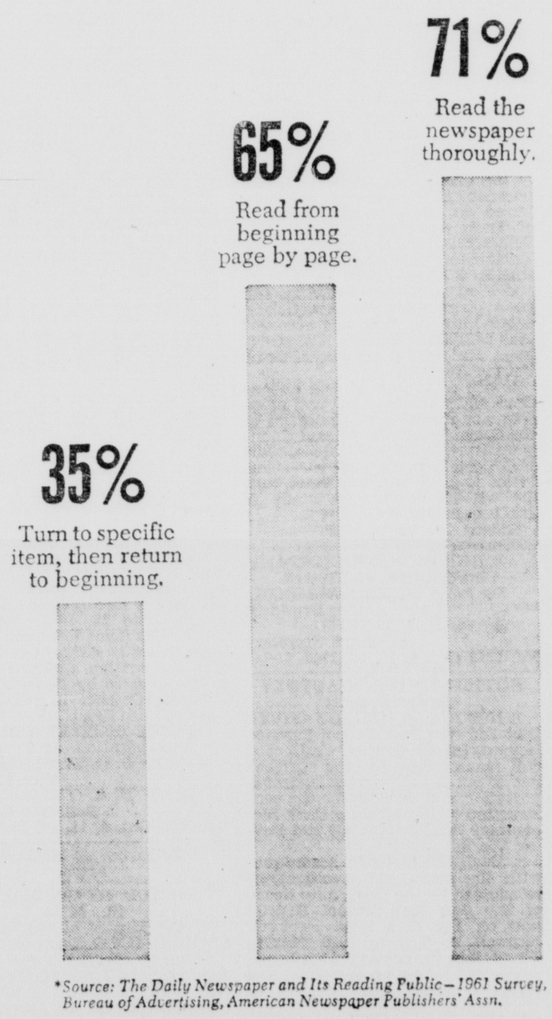
FRONT TO BACK . . . BACK TO FRONT

Research finds you're amazingly thorough in reading your newspaper



*Source: The Daily Newspaper and Its Reading Public—1961 Survey, Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Assn.

How do you read your Independent-Journal? Are you a front-to-back reader? Do you turn first to a specific item then return to the beginning? Do you scan the paper before reading?

Latest research* shows 65% of readers start from the beginning and read page by page; 35% turn first to a specific feature then return to the front.

But no matter where you start, research shows 71% of newspaper readers have this in common: they read the paper thoroughly. The news, the advertising, the features . . . they're all one in readership. In fact, 84% of women say they like to look at ads even when they don't plan to buy anything. And 75% of the men.

That's why this major research finding about "you" is of very real concern to every advertiser. For only you bring ads to "life" with your attention. Only you can make the decision on the values offered.

Your readership, then, is a governing force in the business life of the county. Thanks to you, any advertiser can know that whether his ad is on page 2 or 22 you'll find it, you'll read it . . . and for the best of all reasons.

Because it's where you want to read: in your newspaper.

Excessive Salt Intake Linked High Blood Pressure In Test

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some persons have to consume as much as 30 times more salt than other persons in order to taste salt, and this is medical science's newest evidence that salt consumption is somehow involved in causing persistent high blood pressure.

Physiological scientists generally believe there is some kind of link between salt in the diet and high blood pressure. The accumulated evidence in support of such a link is voluminous, and some scientists believe salt is the cause or among the causes of the disease.

But just how salt could produce such an effect remains in the realm of theory. The newest evidence suggests it could be related to quantity—that a little salt is harmless but large amounts are dangerous.

Three scientists took the new evidence from comparisons of the salt-tasting abilities of 20 persons with persistent high blood pressure (or essential hypertension in technical language) and 20 persons whose pressures were consistently normal.

Cups of water were arrayed on a table in rows of four. In each row one cup of water was flavored either with salt or sugar. In each row the flavored water varied in intensity of flavoring, from the very slight to the overpoweringly strong.

The hypertensives and the normals went to this table one by one, sipped from each cup, spat out the sip and washed out the mouth before sipping from the next. And each subject said whether he tasted anything in the water, and whether the taste was of salt or sugar.

There were no differences between their abilities to distinguish the sweet taste. But in the salt-tasting test, the hypertensives, in the main, had to get to the very strong solutions before they tasted salt, while most of the normals tasted salt in very weak solutions.

In a few instances there was no difference between an individual hypertensive and his "control," and in one instance the normal "control" needed more salt than the hypertensive in order to taste salt. But the positive variations between hypertensives and normals were in the big majority and were dramatic—ranging from twice as much salt to more than 30 times more salt.

The scientists were Norma Fallis, Louis Lasagna and Leon Tetreault of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. Lasagna is associate professor of medicine. To them their evidence meant "hypertensives may eat more salt because they cannot taste it as well as can normotensive individuals."

This, of course, does not mean salt is among the causes of the disease which is a great though secondary killer of people in that it sets them up for heart attacks, kidney malfunctions and other lethal ills. It could be, the scientists said, that high salt intake among hypertensives reflects either the nature of the disease or the treatment for it.

The next item for investigation is to find out if the brothers, sisters, children and parents of their hypertensives have the same effect in salt-tasting.

Another is to follow the normals who had to take in a lot of salt to taste salt, to see if they develop high blood pressure. These investigations, they said, could strengthen the evidence that excessive salt intake is a cause and that it is due to a tasting defect which may be inherited.

Student B Average

Gloria Karen Burke, daughter of Col. and Mrs. John D. Burke, 212 Reed Circle, Mill Valley, and graduate of Redwood High School, has received honorable mention from University of California at Davis for maintaining a 3.0 grade average (B average) for all courses undertaken during the school semesters of 1961-1962.

Mill Valley's Art Festival Scheduled

Steamed beer and pretzels will be served at sidewalk cafes on Throckmorton Avenue at the Sixth Annual Fall Arts Festival to be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday in Mill Valley.

Clearance has been given by the State Board of Equalization to the city to permit the sidewalk cafes since a deed restriction on Old Mill Park forbids the selling of fermented beverages in the park.

All other activities—the gallery and open air art show, the art in action, craft exhibits, festival theater entertainment and a wandering folk singer—will be within Old Mill Park itself. Hours of the celebration are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Paintings have been posted in shop windows in the city, a group of teen-agers were to clean the park today. Booths are to be decorated in brightly-colored cloths.

Sixteen Girl Scouts of Mill Valley Troop 79 have produced 25 lanterns covered with leaves to be hung in the gallery area. A number of teen-age boys, under leadership of Vic Poulsen, park department assistant, will be on hand nightly to guard equipment and installations.

Booths are being provided to sell hot dogs, pop corn, soft drinks and ice cream. There will be other booths for games.

One of the entertainment highlights will be the Guckenheimer Band which plays Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. Other entertainment is as follows:

Friday—7:30 p.m., Los Desperados Flamenco dance group; Miss Fourtunes, members of the Marin Chapter of Sweet Adelines Inc., and Andrew and Nan Susac of San Rafael in a one-act Mime drama, "Buffo and the Angel." John Donhoff of Mill Valley will act as master of ceremonies.

Saturday—2 p.m., a program designed for children, "Mimes for Children" with Nan Susac; Dick Ford Dancers; Junior Theater of Mill Valley presenting highlights from "Wizard of Oz," as directed by Jan MacCready. Jerry Montizambert of Mill Valley is master of ceremonies. Paula White, Belgian folk singer, will sing starting at 4 p.m. in the art area of the festival; 7 p.m., "Sweet Adelines," a chorus of 30; Nan Susac's "Mime Theater"; intermission; Mill Valley Recorder Society; 8:30 p.m., John and Ann Brebner of Sausalito, a company of two presenting "Shakespeare in Love"; Leg O' Mutton Players from Sausalito Little Theater, presenting favorite oleo acts.

Sunday—1-3 p.m., Guckenheimer Sauer Kraut Band; Los Desperados Flamenco Dance group; 4-5 p.m., Lyric string quartet by Jean Maguire of Mill Valley. Paula White will sing folk songs in the art area.

Artist Chloe Gregg Paintings On Display

Paintings by Chloe Gregg of Forest Farm, Forest Knolls, will be on display throughout October at Neville's restaurant and gallery on the boardwalk in Tiburon.

This is Miss Gregg's first major West Coast showing but she has participated in group shows of the Marin Art and Garden Club and other displays in the Bay Area and the eastern United States.

Stanford Alumni Dinner Planned

Marin County alumni of Stanford University will dine at 7 p.m. next Thursday at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club in one of eight sectional gatherings to be held simultaneously throughout the Bay Area.

Stanford President Wallace Sterling will be principal speaker by television, his personal appearance being at a San Francisco dinner. Trustee speaker will be W. Parmer Fuller III, San Francisco industrial executive. James W. Barnett of 41 Pixley Avenue, Corte Madera, is arrangements chairman.

The German city of Mainz, home of Johann Gutenberg, rests in a natural amphitheater on a tranquil big bend of the Rhine.

Rain, Rain, Go Away, Giants, Yanks Have To Play

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A steady rain forced cancellation today of scheduled workouts of the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants at Candlestick Park.

The two teams had been slated to stage workouts in preparation for the sixth game of the World Series tomorrow.

"But yesterday's soaker, plus the all-night drizzle and the continued rain today has forced us to keep the infield covered," said a Giants spokesman. "And the outfield is pretty wet."

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants didn't even get up this morning when he was informed it was raining. The Giants had been slated to work out at 11 a.m.

"He told me not to awaken him again until 1 p.m., said Mrs. Dark.

The rains let up to some extent late in the morning, but low, dark clouds hung over the ball park and there seemed little chance for the field to dry.

The weather man wasn't too optimistic about the future, either.

"The present storm will pass over the Bay Area early this afternoon, but another one far out to sea is on the way in," reported the weather bureau. "We do not know if it would arrive in time to stop the game scheduled tomorrow."

Meanwhile, manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees pondered whether to pitch Whitey Ford, Bill Stafford or one of the second-line hurlers.

The odds-makers in New York rated it even money if it is Stafford against Billy Pierce, who is scheduled to go for the Giants. If Ford hurls, the odds-makers have it six and one-half to five for the Yankees. The series odds still list the Yankees at three and one-half to one.

Dark has announced he'll definitely go with Pierce, the crafty 35-year-old southpaw who has never lost a game in Candlestick Park and boasts a 12-0 record there. If Pierce wins, then it probably will be Billy O'Dell in the seventh game.

Civic Center Dedication Set Saturday

(Other stories, photos, pages 13, 14, 15)

The first unit of the Marin County Civic Center—the result of millions of dollars and dozens of disputes—will be dedicated Saturday.

Dedication ceremonies will begin at 9:15 a.m., and tours of the building will be conducted from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The number of people expected to attend the long-awaited dedication has been estimated anywhere from 3,000 to 30,000.

Featured speaker at the dedication will be Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo. Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, wife of the building's architect, will also speak.

9:15 START

At 9:15 a.m. the ceremonies will begin with music by the Terra Linda High School band, followed by the flag raising by Boy Scout Troop 39 and the Hamilton Air Force Sergeants Assn.

A program of music will begin at 9:45 a.m. by the Marin Youth Orchestra, San Rafael High School Chorus and the Terra Linda High School Band.

INVOCATION

Msgr. C. J. McKenna of St. Vincent's School will offer the invocation at 10:15 a.m., and Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors will accept the keys to the building from contractor R. B. Rothschild.

Other guests participating in the ceremonies will be Judge Jordan L. Martinelli and Mrs. William Brice, grand vice president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Dedication will be said by Rev. John Riley of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

BAND CONCERTS

During the afternoon there will be band concerts by the U.S. Marine Corps Band from El Toro Station, Las Gallinas Sanitary District Non-Marching Band, Twelfth Naval District Band from Treasure Island, Novato High School Band and the Guckenheimer Sauerkraut Band.

After the dedication, a luncheon for guests will be held at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael.

The first unit, or administration building of the civic center, is part of a planned four-part complex. Second and third units will house courts, sheriff's department, jail and health department and estimated cost will be five or six million dollars.

Fourth unit will be an 80-acre fairground with amphitheater and lagoon.

By the end of this month, 18 county departments should be moved into the civic center's initial unit.

Adenauer Will Talk To JFK On Berlin

Would Precede Russ Chief

COMBINED UPI & AP

BONN—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer plans to visit President John F. Kennedy in Washington next month for Berlin talks in advance of a possible meeting between Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, it was learned today.

There was no official announcement of the 86-year-old chancellor's trip, but a Foreign Ministry spokesman indirectly confirmed it will take place. The time probably will be late in November.

Reports circulated here two weeks ago that Adenauer wanted to see Kennedy. The Foreign Ministry siad at that time there were no plans for such a trip this year.

WILLING TO MEET

Today, the spokesman said "it is correct to say that this comment no longer stands."

Kennedy has said he would be willing to meet with Khrushchev if the Soviet premier goes to New York to attend the United Nations session. Informed sources said Adenauer wants to confer with Kennedy before the president holds any talks with Khrushchev.

Earlier today Adenauer heatedly defended his Berlin policy against opposition charges that it lacks initiative and does not serve the national interest

NO CHANGES

He said Kennedy and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt agree with him that no basic changes were called for in the handling of the Berlin crisis.

The 86-year-old chancellor unexpectedly strode to the speaker's platform in the Bundestag (Parliament) during a debate on foreign policy after he was sharply criticized by Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the opposition Social Democratic party.

Adenauer said Ollenhauer's attacks went in the face of efforts to maintain a common Berlin and German policy and were made with the knowledge that they could not be fully answered during a full Bundestag session.

DRAKE'S BAY KNOLL

Rep. Miller Grave Site Is Selected

A half-acre knoll overlooking Drake's Bay will become the final resting place of Rep. Clem Miller and the first federal land acquisition for the Point Reyes National Seashore he helped create.

Graveside services for the Corte Madera congressman, killed last Sunday in a Humboldt County airplane crash, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday on the knoll in Bear Valley Ranch, north of Double Point, the congressman's headquarters announced today.

The half-acre has been deeded to the National Park Service by Bruce Kellam, owner of the vast Bear Valley Ranch, under a provision of the Point Reyes National Seashore Act which provides that lands for the national park may be donated.

There on Saturday, the congressman's body will be buried, under direction of Harry M. Williams Mortuary of San Rafael. Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will conduct the service. Congressional colleagues of Miller will be pall bearers.

The body was flown to Hamilton Air Force Base by an Air Force plane yesterday from Arcata, where it had been at a

Murphy Assails Second Deck As 'Hooey,' Wants New Span

Golden Gate Bridge directors will meet as a committee of the whole next week to discuss the possibility of a second deck on the span.

But some directors, particularly Marin director Leland Murphy, think a second deck "is a lot of hooey" and are urging construction of another bridge.

President Matt Graham of San Rafael called the committee meeting for 10:30 a.m. next Friday. It would consider a proposal by the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney for a $60,000 pre-preliminary study of engineering feasibility of a second deck.

But San Francisco director Daniel Del Carlo warned that increasing the number of lanes across the bridge is like "putting two necks on a bottle." Widening the bridge will not be effective unless roads leading to it are greatly improved, he said.

Director Ben Lerer of San Francisco said the bridge management should "take some initiative" in the planning of a second bridge whether it be built by the bridge district or some other agency.

He suggested a special committee of directors be set up to expedite such planning and warned that it would take seven to 10 years to build another crossing.

Murphy stressed that "we need a new bridge, possibly one to carry rapid transit. Let's get it."

The directors also called on their financial adviser, Arthur Young and Co. to produce an overdue special report on how bridge accounting procedures could be tightened. They also heard that September traffic across the bridge had increased four and one-half per cent above the same period last year and revenue had gone up four per cent to a total $425,790 for the month.

Marin's Storm Slacks Off; Mill Valley Festival Canceled

Marin's first heavy storm of the season slacked off last night.

Lighter rain and wind continued last night and today throughout Marin with overcast skies and some rain forecast for tomorrow.

The forecast caused the postponement of the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival, which was scheduled to be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday in the Old Mill Park.

(The announcement was made too late to revise the story on page 40 of today's Independent-Journal, although the schedule will remain virtually the same.)

The festival will be held next weekend, Oct. 19-21.

Heaviest rain was reported in Novato, where a half inch fell during the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today. In San Rafael, rain slacked off to a scant .02 of an inch for a 24-hour period ending at noon today.

Other rain figures taken for fall during the night were Woodacre, .12 of an inch, Mount Tamalpais, .22, and no rain at Point Reyes as of this morning. The Larkspur City Hall recorded 1.6 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today.

Bridge Transit Study Questioned

State officials have questioned the legality of the Golden Gate Bridge Board engineering review committee which turned down the feasibility of rapid transit trains on the bridge.

But the bridge's attorney gives the organization a clean bill of health.

Attorney Jerome B. White told the bridge directors this morning he had received a letter from Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk regarding the affair. Mosk said a complaint had been received from the state bureau of registrations, which administers the civil engineering act on the validity of using engineers not registered in California.

Kennedy Signs Self-Employed Pension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's signing of the self-employed pension bill was interpreted today as a peace gesture to the doctors who opposed his program of health care for the elderly.

Kennedy has been depicted as reluctant to let the measure become law. It permits self-employed persons such as doctors and lawyers to set up tax-eased pensions for themselves and their employees.

The fact that the president wasn't very pleased with the bill seemed to be substantiated by his silence in signing it. The usual White House statement and ceremonies which accompany such actions were conspicuously missing.

Reports of the president's reluctance were so widespread that Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), sponsor of the bill, contributed his efforts toward keeping Congress in session so the measure could be pocket-vetoed.

Recall Of Muir Beach CSD Head Is Demanded

By BRUCE COLEMAN

A conflict over a proposed water assessment district at Muir Beach has resulted in the demand for the recall of Wilbur R. Brown, president of the Muir Beach Community Services District.

The district provides water—labeled by various people as "terrible," "rusty" and "full of iron"—to 42 connections at the tiny seaside community. The petition, with 24 signatures, was filed late Tuesday in the county clerk's office by Muir Beach writer, Charles A. Borden.

The petition asks for recall on grounds that "without advance notice to his constituents he (Brown) abetted in the selection of an engineer and bonding counsel" and otherwise proceeded toward development of a project "which if approved would be a direct tax against the property of a majority of his constituents, and would include among other costs a $12,000 fee for engineering, legal and administrative costs."

It also states that Brown has been "less than diligent in directing and seeing that the present water system is maintained efficiently.

"He acted," the petition reads, "against the interest and request of a responsible and representative group of district property owners by his denial and negative attitude toward a petition presented to the board by 80 per cent of the resident home owners."

The "denial" refers to the stormy meeting of the board Oct. 3 at which time Borden, acting as spokesman, presented a petition to the board asking that the assessment district idea be dropped. The assessment district, the petition said, could lead to a rule by a minority of the largest land owners and "would take control of our indebtedness out of the hands of a voting majority of the members of our community."

A proposal to drop the assessment district was made but it died for lack of a second to Director Leslie M. Anderson's motion.

Brown said today that there was no action by the board because most board members felt that "the other side of the story" should be heard.

A meeting has been set to get all points of view, Brown said, to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the home of Robert Nelson under the sponsorship of the Muir Beach Improvement Assn.

At this meeting, according to Brown, residents will have an opportunity to hear the views of the district's engineer.

Pope Opens Vatican Council

He Says Meeting May Bring World 'Unity Of Mankind'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII, portly, fatherly figure in white, today opened the 21st Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church that he said may pave the way for the "unity of mankind."

With the scene and the 80-year-old Pontiff's words broadcast through space by the Telstar satellite, the Church in a four hour and 38-minute ceremony began the task of attuning itself to the nuclear age.

From the great basilica of St. Peter's the Pope addressed his words to all people as well as the 3,000 Roman Catholic leaders and about 50 observers from other Christian faiths assembled for the conclave.

Pope John spoke for 37 minutes after an inaugural Mass and a magnificent procession of richly-garbed prelates which made its way through St. Peter's Square to the sound of pealing church bells and the cheers of more than 150,000 spectators.

"Long live the Pope," they cried in a multitude of languages.

The traditional Italian language cheer of "Viva il Papa" was repeated inside the Basilica after the Pope's speech.

The Pope, who descended from his portable throne to enter and walk down the aisle of the ancient church converted into a modern council chamber with electronic novelties, was buoyant in the enthusiasm of opening the first Ecumenical Council in almost a century.

Historically, it will be known as the Second Vatican Council, held on the site where the Roman emperor Nero once fed Christians to the lions. It is the largest council in history, with prelates present from 53 countries on the six continents, and the first to be attended by protestant observers.

The Pope set the tone of optimism with his opening words: "Mother church rejoices.

For those of the non-Catholic observers who did not comprehend the ancient Latin tongue, Vatican interpreters mumured discretely the translation in modern languages.

When he finished his address, Pope John gave his apostolic benediction, left his throne, and mounted his gestatorial chair — or portable throne. Then, to the applause of the cardinals, archbishops and other prelates, and the playing of a hymn on the great organ, he was carried out of the basilica.

A few minutes after the ceremonies ended, the Pontiff appeared at the window of his apartment to impart his benediction to 8,000 persons in the square below—including many of the council fathers who had just left the basilica.

The obviously pleased Pope waved his hands and said, "Well, good afternoon." There was a murmur of amusement from the crowd.

Pope John, whose church must face the materialism, secularism, and the atheism epitomized by world communism, confronted the issue frrankly in his 4,000-word speech.

"The great problem confronting the world after almost 2,000 years, remains unchanged," he said. "Christ is ever resplendent as the center of his history and of life. Men are either with Him and His church . . . or else they are without Him and against Him."

Those who are against God," he said, "give rise to confusion, to bitterness in human relations, and to constant dangers of fratricidal wars."

At the same time, the Pope made clear Christianity had to keep pace with a world in the dawn of the space age.

The pontiff spoke from a special podium erected before the central altar of St. Peter's which underwent an astonishing transformation to accommodate this 12th Ecumenical Council in almost 2,000 years of Christianity.

Just before he spoke the Russian Orthodox Church announced in Moscow that it would send two observers — Vitali Borovoi, its representative in Geneva, and Vladimir Kotliarov, deputy head of a church mission in Jerusalem.

A handful of churchmen from some of the other communist countries also were able to attend.

Pope John spoke in an obviously optimistic mood.

"We feel we must disagree with those prophets of gloom who are always forecasting disaster, as though the end of the world was at hand," he said.

"Divine providence is leading us to a new order of human relations.

"In the daily exercise of our pastoral office, we sometimes have to listen, much to our regret to voices of persons who, though burning with zeal, are not endowed with too much sense of discretion or measure.

"In these modern times, they can see nothing but prevarication and ruin. And they behave as though they had learned nothing from history. . ."

Pope John said this council would make no changes in Christian doctrine but would take a hard look at the way it is presented.

"Our duty is not only to guard this precious treasure (Christian doctrine) as if we were concerned only with antiquity, but to dedicate ourselves with an earnest will and without fear to that work which our era demands of us, pursuing thus the path which the church has followed for 20 centuries," Pope John said.

"The salient point of this council is not, therefore, a discussion of one article or another of the fundamental doctrine of the Church, which has repeatedly been taught by the fathers and the ancient and modern theologians, and which is presumed to be well known and familiar to all.

"For this a council was not necessary. But from the renewed, serene and tranquil adhesion to all the teaching of this church in its entirety and preciseness . . . the whole world expects a step forward towards a doctrinal penetration and authentic doctrine which however should be studied and expounded through the methods of research and through the literary forms of modern thought."

"One thing," said Pope John, "is the substance of the ancient doctrine."

"And another is the way in which it is presented.

"It is this that must be taken into great consideration, with patience."

Pope John has dedicated his four year reign in a mission to erase outstanding differences between religions.

And not only Christians.

He told vatican authorities to eliminate — and they did — "offensive" references to the Jews in various catholic prayers.

Pope John spoke of tolerance for all. Mankind will understand itself as it gets old with knowledge, he said.

"At the outset of the Second Vatican Council," he said, "it is evident, as always, that the truth of the Lord will remain forever. We see, in fact, as one age succeeds the other, that the opinions of men follow one another and exclude each other, and often errors vanish as quickly as they arise, like fog before the sun."

Mississippi Faculty Unit Unable To Agree On Students' Discipline

OXFORD, Miss (UPI) — The University of Mississippi faculty senate was unable to agree last night on a resolution demanding disciplinary action against students heckling Negro James H. Meredith.

Firecrackers were exploded by students during the meeting of the 28-member body.

The president of the senate, Dr. Randolph Kinabrew, refused to comment on the resolution but denied there was any "major disagreement" during the two-hour meeting.

Kinabrew said that two resolutions were presented and referred to a special committee for possible consolidation.

It was learned that one resolution called for university officials to take all necessary steps to bring the student body "under the discipline proper to an institution of higher learning, including, if necessary, the expulsion from the university of all students participating in future disorders." The other resolution was believed critical of the university's handling of unruly students.

Earlier in the night, about 100 students gathered in front of the university cafeteria and jeered Meredith when he came out with his escort of marshals after dinner. "Go back to the cotton patch, you nigger," shouted one student. The taunts continued until the Meredith party disappeared from view.

Deputy U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach yesterday turned over to Dean of Students L. L. Love a list of seven students the government accused of participating in the bloody rioting which followed Meredith admission Sept. 30.

Katzenbach said "we have competent evidence" of the group's involvement but the university later said that one of the persons listed "had no connection" with the university.

The Justice Department official said that other names probably would be turned over to school authorities later. He emphasized that the releasing of evidence to the university did not preclude court action against the students.

"We don't plan to limit the names to those involved in the Sept. 30 rioting," a federal spokesman said. He said an effort is being made to get the names of students involved in a rowdy demonstration in front of the cafeteria Monday night.

"We are hoping the university is making its own inquiry and will take appropriate action," he said.

Treasurer Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed yesterday President John F. Kennedy's nomination of Rep. Kathryn E. Granahan, of Philadelphia, a Democrat, to be treasurer of the United States. She succeeds Mrs. Elizabeth Gatov of Kentfield.

The energy produced by one pound of coal burned in a modern electric generating station is equivalent to the energy exerted by a man working a full week.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Kennedy Signs Postage Hike Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy today signed a bill raising postage rates, and boosting salaries for more than a million federal employees.

Kennedy hailed it as an important step toward putting the postal system on a self-sustaining basis and making federal jobs more attractive.

Among the changes: first class mail will cost five cents, air mail eight cents beginning next Jan. 7.

With legislators who worked on the bill and representatives of postal unions watching, Kennedy put his signature to the legislation in his White House office as the first item on his day's schedule.

Train Death Now 34

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Rescue crews still searched for victims today in the wreckage of two international express trains that collided in a fog, killing at least 34 persons and injuring 67 others.

JFK Signs Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy signed into law today the historic trade expansion bill giving him vast power to reduce most tariffs, repeal others and forge economic links with the booming European Common Market.

The special authority to work out economic arrangements with the Common Market is regarded by the administration as the heart of the bill.

The booming six-nation area is looked upon as a potential vast new market for sales of American consumer goods and farm surpluses.

'Justifiable Homicide'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A coroner's jury yesterday cleared actress Saundra Edwards of criminal responsibility in the shotgun death of her actor-boyfriend who threatened to kill her. The jury ruled "justifiable homicide" in the case.

U.S. Nuclear Test Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans to set off another missile-launched nuclear test miles above the Pacific Sunday or Monday.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday that a submegaton device, of less force than a million tons of TNT, would be triggered at an altitude of "tens of kilometers."

Cuban Prisoners Delay

HAVANA (AP) — Negotiations hit a snag last night and the release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners was delayed again. But Prime Minister Fidel Castro planned further talks with negotiator James B. Donovan, possibly later today or tomorrow.

Test Ban Failure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Pressure by smaller nations apparently had failed today to bring the Soviet Union and the West any closer to agreement on a nuclear test ban.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made it clear yesterday that the United States and Britain will have nothing to do with another uncontrolled moratorium on nuclear testing as demanded by Moscow and some neutrals.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minpeated the Moscow refrain that the United States just wants international inspections for "espionage" purposes.

Army Assn. Honors Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, which went through lean times while old soldier Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, showed him last night that all is forgiven.

Eisenhower stood before about 2,000 bemedaled soldiers to receive the Army Assn.'s highest award.

The association, a private organization promoting Army causes, conferred on Eisenhower its George Catlett Marshall gold medal, named for the man who plucked him from obscurity and tapped him for the World War II command that made Eisenhower a hero.

5 Children Die In Fire

MODENA, N.Y. (UPI) — Five children of a migrant farm worker died last night in a fire which gutted their temporary home. State police said the youngsters, aged 8 to 17, were asleep on the first floor of the two-story wooden frame building on the Stanley Orchards Farm in this mid-Hudson Valley community. Three others, including two brothers of the victims, escaped unharmed.

Cut In School Time Off For Church Hit

Nearly 150 Catholics and some Lutherans poured into the meeting room of the Dixie School District Board of Trustees last night to protest a proposed cut in time granted district students for outside religious instruction, Supt. Dennie B. Willis reported today.

State law allows school districts to release students after they have completed a minimum school day. The minimum for first through third graders is 200 minutes, for fourth through eighth graders, 240 minutes.

Dixie trustees proposed that students from grades four to eight should remain in school for 30 minutes over the minimum. Students from grades one through three would have been free to attend religious classes if they wished.

John Maurer of 535 Quietwood Drive, Marinwood, representing a lay committee for the Catholic St. Isabella's Church, Terra Linda, said the church completely opposed any reduction in time for religious study.

A representative of the Lutheran Church said his church planned to ask religious instruction time this year and was in accord with the Catholic position.

None of the 150 members of the audience spoke in favor of keeping the students in school for the entire day.

"I evidently wasn't communicating with the lay committee," said Supt. Willis, "I worked with them for a month and thought we had worked out a satisfactory solution."

After a two hour discussion, the board voted unanimously to continue the present policy of granting the released time for this school year. Representatives of the district and churches will begin meeting immediately to establish a permanent policy.

Board members said they will announce the permanent policy no later than February, 1963.

Reviewing a proposed school district reorganization that would combine the Dixie, San Jose, Fairfax, San Anselmo, Lagunitas, Nicasio and San Rafael school districts, board members said they haven't had enough time or information to approve or disapprove the proposal.

They did, however, offer these comments:

1. The area described does not make up a community;
2. It appears to disregard topography;
3. It separates San Anselmo and Ross, which have no natural boundaries.

The board also agreed to slow down its building program by delaying the building of a school on the Miller Creek site. The district has enough schools now, they said, to take care of the students for a while. Grading on the site, however, to be done by O. C. Jones and Co., will begin next week and be completed within 90 days.

The board also approved a land trade of less than an acre off Nova Albion Way with the City of San Rafael. The school adds to the Vallecito School site; the city gets land for an enlarged street.

Ex-Marine's Murder Trial Is Recessed

The murder trial of ex-Marine Claude Hilton Bradley, 32, is recessed until Monday at 10 a.m. in Marin Superior Court.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety called a police sergeant and a 10-year-old girl to the witness stand yesterday to tell the jury how they found the body of Mrs. Carole Leona Frederick, 29, in her apartment last June 3.

The district attorney contends that Bradley, a husky truck driver and handy man, strangled Mrs. Frederick in the bedroom of her apartment at 45 Woodland Avenue. Bradley lived at 36 Woodland Avenue and knew the Frederick family.

A jury of nine women and three men, sitting before Judge Thomas F. Keating, heard from Nadine Schoeps, 10, a neighbor girl, who was staying with the Fredericks that night.

On Saturday, June 2, Nadine said she and her two younger brothers stayed at the Frederick home because their mother, Mrs. Zenaide Schoeps, went to work.

The next morning Gail Frederick, 11, went to her mother's room and came back crying, Nadine testified. They contacted Mrs. Schoeps, who called police.

San Rafael police Sgt. Louis Foster told the jurors he found Mrs. Frederick lying on top of her bed, dressed in a robe.

Remodeling Is Approved For Del Monte Hotel

Sausalito planning commissioners last night told developer F. Bruce Bernhard he can remodel the "deterioriating" Del Monte Hotel at 703 Bridgeway.

A ruling from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan states remodeling is permissible, chairman Mel Wax said today. There had been a question as to whether remodeling could be done since in the past the city had said that if cost of remodeling is more than 50 per cent of the building's value, the entire structure must be brought up to building code standards.

Bernhard plans to reduce the number of hotel rooms by half, said Wax. He had been told by the county health department to remodel or vacate since the four-story structure is considered to be in an advanced state of deterioration.

The commission decided Morris Singer must apply for a use permit to discontinue his Lucky Porky meat department, within the Del Monte Hotel building, and install a 12-stool coffee shop. This would change the use to restaurant use.

Stanley P. Berney of San Francisco was told to apply for a variance from the city council to permit him to place off street parking in an area zoned apartment-hotel for his proposed shop and apartment project near the corner of Bridgeway and Princess Street. Commissioners continued Berney's application for use permit until they see detailed plans of the project.

James Rector Lucas of Orinda was told he must seek a use permit from Sausalito to build a portion of his 73 unit apartment project within city limits. The greater part of the project at Waldo Point would be in unincorporated area.

Commissioners also forwarded their proposal for an interim sign ordinance to council. The ordinance, Wax said, has as its basic principle that signs are for identification rather than advertising. It states that there would be no multi-colored, illumination nor revolving signs permitted and that no illuminated signs be left on after stores closed.

McInnis Wins Bay Decision On Regional Planning Staff

San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis won a decision yesterday by a general assembly of the Association of Bay Area Governments to set up its own regional planning staff and assume responsibility henceforth for overall planning in the nine Bay Area counties.

"This should prevent repetition of any such fiasco as the recent project for a bridge between San Francisco and Tiburon," said McInnis, vice president of the association and chairman of its regional planning committee.

Action of the assembly, meeting all day at the Hotel Claremont in Oakland, was unanimously behind a report submitted by McInnis's committee as culmination of a year and a half of work.

"We expected a hassle but came out smelling like a rose," McInnis summarized.

McInnis said the committee was successful in persuading ABAG to assume responsibility for direction of regional planning in a way which has never been done. The plan will entail retention of a small full-time staff relying a great deal upon field work by city and county planning organizations of the member counties, he said.

Need for such work had been recognized in many quarters, particularly since the recent breakdown of "second bridge to Marin" efforts because of lack of necessary preliminary planning. McInnis said that the San Francisco Bay Transportation Coordinating Committee in seeking four million dollars for a transportation survey of the area had underscored this need.

"But we didn't want to see some super-planning body created," said McInnis. "The solution seemed to be for ABAG to take up the load, though opposition was expected but fortunately didn't materialize."

Part of the expense of the ABAG effort probably will be met by federal and state grants for which application is to be made, he added.

Union School Unit Meetings Change

Meeting night for the Union School District board was changed last night from the second Monday to the second Wednesday of each month, at the school.

This will make the board meeting coincide with the meeting of the Mother's Club, according to Mrs. Eleanor Pomi, clerk of the board.

A three-school Halloween party was planned last night for Union School, starting at noon on Oct. 29. It will be a costume pot-luck lunch party with Lincoln and Laguna schools, Mrs. Pomi said.

MILLER

mortuary since recovery Monday from the steep mountainside where the small twin-engine plane crashed last Sunday to carry Miller, pilot George Head, 41, of San Rafael, and Head's son Ronald, 14, to their deaths. Funeral services for the pilot and his son were held in Palo Alto, their former home.

The congressman's widow, Mrs. Katharine Miller, and their five daughters are to fly to Marin by Air Force plane from Washington, returning there after the services.

Aboard the same plane, arriving at Hamilton Air Force Base at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, will be Charles Daly of the White House staff, representing President John F. Kennedy; Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Calif.), and Reps. Harold T. Johnson, B. Frank Disk, John J. McFall, Harlan Hagan, and Jeffery Cohelan, all California Democrats. Other congressmen will also be present at the graveside services, traveling to Marin by private transportation.

Never before has a congressman been buried in a national park, according to Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service. But, said Wirth: "Point Reyes will be Congressman Miller's monument. We feel it is only appropriate that his last resting place be on the peninsula he saved for the rest of us and our children."

About 175 persons attended a 25-minute memorial service for Miller yesterday at Bethlehem Chapel in Washington. Beside his widow and daughters; his mother, Mrs. Katherine Miller, and his father-in-law, who is chief justice of the Delaware Supreme Court, those attending included political and governmental dignitaries and friends.

Planning Chairman Resigns In Larkspur

The Larkspur City Council accepted the resignation of planning commission chairman Vaughn Marker last night "with extreme regret" and voted to send him a letter of appreciation for his five years of service.

The council decided to await a recommendation from the commission for a member to fill the vacancy. Marker resigned effective Nov. 1 because of business activities.

Richard Vernon Johnson, 40, of 1424 Buchanan Street, Novato, must pay $166 fine and remain on six months probation for drunken driving.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court sentenced him yesterday for driving while intoxicated along South Novato Boulevard on Tuesday. Johnson also lost his driving privilege for two months.

TOLD BLUNTLY TO GET IN POLITICS

School Aides Hear Facts Of Life

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Jerome Waldie, majority leader of the California State Assembly, startled Marin County school administrators last night with some facts of political life.

There were gasps from among the audience of about 70 as Waldie, Contra Costa County Democrat, bluntly told a joint dinner meeting of the Marin County Elementary School Principals and Administrators Assn. at Sabella's Restaurant in Alto that:

1. Classroom teachers within the California Teachers Assn. need to hire their own lobbyist if they want the legislature to believe that CTA speaks for them.

2. The CTA ignored a basic fact of political life by having its bills in a Democratic-controlled legislature introduced by a Republican.

3. Teachers and school administrators had better talk with the legislators of their own districts if they expect to make their problems understood in Sacramento.

On the first point, Waldie pointed out that school administrators, although they belong to CTA, have their own organizations with Sacramento lobbyists, yet the classroom teachers do not.

"It is amazing how frequently the CTA position is in concurrence with the administrators' associations," he said.

Little wonder then, said Waldie, that the Legislature tended to believe the contention of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers that it, rather than CTA, spoke for the classroom teachers.

On the second point, he noted that "for 50 years the nonpartisan CTA has been introducing its bills quite properly through Republican legislators, but it failed to note that the political climate had changed in 1961 and the Democrats now have the majority party in Sacramento."

On the third point, he asked that "everyone present who knows Assemblyman (William T.) Bagley personally raise your hands." He had to repeat the request twice before about one out of 10 raised his hand.

"You also, I might add, should know his opponent," commented Waldie. (Bagley, Republican incumbent, is opposed by Democrat Robert D. Carrow for the Marin-Sonoma Assembly seat in the Nov. 6 election.)

"I think you are going to have to get some political awareness," said the speaker. "Bob McKay (the CTA's veteran lobbyist in Sacramento) cannot speak for you to Assemblyman Bagley the way you can speak to Assemblyman Bagley."

In introducing Waldie, County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis said, "Most of us feel the 1961 legislature was the most disastrous to education in the history of California."

Waldie said the session produced "perhaps some intemperate legislation dealing with education," but defended its major acts as attempts to gain needed reforms.

He said the provision of the Casey Act which requires that 60 per cent of a school district's operating budget be spent for classroom teacher salaries needs some revision to include some other positions which assist the classroom teachers but are not now included in the 60 per cent. But he said he firmly supports the philosophy of that act.

He said the Fisher Act, embodying many recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Education, was amended before passage to eliminate most of the objections raised by the CTA—yet the CTA continued to oppose it.

The primary issue of the next legislature regarding education, he predicted, will be restoration of state aid to school districts, which was reduced last year, "but how that's to be done is going to be a real problem." He said he was opposed to raising the additional funds through the property tax.

Asked regarding school district unification, Waldie declared it is necessary. He said he was one of three members of the Assembly Education Committee who opposed a two-year extension on the deadline for submitting county unification plans, and one of only eight assemblymen who voted against the extension on the floor. Gov. Edmund G. Brown vetoed the extension.

However, Waldie admitted ruefully that unifying school districts "is going to be extremely difficult politically. . . . There are too many little empires that are threatened by this."

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

To Discuss Issues

The Marin branch of the American Association of University Women will hear candidates and discuss issues on the November ballot at a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Ross School.

Republican Assemblyman Bruce Reagan of Pasadena, candidate for state controller, and Robert L. Coate, Northern California chairman for incumbent Controller Alan Cranston, will speak.

Seventh District Assemblyman William Bagley, a Marin County attorney, and attorney Alvin Goldstein, representing Bagley's Democratic opponent, Robert Carrow, also will be heard.

Mrs. Robert Rhoads and Mrs. R. J. Houston, members of the AAUW branch's legislative section, will speak on behalf of the two candidates —for state superintendent of public instruction, Mrs. Rhoads for Max Rafferty and Mrs. Houston for Ralph Richardson.

Mrs. Kenneth Moynihan will review Proposition 1-A, which provides funds for state college and university facilities; Mrs. Hugh G. Marchant will discuss Proposition 4, Mrs. J. S. Detweiler will talk on Proposition 23 and Mrs. Robin A. Galloway on Proposition 24.

The meeting is open to the public.

Coakley Meeting

"Marin Swings to Coakley," a party honoring Thomas Coakley, Republican candidate for state attorney general, will begin at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at 1 Main Street, Tiburon.

Coakley will attend the gathering, open to the public for ticket donations of $1, to discuss issues in the campaign.

Cranston To Visit

State Controller Alan Cranston will visit Marin County next Monday, on a tour which will take him through northern Mendocino County that night.

Cranston, Democratic candidate for re-election, will speak on the present and future state of business in California before the San Rafael Rotary Club at noon at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant. He will address the Mill Valley Awareness Group at 2 p.m. before driving on for a rally in Sonoma County.

His talk to the Rotarians will be heard over radio KTIM Monday at 6 p.m.

Prohibition Party

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "I lay awake three nights in a row trying to decide whether to vote for Brown or Nixon," said Dr. Robert L. Wycoff. "I felt I could vote for neither so I decided to run myself."

In a news conference yesterday, Wyckoff, 35, a Glendale attorney running for governor on the Prohibition Party ticket, said, "I am a definite underdog, but I believe I have a chance."

The Prohibition Party has a registration of 4,824 voters for the Nov. 6 election.

Busterud Charges

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sparks flew in the California political campaign today from an angry exchange in a previously quiet contest — the race for state treasurer.

State Treasurer Bert Betts, a Democrat, last night denied a charge by his Republican opponent, Assemblyman John Busterud of Santa Rosa, that two of his aides were guilty of conflict of interest.

Busterud, in a capital news conference yesterday, said Asst. Treasurer Santine Mee and his predecesser, E. Lee Friedrich used their positions to sell promotional stocks in corporations dealing in bank stocks.

He said this was a conflict of interest because California deposits its funds in banks throughout the state and the treasurer is the man that selects the banks.

In other developments:

1. Gov. Edmund G. Brown got into an argument with a Republican leader over a fishing trip the governor took on an oil company president's yacht.

2. Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R-Calif.) returned from Washington and launched his campaign for re-election against State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles.

3. Brown's mental hygiene director, Dr. Danial Blain, blasted Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for governor, for saying he would cut $6 million from the state budget "by not allowing derelicts to use state institutions as winter resorts."

But the ruckus over Busterud's charges created the biggest stir.

"We have scrupulously avoided any conflict of interest during my administration as state treasurer," Democrat Betts said.

"The false charges of my opponent serve only to again disclose his lack of knowledge and complete ignorance of financial affairs concerning the treasurer's office."

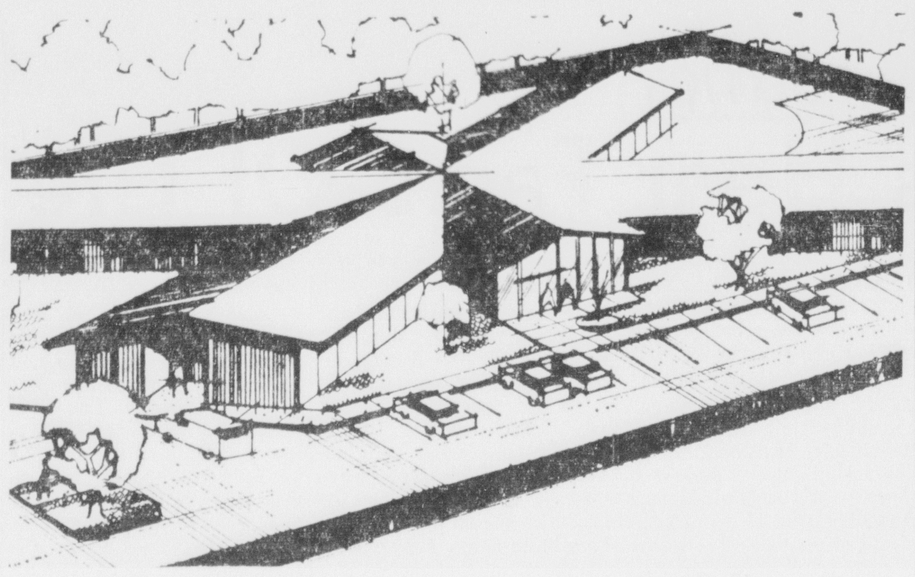
Corte Madera Park Job Let

A contract for returfing the first portion of the Corte Madera town park was awarded by the town council yesterday to A. and J. Shooter of San Rafael for $21,387, lowest of four bids.

Provision was made for seeding and turfing as well as six months maintenance on an area totaling 234,000 square feet, including the softball diamond.

The council also adopted a memorial honoring the late Rep. Clem Miller.

This was an adjourned regular meeting and the next regular session will be at 7:30 p.m. next Monday.



NEW CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL FOR NOVATO—Construction on this Novato Convalescent Hospital projected for a two-acre site on Tamalpais Avenue between Center and Novato Boulevards is expected to begin next week. The buildings were designed by Bond and Dougherty of Vallejo and will be of frame, stucco and stone construction.

Car Stolen From Nave Lanes Lot

A car vanished from the Nave Lanes parking lot in Ignacio last night, the owner complained to the sheriff.

Airman Carl S. Gray of 78th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base, said he had parked his 1953 convertible about 8 p.m. Two hours later, the car was gone.

The vehicle is a Chevrolet, white top and green body, with license number LBU 767.

Bolinas-Stinson Unit Due Social Studies Talk

Teachers of the Bolinas-Stinson Union High School District will explain how social studies are taught in the district at a board meeting to be held Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. at Bolinas School.

Trustees met last night and discussed possible tree planting around Bolinas School but took no action. It was noted, clerk Arthur E. Carpenter said, that the storage shed and new wiring circuit at Bolinas School have been completed.

Construction To Begin On Hospital Facility At Novato

Construction will begin next week on a $300,000 convalescent hospital on Tamalpais Avenue, Novato, between Center and Novato boulevards.

Developers of the project are Emil and Lydia Yanke, former operators of the Rafael Nursing Home in Santa Venetia and now living in Lodi. They also built the Center Medical Hospital opposite Terra Linda.

Yanke said the new facility will have a 70-bed capacity and offer complete nursing service and will be leased and operated by Frederick F. Babo and Associates, San Rafael.

It is being designed to handle patients in three categories: Post-operative convalescents, the chronically ill requiring special nursing care and geriatric patients.

The building contractor is Maurice Ray Jr. of Lodi. Completion is expected by next March.

$12 Theft From Taxi

Theft of $12 in change from a coin changer in a taxi cab parked in front of 4 G Street, San Rafael, was reported to police yesterday by Louis J. Milani, owner of the San Rafael Yellow Cab Co. Milani said the coin changer was placed under the front seat of the cab.

TWO FIGHTS LOOM FOR LEGIONNAIRES

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—American Legionnaires entered the final day of their annual convention today with two sprightly fights in view—school prayers and commander's election.

The school prayer issue popped up yesterday when a resolution committee suggested asking Congress for a constitutional amendment allowing prayers in public schools.

When a spirited battle broke out, Legionnaires tabled it until today. They said the less than one-third representation of the 3,015 eligible voting delegates was insufficient.

The resolution would ask Congress to "enable spoken prayer of a free and voluntary nature to be said in any and every location and place, including public schools, where citizens of the United States may gather."

Rabbi Robert I. Kahn of Houston, Tex., former national chaplain of the Legion, warned the delegates they were playing with fire."

The national commander's election between James Powers of Macon, Ga., and Joseph Matthews Fort Worth, Tex., looms as the closest in 14 years in the three-million member Legion.

Powers is the candidate of an informal but powerful selection committee. Matthews is the first serious challenger to the committee choice since 1948.

Backers of the committee claim Powers still will win by a 2-1 majority or more. The Matthews camp says its opponents may be surprised by large defections in such states as Pennsylvania, Missouri, Kansas and Cailfornia.

Novato Woman Kicked By Horse

Mrs. Gladys Johnston of 1530 Indian Valley Road, Novato, was in the hospital today with possible rib fractures suffered last night when a horse kicked her.

Hospital officials said she also suffered a puncture wound of the thigh. She was reported in good condition this morning at Novato General Hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Wiggins was called to investigate the accident about 7:30 last night.

A nurse at the hospital said Mrs. Johnston apparently had been leading one horse when another horse kicked her.

Demo Meeting Off

An "issues conference" scheduled by the Marin Democratic Assembly for Saturday at College of Marin, has been canceled because of the funeral of Rep. Clem Miller, Mrs. Jules Becker, chairman, announced today.

Muir Beach Recall Of CSD Head Demanded In Conflict Over Water

Watson S. Clifford, and its attorney, Edwin V. Ness.

"Muir Beach has the poorest water in the state," Brown said. "It's rusty and untreated well water. It requires treatment and it's the prime duty of the board to work to improve it."

County Health Officer William L. Desmond, who says his department takes samples of the water monthly, added that though the water system is substandard, it is not unsafe from a health standpoint.

"The water is high in iron content," he said, "having 30 parts per million, almost like a flat iron. It's terrible. It's not brackish, however," he said. Desmond also said he is personally well acquainted with the district which has "water lines sticking out of the streets. . . . There is an awful lot to be desired. . . . They are out of water sometimes for days at a time."

Deputy County Counsel Richard Godino said today that he estimates that if the petition is found to be sufficient, a recall election could be held between 90 and 100 days.

District Secretary William Hunt said that Mrs. Charles Graham has plans to file for nomination to Brown's post if he is recalled.

Muir Beach residents yesterday received letters signed by Oliver McMillan, board vice president, entitled "Open Letter to Charles A. Borden."

The letter charged Borden with having "created an atmosphere of suspicion and mistrust which threatens not only any hope that Muir Beach will ever have good water but even the continued existence of the present inadequate system."

It stated there is only one major question: "Do the people of Muir Beach wish to have good water, supplied in adequate quantity and at pressures sufficient not only for domestic use but for providing badly needed fire protection."

It also listed five "assinities." They are, in brief form, that Borden tried to convey that the assessment district is undemocratic, that Borden raised fears that pumping tests on the present well might result in salting of the well, that Borden claims the district has been advised that any further development of the present well site is inadvisable, that Borden maintains that planned development on former Weil property will obtain special advantages out of the proposed water improvement program and, lastly, that Borden conveyed the impression that "by withholding water the community of Muir Beach can prevent development in the area."

Borden, answering the letter yesterday, said "in order not to obscure the basic issue behind personal ones I will not dignify the attack on my integrity by reply.

"Everyone in the community should give the open letter quiet thought, to consider the statements made by the land developer and by the board, then make their own decisions."

Development Firm Moves

San Rafael Associates, Inc., a real estate development firm, has moved its offices from 1405 Fifth Avenue to 1800 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The firm has been active in developing many Marin County properties, principally in the construction of apartment houses, during the past three years. Recent projects have been the Sherwood Oaks Apartments in Fairfax and the Colonial Apartments under construction near Terra Linda.

Zunich Realty, which has acted as the firm's leasing agent and has shared office space with it at the Fifth Avenue address, has also moved to the new location.

No Tomales Meeting

The Tomales Bay Union School District board did not meet last night, but will meet some night next week after Roy Parks, who represents the Tomales High School District, returns from the State Board of Education meeting in Oceanside this weekend, according to Merle Lawson, chairman of the board.

LUCKY TO MOVE TO MARIN

Mrs. Glenn Osika started off her residence in Marin County with a good omen. She filled in an entry blank at Dexter Car Co., San Rafael, and won a 1953 four-door Dodge sedan. Here she is shown receiving the keys to her prize from sales manager Ronald Goode. A. L. Nieri of Crocker-Anglo National Bank, San Rafael (right) drew the lucky number. Mrs. Osika and her husband recently moved to Marin from Alaska and have purchased a home in Novato.

Larkspur Council Votes To Make Streets, Drainage Major Project

The Larkspur City Council last night took first constructive action on a 1961 five-year projection by City Mgr. Ronald E. Piper and a citizen committee report on it by voting to make improvement of streets and drainage a major city project.

The motion by Councilman Neil R. Brixon favoring the work on a pay-as-you-go basis passed 4-to-0, Mayor James J. Lienkaemper dissenting.

The mayor favored taking action on all needed improvements, not just the items the motion cited. Other councilmen indicated they preferred taking up other points in the report later.

The citizens committee report urged that:

1. The council consider earmarking specific sources of revenue for secondary street improvements and drainage repairs;

2. Remaining marshland be reserved for "highly controlled light industrial, administrative and professional or quality apartment" development;

3. Consideration be given to rezoning of some older single residential areas to apartment use;

4. Possibility of combining fire protection with the Kentfield fire district be considered;

5. The council consider "updating of the report every two years to assure the city is keeping abreast of any changes."

The council resumed its public hearing begun last week on the proposed new zoning ordinance, which the mayor praised as "a monumental effort."

Greenbrae developer Niels Schultz Jr. said from the floor he would "like to keep the door open for restricted and high density apartment construction," which he said made for lower city maintenance costs.

"Concluding the 45-minute renewed public hearing, the council returned the ordinance to the planning commission for one specific change: the provision voted last week that nonconforming signs be removed after three years instead of one year.

The Larkspur council also:

1. Reached policy decision that the planning commision may approve subdivision maps submitted for condominium apartments, clearing the way for approval of a condominium built by Heiman-McCall in Bon Air subdivision 4.

2. Voted 3-to-2 against a League of California Cities recommendation to increase the state gasoline tax by one-cent for roads. The vote was a defeat of a motion by Councilman Daniel Allen, seconded by Neil B. Brixon. Mayor Lienkaemper said the freeway program "has to level off somewhere."

3. Heard comment by Piper that secondary road improvements would cost $12,800 per year "plus all gas funds" and the city has only $4,000 budgeted for this; and storm drainage would come to $5,000 with only $4,000 budgeted.

Film On Moose Lodge To Be Shown In Novato

Prospective charter members of Novato's new Loyal Order of Moose Lodge may watch a movie about the lodge and talk to state membership director Jack Torrenga at a dinner meeting next week.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Cloud Five restaurant. Dr. Donald W. Lannan, publicity chairman, said that since the lodge has nearly enough applicants to obtain a charter, residents interested in being charter members should apply. Dinner reservations may be made with Lannan.

Larkspur To Lay Out City Park

After 33 minutes of see-saw discussion the Larkspur City Council last night in a 3-to-2 vote allotted the recreation commission $1,500 for planning consultant fees to lay out a 42-acre city park.

Councilman Lesly A. Daveler's motion, seconded by Councilman Neil R. Brixon, was opposed by Councilmen Robert J. Smith and Daniel Allen.

Smith wanted to delay until November.

The park will be situated in filled land, presently containing a county dump, between Doherty Drive and Corte Madera Creek.

Before the vote Brixon said he agreed with Smith's plea for delay and fellow councilmen appeared to agree. Then Daveler made his motion and Brixon switched his position.

Asking for action, recreation commissioner Peter Krug said the commission might as well disband if it had nothing to do.

School Unification Foes Speak Tomorrow

Bonnie S. Short of Inverness and Suzanne G. Baty of Point Reyes will speak before the State Board of Education in Oceanside tomorrow against the proposed school district reorganization proposal for the Tomales High School District area.

Mrs. Short will represent the West Marin Citizen's Committee for Better Education, which opposes the proposed plan. She said the board is expected to vote on the plan tomorrow.

RUSSELL W. BERNHARD
Parade in his honor

Academy Trustee Head Told

Cadets of the San Rafael Military Academy will participate in a dress parade at 4 p.m. Sunday to honor Dr. Russell W. Bernhard of San Rafael, elected president of the academy trustees Tuesday.

Dr. Bernhard succeeds Paul Ciampi, also of San Rafael, who is retiring after 12 years of service to the academy.

Re-elected to positions on the academy board were Roy A. Ibach of Mill Valley, vice president; Don Corey of San Rafael, secretary and Dr. Glenn W. Anderson of San Francisco, treasurer.

The annual parent-faculty tea sponsored by the Academy Mothers' Club will be held Sunday.

The parade and an open house from 2 to 4:30 p.m. will be open to the public.

Less than half of the 15.7 million Californians counted in the 1960 census were born outside the state.

Fairfax Parking Ban Held Up Temporarily

Enforcement of Fairfax's all-night parking ban, which went into effect yesterday, will be held up temporarily, it was announced today.

Mayor W. E. Radtke said City Atty. Wallace S. Myers is studying an amendment to the parking ban ordinance providing six-month permits for "hardship cases" to see how it can be made an emergency measure.

First reading of the amendment was held by the council Monday night. As passed by the council, without an urgency clause, the amendment would not go into effect until Dec. 13—one month after the council had intended it to take effect.

The council, in previous discussions, according to Radtke, "had intended that it be an emergency ordinance" to take effect at the same time police started issuing tickets after a one-month warning ticket period.

Police Chief James Orr said today that his officers would not issue warning tickets as it would be a "waste." He said he would wait until the ordinance is clarified, possibly at a special meeting.

Grindstone Finally Gets Delivered

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A grindstone ordered in 1898 was delivered the other day — 64 years late.

The late W. Gibson, of Bunbury, 114 miles south of Perth, ordered the grindstones at a local store. It was being brought from England in the barque Sepia which sank in 1898 just off the West Australian coast.

Old files showed it had been ordered by the Gibson family, and the barnacle-encrusted grindstone was delivered to the late Mr. Gibson's 77-year-old son.

A hearing by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Department on possible suspension or revocation of the liquor license of Oscar's, 114 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, was tentatively continued today until Nov. 19.

Owner of the bar, Beatrice D. Williams, has been charged by the ABC with selling liquor to minors. The hearing will be held in Painters' Hall, San Rafael. It was originally continued last July for today.

DON'T COUNT THEM OUT

Foreign Stock Holders Have Some Effect On Wall Street

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—In judging which way the stock market is likely to jump don't count out the foreign holders of American common stocks.

What they think of the prospects for good or bad times ahead in the United States—the chances of higher profits or of a profit squeeze, the outlook for capital gains or losses, and particularly their views of individual companies—can have important, if limited, effect on prices on Wall Street.

Foreigners hold U. S. common stocks valued currently at nearly 12 billion dollars. Any crisis selling—like that at the time of the Suez Canal pinch on Europe's economy — might be felt in American exchanges.

Usually foreign assessment of the situation here lines up pretty much with American investors' ideas. But the view from a distance sometimes can be different. In recent months Europeans have been quite free in offering Washington advice on how to handle its monetary and trade policies.

And what Europeans, Canadians and others think of how the American economy is shaping up could be important in setting some future stock market trends.

Americans, in turn, hold some 11 billion dollars in common stock of foreign corporations. In the last few years the volume of these holdings has fluctuated more than has that of foreign investment in American ventures.

U. S. investors woke up late to the opportunities offered by a revived European economy. And recently they have been disappointed in the downturn of European stock prices, like those of American stocks, and have cut their holdings.

International bankers cite the 12 billion dollars of U. S. stocks held abroad and the 11 billion dollars of foreign stocks held here to point the moral that today the financial communities of the world are perhaps as closely tied as are the international political policies.

While stock investments are the easiest to dispose of, direct investment by foreigners in American business also play an increasing role in the U. S. economy. Such investment — foreign controlled enterprises here like Shell Oil, Lipton, Lever Brothers, Bowater Paper—has increased in value threefold in the past 20 years. It now totals 7.5 billion dollars.

MARINITE HONORED FOR TRADE AID

James Campbell of 40 Clorinda Avenue, San Rafael (right) was given the Officers' Cross of the Order of Merit by Dr. Franz Breer, German consul-general in San Francisco, for aid to German trade in his capacity as superintendent of the Foreign Trade Zone in San Francisco. During the past 14 years Campbell played an important part in introducing such German products as the Volkswagen, German stainless steel, and Bavarian pottery.

Car Dealers Report No Adverse Comments On New Body Styles

If there is any one thing auto dealers seem to agree on this year—regardless of makes and models—it's the marked absence of adverse comments on body styles. So manufacturers must have arrived at a new milestone in designing.

Jack Hunt in San Rafael finds it so in the Chrysler and Plymouth lines. Chrysler Motors, he believes, has corrected what was considered objectionable in 1962. Big interest here seems to be in Chrysler's 300 hardtop. Opening days of the 1963 run have started off favorably, he reports.

New Mill Valley Chrysler and Plymouth dealer James L. Walker, Inc., reports a gratifying turnout since its recent opening. Activity has been brisk in all lines and the outlook is for heavy Valiant sales in particular.

Emil Bettini of Bianco Motors, San Rafael, claims: "Americans love to look at cars, especially at the beginning of the season." We've also found that true—the same faces at different showrooms on the same day. It's a pastime for many. No lack of customers at Bianco's apparently. Sales of Cadillac, Pontiac and Tempest outpaced 1962 introductory days.

But Jim Riggins, sales manager at Scripture Oldsmobile, San Rafael, felt the lookers were fewer. "However, those who came in were mostly buyers," he commented, "and that's what counts. The whole line was active. As for styling, people seem to go for the impression of size and room in a car. If they're going to spend a buck they want something to show for it." He thinks the World Series reduced the numbers of lookers.

Don Collins of Stenstrom Buick, San Rafael, reported both crowds and initial sales, attributing some of the interest to Buick's new Riviera. "It was the best introductory showing we've had," he said, and sales are cruising. That's a good sign—for 1962 was the best sales year we had since 1955. Collins finds heavy interest in the Skylark hardtop coupe.

The World Series also gets blamed by Emil Bugna for taking some of the edge away from initial car looking, though apparently it hasn't been serious enough to actually crimp Lincoln-Mercury-Meteor-Comet sales.

"I've been just as distracted by it as everyone else," he admitted. "After this if we win the pennant we might just as well close down for the playoffs and then we can get back to serious business."

GOOD START—After just four months, Novato Savings and Loan Assn., has passed the one-half-million-dollar mark in deposits.

DR. EDWARD M. LEWIS of Fair, Isaac and Co., computer consultants and a resident of Los Ranchitos, will address a technical session of the Oakland East Bay chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants tonight on data processing history and new developments.

JACK G. FRANK and J. Harry Goff of San Rafael will attend a New York Life career conference in Cottage Grove, Ore., Oct. 15-17. . . . Kenneth A. Thorp of Ignacio, assistant manager of Pacific Mutual Life's San Francisco agency, has been awarded the Chartered Life Underwriter designation by the American College of Life Underwriters.

GOBLINS, GHOSTS WILL PARADE AT GREENBRAE

Goblins, ghosts and other strange characters will parade for prizes Oct. 30 in Greenbrae.

The Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. today announced prizes for the best costumes will follow a Halloween parade for pupils of Greenbrae School. The line of march will be from Eliseo Drive and Via La Cumbre to the school, with the procession scheduled to move at 6:15 p.m. Refreshments will be served at the school.

Third annual harvest ball of the association will be held Oct. 20 at Corte Madera Recreation Center. Burt Milo, chairman, said he expected 250 to 350 to attend.

No Greyhound Fare Increase For Marin

Marin County and the Bay Area generally won't be affected by an otherwise statewide increase granted Western Greyhound Lines by the State Public Utilities Commission.

Favorable action by the commission yesterday, company officials estimated today, will produce around $931,200 a year as offset to a cost increase of $1,183,700 annually caused by pay increases effective last March 1.

First Aid Course

The American Red Cross chapter in San Rafael will begin a standard first aid course at 7:30 p.m. today with Cesare Claudio instructing. Persons wishing to register for the five-week class may do so through the chapter at 712 Fifth Avenue.

Who To Sue If House Is Faulty?

New Legal Theories Helpful

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you buy a home, and the thing cracks down the middle, whom do you sue?

The contractor: Sure. But who else?

According to recent legal theories—either promulgated or pending—California home owners may also hope to benefit by suing:

The building inspector who approved the job.

Or, perhaps, the savings and loan firm which financed it.

A January, 1961, California State Supreme Court decision lets suits be filed against governmental agencies not only for negligence of their employees but also for badly administered building codes.

And the state's savings and loan firms are watching a case known in Los Angeles court files as Eilkin vs. Conejo Valley. In it an attorney is seeking to have a lending agency held responsible for damages which occurred to homes it financed.

Conejo Valley has become a prime legal battleground in the issue of homeowners' suits because so many homes there have suffered damage.

The valley lies in Ventura County near the Los Angeles County lines. More than 400 homes were built there in 1959, most of them in the $15,000 class. Since then 40 owners have complained of such damages as:

Floor slabs which cracked, making more than one home a house divided.

Pipes which cracked in the slab, flooding interiors and exteriors with water.

One toilet which cracked right down the middle. So did the bathroom.

Home owners, headed by Thomas B. Eilkin, hired Los Angeles attorney Jerrold A. Fadem to represent them. After filing suit against the subdividers, Eilkin amended his complaint to include Great Western Savings and Loan Assn. of Los Angeles.

His contention:

"Great Western, by reason of its deep involvement in the tract—by financing it completely, exercising control over what was built, how the tract was laid out, ect.—is not a mere lender of money, but a joint venturer, and is liable as a partner for everything the subdivider did."

Great Western still hasn't officially replied to the charge, and no date has yet been set for the trial of the complex case. But officials of savings and loan firms are giving it considerable thought.

"I think we can safely say that if this contention is proved legally it will set a precedent in the state," said Fadem.

The State Savings and Loan Commission is already reported to be looking into somewhat the same matter—the fact that savings and loan firms are getting more and more involved in the development of land.

However, Great Western vice president Elwood A. Teague insists that the Conejo Valley has no connection whatever with the state's investigations.

"Our position in the entire matter has been strictly that of a lender," he said. "It is ridiculous for anyone to allege that we had any connection with the construction of homes."

Meantime, governmental jurisdictions are doing some apprehensive watching.

Since the California Supreme Court's 1961 decision, some two million dollars in suits have been filed each month against the state alone. Not all, of course, are homeowners' suits. Many are traffic matters.

The State Legislature has passed a moratorium on the trying of such suits, postponing hearings until 91 days after the close of the 1963 legislature.

Suits may be filed in the meantime, however. So far there have not been any filed against Ventura County, which surprises some viewers of the embattled Conejo Valley scene.

The county, although admitting it was shorthanded in the building inspector department, contends that inspectors who studied the Conejo Valley work enforced all the codes, the way they now stand.

County Public Works Director M. C. Lorenz has said he can find no evidence of delinquency by inspectors or builders.

"A county building permit," Lorenz said, "is not a guarantee that you will make a good purchase or one on which you can make a profit.

"The code is based on the police power to provide physical protection against an inadequate structure which might collapse on you and kill you.

"A cracked slab may be an economic loss but it cannot collapse and injure you physically."

The county says the trouble was a type of soil which shifts easily.

Nevertheless, County Department of Public Works is now investigating its own codes—to see if the codes, like the soil of Conejo Valley, need strengthening.

WHOSE FAULT IS THIS?—A housewife in the Conejo Valley section of northwest Los Angeles displays an unwanted crevice in the concrete slab of her home. Defects have appeared in other homes in the area and homeowners are suing. (AP Wirephoto)

Father Hurt In Fight With Son

A Greenbrae father suffered a possible broken ankle and concussion last night in a fight with his son, Sheriff's Deputy Wade R. Powell reported today.

The victim was Creighton Grant Thompson, 47, of 114 Bretano Way, who went to Marin General Hospital with a swollen face, black eye, bleeding nose, and swollen left ankle.

Thompson's wife, Helen Elizabeth Thompson, called the sheriff for help at 8:20 last night. She said she was in the kitchen when she heard a fight start between Thompson and their son, Airman 3/c Bruce Thompson of 78th Field Maintenance Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. Thompson told the officer the son knocked his father down, then kicked him. Thompson told Deputy Powell he did not want to press any charges.

The son was gone by the time the officer arrived. Marin Ambulance took the victim to the hospital.

According to the United States Office of Education, the salaries of public school teachers have risen from an estimated $325 in 1900 to an estimated $5,135 in 1960.

After 10 Years Civic Center Dedication Finally Here

Survived Turbulent History

After a 10-year, sometimes turbulent history, Marin County's multi-million-dollar civic center will be dedicated Saturday.

The initial unit of the center is nearly completed. Construction of the remaining units is not expected to begin for four years.

The idea of a civic center was stimulated in 1952 when the county government began to expand rapidly. The board of supervisors earmarked $1,250,000 for an addition to the courthouse. But construction was delayed at the request of chambers of commerce and other community organizations pending a thorough survey of need. This was conducted by the planning department and special consultants.

The resultant report, made in August, 1952, urged purchase of one of four sites for a government center. It was put to a popular vote, and two choices appeared on the November ballot: To spend 1.5 million dollars to build additions to the courthouse in downtown San Rafael or to spend 3.5 million dollars to buy land and build a civic center somewhere else. Voters emphatically said "no" to both propositions.

More studies were asked by the supervisors. Two citizens' advisory committees recommended purchase of the 140-acre Santa Venetia site. For six months the county held an exclusive option on the property at a price of $237,000. The option expired without action. When negotiations were resumed, the price had risen to $377,000.

Condemnation proceedings were instituted but were held to be improperly prepared and were thrown out of court. A year later negotiations began again, and finally, in April, 1956, the land was bought for $426,168.

Another survey that same year indicated county offices occupied 58,995 square feet when, for efficient functioning, they should occupy over 101,000 square feet.

During 1956 and 1957 the board of supervisors, with the help of department heads, interviewed 24 architects who might design a civic center.

At the same time, a $600,000 courthouse addition was built to satisfy immediate needs of the courts.

Following interviews with architects, the board signed a contract with Frank Lloyd Wright July 30, 1957. Wright came to Marin March 25, 1958, to present his preliminary plans.

First reactions to the plans were either enthusiastic or insulting. They were displayed throughout the county and approved by the board April 28, 1958.

Wright's own comment on his design was: "In Marin County you have one of the most beautiful landscapes I have seen, and I am proud to make the buildings of this county characteristic of the beauty of the county."

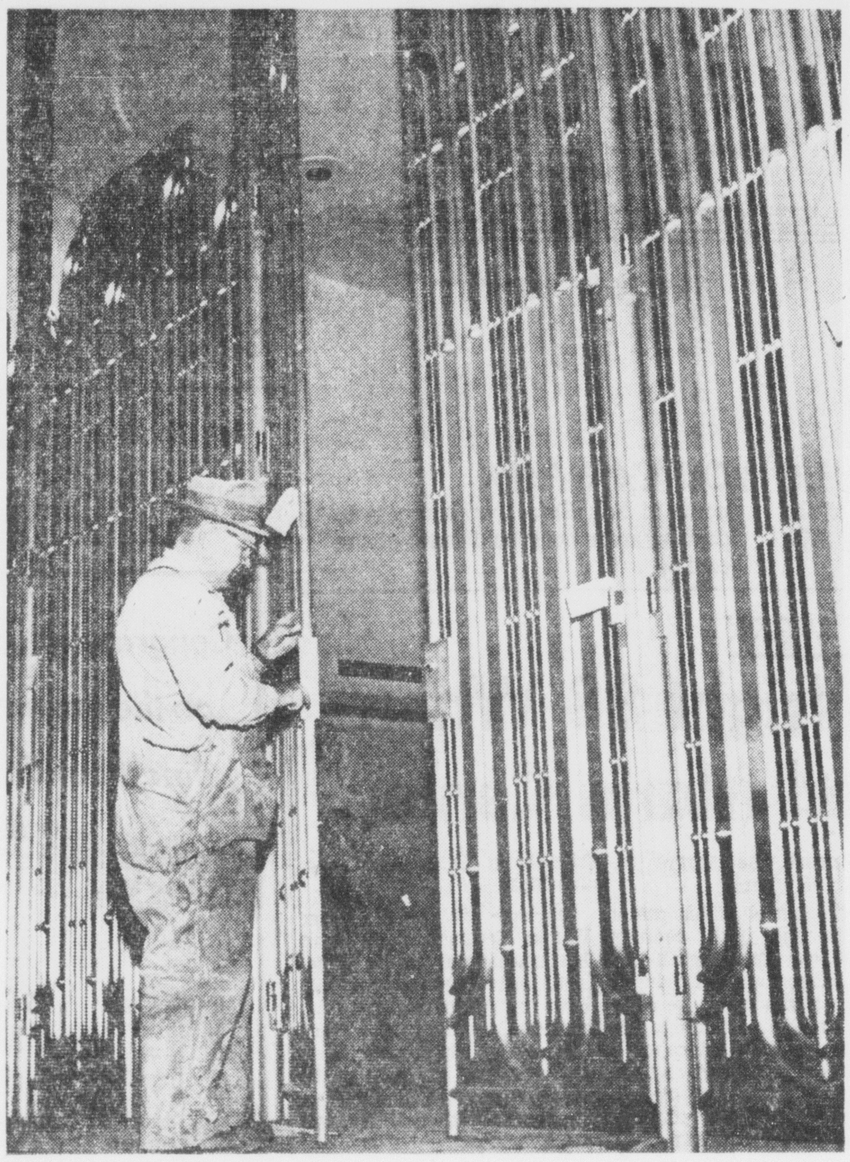
The construction firm of Rothschild, Raffin and Weirick, Inc., submitted a low bid of $3,230,200. Ground was broken in February, 1960, and work began the following month.

Plans for the civic center frequently had rough going at the hands of the board of supervisors, and on Jan. 11, 1961, the famous work stoppage took place. Six days later, 125 workers were pulled off the job, and a study began to consider use of the center as a county hospital.

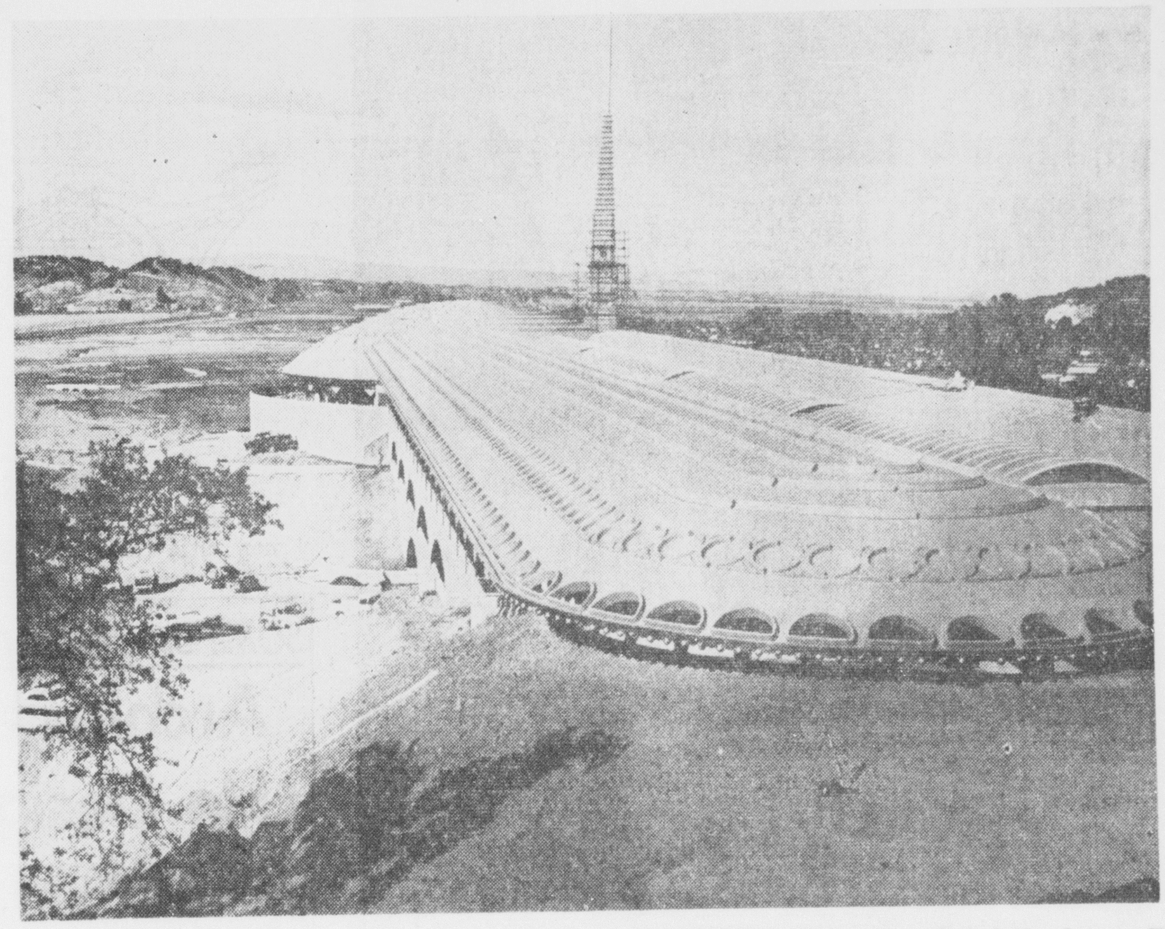
A public opinion poll was conducted by the Independent-Journal, resulting in 8,152 people against the stoppage and 1,225 in favor. Work resumed Jan. 17.

The first unit, or administration building, will be occupied by about half the county's departments. A second unit of identical design will join it to share the rotunda and create a wedge-shaped building connecting three hills. The second unit will house the courts and law enforcement departments.

A third unit will be a separate building to house the county health department. Some work has been started on the adjacent 80-acre fairgrounds site.



GOLDEN GATES—These "gold-aluminum" gates will mark the main entrance to the formidable civic center. Locks on the gates are checked here by O. N. Kringen of San Francisco.



INTEGRATED—The long, curving, sky-blue roof of the civic center is an extension of a hillside, in accord with architect Frank Lloyd Wright's demand that buildings be a part of their landscape. The building may be entered from the ground at any one of four levels. (Independent-Journal photos)

Marinwood Fire Department Open

Marinwood fire department has issued invitations to all children in the community to visit the firehouse, with their parents, to meet "Sparky," the department's 15-week old Dalmatian.

The dog is to be used in fire prevention work at schools, Fire Chief John G. Unsworth said.

Marinwood is holding open house this week at its Lucas Valley station in connection with fire prevention week and is also starting home fire prevention inspections.

Athletic Commissioner Is Named At College

Stephen C. Bryant of Mill Valley has been named student athletic commissioner by the College of Marin student executive council.

Bryant, of 36 Corte Madera Avenue, Mill Valley, was a member of the college's 1961 varsity basketball team.

Civic Center Visitors

The first unit of the Marin County Civic Center is already popular: an estimated average of 200 persons have visited the site every day in recent months in hopes of touring the building. It will be open for public inspection Saturday.

SOME SAY GREATEST WORK

Architect Wright 88 When He Designed Marin Center

Frank Lloyd Wright, the rebellious architect whose name and work created controversy throughout his life, was 88 when he designed the Marin Civic Center, one of his last major works.

He did not live to see final approval of plans for the center.

Preliminary plans for the center were approved in April, 1958. Wright died in Arizona April 9, 1959, when plans were 90 per cent complete, and final plans were approved in November, 1959.

William Wesley Peters, Wright's student and associate for 20 years, directed the completion of plans. He was assisted by Aaron Green, San Francisco architect and representative of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation.

Wright would have denied that the Marin Civic Center was his greatest work—as alleged by some. When asked what he considered his finest achievement, he always answered: "My next."

At the outset of his career late in the 19th century, Wright was considered a radical. When wooden gingerbread was the mode, he advocated simplicity of design. He made free use of modern methods and "glass, steel and the machine." Yet one of his tenets was design which enhanced the natural surroundings.

A native of Richland Center, Wis., Wright scorned popular American architecture but was proud of being an American. His public image was that of an irascible critic, but Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, sister of architect Peters, remembers Wright as warm and friendly in his personal relationships.

During his long career Wright designed more than 700 homes and public buildings, including the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo and the Guggenheim Museum in New York City. He received many honors, including the gold medal of the American Institute of Architects, although he was not a member.

Wright's wife, the former Olga Iovanovna Hinzenberg, will be among dedication day speakers. A co-founder of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, she is a lecturer, teacher and author of books emphasizing the relationship of art and life and the integrated individual.

No Longer Recruit

John C. Hamlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hamlett of 327 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center at San Diego.

Center Is Example Of Wright's Principle Of Improving Landscape

The Marin County Civic Center, to be dedicated Saturday, is an example of Frank Lloyd Wright's principle of "organic architecture."

Wright declared a good building "makes the landscape more beautiful than it was before that building was built." He also said function should be a first consideration.

Accordingly, Wright's theme of circles in the civic center reflects the contours of Marin's hills. Viewed from the building, the round hills are framed by the same form.

Wright insisted buildings should never be placed "on" hills, but rather "around" them. The roof of the center's first unit forms an unbroken line, emerging from one hill, with the building's arches blending into the hill's contours.

The 700-foot-long building contains three floors with 160,000 square feet of floor space. Offices were planned with movable partitions to permit changes as required.

A highly functional section is the semi-circular second-floor room in the rotunda. The room will seat 204 people. When divided by a folding partition, it will become two soundproof chambers for use by the board of supervisors and the planning commission.

Under the rotunda dome on the third floor, a circular library will be lighted indirectly and book stacks will radiate from the center.

Rotunda space on the first floor will be occupied by a cafeteria that will open onto a 100-foot terrace with a fountain in the center.

At the main entrance, under a great arch, motorists may get out and step on an escalator to the first floor.

A central mall running the length of the building allows natural light through a plastic skylight. The 172-foot tower, which hides boiler stacks, could be used for radio and television broadcasting.

The few colors in the building are "skyblue, clay-toned pink-tan, tile-red and gold-aluminum."

Floors in the building are pre-cast concrete slabs with vinyl asbestos on top.

Balconies run along the entire length of the three levels, five feet beyond the glass-walled interiors.

Community Chorus Seeking More Singers

Rehearsals for the College of Marin Community Chorus's Jan. 19 performance of "Elijah" are now in the fifth week and director Dr. S. Drummond Wolff is still seeking more singers.

The chorus now has 95 members, but more are needed, especially tenors and basses. Rehearsals are held at 8 p.m. each Thursday at Olney Hall, where the Mendelssohn oratorio will be staged.

Center Easy To Build

Despite its unusual features, the new civic center was not difficult to build, according to contractor R. B. Rothschild. "The structure is so logically designed from an engineering standpoint," he said, "that it presented no real construction problems. It was challenging but not difficult."

Charles Catania Performs The Sound Engineering For The Civic Center

The consulting audio or sound engineering for the County Supervisors's Chambers was performed by Charles Catania, who is well known in Marin County as the owner of Catania Sound in San Rafael. Charles Catania has had more than 26 years of experience with sound.

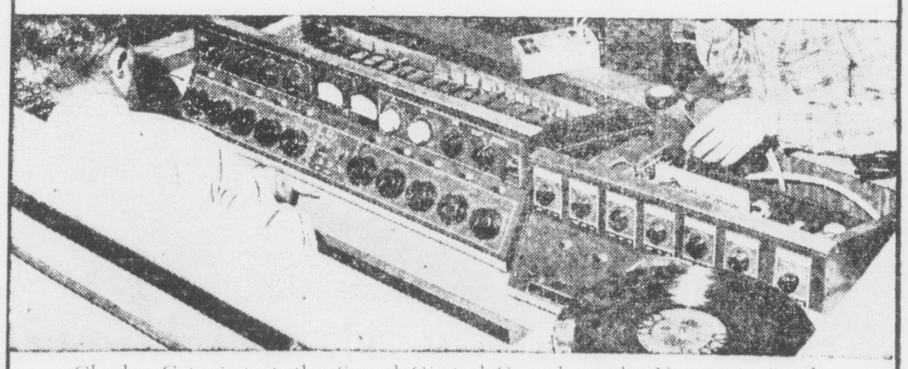
The modern and flexible system designed for the Supervisor's Chambers includes a tall rack loaded with a professional tape recorder, amplifiers, control relays, monitoring equipment, facilities for interconnection to the Planning Commission Chambers and facilities for feeding outgoing broadcast lines.

At the Clerk's position in the Chambers, Mr. Catania designed complete facilities for the remote control of the equipment in the rack which is located in another room.

The clerk can start and stop the recorder, individually control the volume of each microphone, rewind and play back the tape into the chamber, turn on and off the audience microphones, etc.

After discussion with the Supervisors, it was agreed that lavalier microphones should be used, so the design included tiny microphones which can hang from a neck band and yet give complete freedom of movement. At each Supervisor's position Catania engineered a control box with lights and switches to give each Supervisor even more flexibility.

Another outstanding feature of this unique engineering design, is the use of FM Wireless microphones for complete freedom of movement with no wires attached to the sound system and tape recorder.



Charles Catania tests the Sound Control Console at the Nugget in Sparks, Nevada. This equipment was engineered and designed by Charles Catania of San Rafael.

Charles Catania's consulting activities have taken him away from our area. He recently designed and engineered the complete sound system for the Nugget Theatre Restaurant, and the gambling casino additions at Sparks, Nevada. The Circus Room, as the restaurant is called, is a Las Vegas type show place featuring top flight entertainment. This Sound System features such elaborate innovations as a time delay unit, an enormous reverberation unit, electronically positioned microphones, and an operator control booth that sits right out in the middle of the Circus Room. An operator mans this sound booth throughout the show.

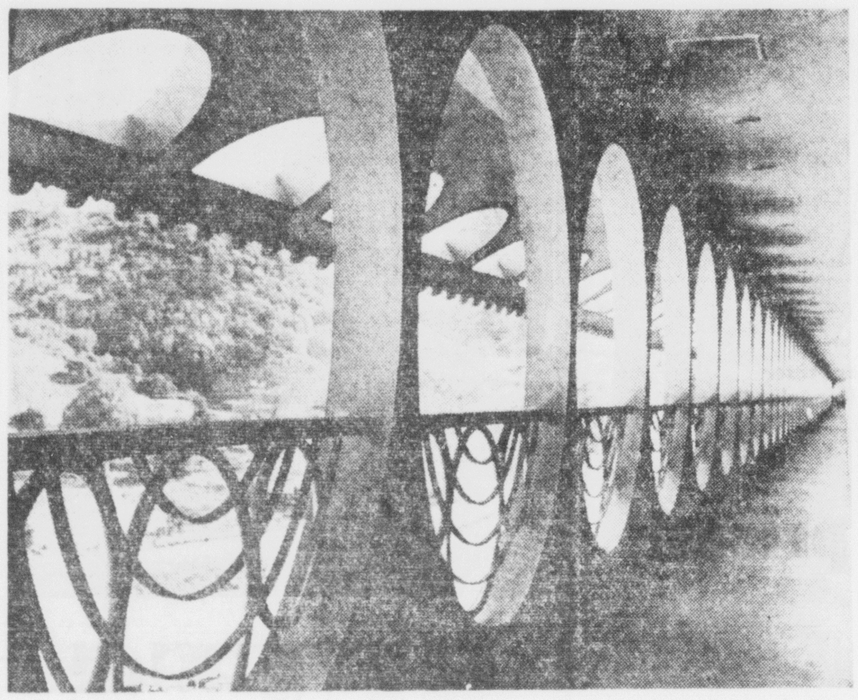
Other engineering jobs handled by Charles Catania are the completely new Sound Column Type Sound System in St. Raphael's church in San Rafael, the City of Oakland City Hall Council Chambers, the Diablo Valley College centralized sound system in their Activities Building, and many others too numerous to mention. At present, Mr. Catania is designing the complete sound system for the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. He is acting as a consultant for a large San Francisco Sound Contracting firm.

As Charles Catania puts it, professional consulting audio electronic engineering is a must for any architectural structure where the spoken word or music is to be used or performed.

SCENES AT CIVIC CENTER

Specially-designed walnut furniture for the civic center was made at state prison workshops in San Quentin and Soledad. Some of it, shown here, will be on display in the building's upper levels for Saturday's dedication.

FOR SUPERVISORS — Construction workers install sliding, soundproof panels in the board of supervisors room on the second-floor rotunda. The room will also be used by the planning commission.



REITERATION—Facade of the civic center emphasizes Wright's use of circles and half-circles throughout the building. From arches to roof trimming, the design is repeated. Enclosed balconies extend along all levels of the structure. (Independent-Journal photos)

Guide Dogs School For Blind Sets Graduation

An unusually small class of four blind persons will graduate from the Guide Dogs for the Blind Training school in Terra Linda in ceremonies beginning at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on the campus on Los Ranchitos Road.

The March graduating class of three was the smallest in the 20-year history of the school. Other classes this year ranged from five to nine students.

The four who have completed the month's training with their golden retrievers are Mrs. Alice Cox, Ardmore, Okla.; Mrs. Esther, Espinoza, Azusa; Mrs. Faye Langdon, Phoenix, Ariz., and Jack Polston, Huntington Beach.

Those interested may attend the graduation, which will include a guide dog demonstration.

Iron Grating Stolen

Theft of an iron grating, weighing between 400 and 500 pounds, which covered the San Rafael High School incinerator was reported to police yesterday by groundskeeper Louis Magetti. High school officials said the incinerator would be unusable until the grating was recovered or replaced.

2 Hurt In Separate Accidents

A Cotati man suffered a chin cut when his car blew a tire and tumbled from Highway 101 to the Lucas Valley road early today. Just after noon yesterday a Fairfax woman was similarly hurt because of a blowout on Highway 101 north of the Waldo Tunnel.

Basil L. Davidson was northbound at 3:50 a.m. today when his car left the highway after its right front tire exploded just south of the Lucas Valley overpass.

The car careened down the divider section between the northbound and southbound bridges and after traveling 169 feet, tore out some guard rail and then crossed both lanes of the Lucas Valley road. Davidson was treated at San Rafael General Hospital.

Alfreda May Schunk of 17 Taylor Drive, Fairfax, southbound 500 feet from the Waldo tunnel at 12:20 p.m. yesterday, told the California Highway Patrol that her car struck a rock on the roadway and its left rear tire exploded.

The vehicle ran into the bank. Despite her cut chin the driver declined hospitalization.

Fairfax Police Exam

Application forms are available now at the Fairfax Police Department for the position of police officer with the starting salary $515 for the first six months, followed by a raise to $540. The written examination for the position will be given at 10 a.m. Oct. 27 in the council chambers for applicants between the ages of 21 and 35.

Tam Valley Sanitation

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary district directors will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Tamalpais Valley firehouse to discuss a proposed assessment district to install sewers in Fairview Park subdivision. The subdivision is located off Shoreline Highway near West California Avenue.

Speech At Civic Center Dedication To Be Personal Tribute To Wright

The civic center dedication speech by Dr. Theodore A. Gill will be a kind of personal tribute to architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

When Gill was an undergraduate at the University of Wisconsin he met Wright, who was a frequent visitor there. Now president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Gill continues to be an admirer of the work of the world-famous architect.

"Wright was the first truly great man in my young life," Gill says. He recalls Wright, then a resident at nearby Taliesin East, was a dramatic figure whose bold stride and regal air were enhanced by his traditional cape.

Gill was a student of art and philosophy before turning to theology in his senior year, and he followed Wright's career closely. During his world travels, Gill has made special efforts to view most of Wright's creations.

Commenting on his invitation (he was number four) to make the civic center dedication speech, Gill said: "When the committee was unable to get the notables, they decided to turn to home talent. I am not sure that I am 'talent,' but I am at home and I was never more glad that Marin is home than when I went through its magnificent civic center."

Gill, 42, is the fifth president of the 90-year-old theological seminary. He is known for his forthright critiques on the religious, political and social scene. He has expressed his concept of the church's function in such statements as: "I have a deep conviction that before the church can know how to give its answers to the world it has got to listen to the world's questions."

Gill was born in Eveleth, Minn. After his graduation from the University of Wisconsin, he attended Princeton and Union Theological Seminaries and the University of Basle and University of Zurich in Switzerland.

Door-To-Door Crusade Starts Tomorrow

Tomorrow is kick-off day for the 1962 United Crusade residential campaign.

Volunteers are ready to begin door-to-door calls throughout Marin, according to Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon of Kentfield, long-time Crusade leader and this year's residential division chairman.

A week's concentrated drive is planned.

The residential division involves five times more volunteers (about 3,000) than the six other divisions combined, and its quota is by far the largest. This year's goal is $48,085, approximately one-third the county quota of $145,893.

Work in the residential division is the last to start, and follows by several weeks the kick-off in the advance gifts and on-the-job divisions.

"Higher dollar production" in the door-to-door campaign is anticipated by the division chairman.

"I have never seen more enthusiasm or better organization," Mrs. Mellon said, "not even last year when our division went over its quota by more than $5,000.

Crusade agencies, their assigned areas and quotas are:

Catholic Social Service, Greater San Rafael and Santa Venetia area, $6,480; Marin Jewish Community Center, Terra Linda, $1,365; Camp Fire Girls, Greater San Anselmo, $3,500; Marin Aid to Retarded Children, Oak Manor (Fairfax), $165; Family Service Agency, Ross, $4,450; Sunny Hills, Kentfield, $4,360; Children's Home Society, Greenbrae, $2,285; Catholic Youth Organization, Larkspur, $1,350; Y.M.C.A., Corte Madera, $995; Girl Scouts, Greater Mill Valley, $5,150; Marin Council of Community Services, Marin City, $210; Marin Chapter American Red Cross, Sausalito, $2,960; and Belvedere-Tiburon-Strawberry, $7,225; Y.W.C.A., Novato and Black Point, $875.

In addition to the Crusade agencies, the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc., is taking part in the campaign and has been assigned to Point San Pedro east of San Rafael. Quota is $2,830.

Areas not assigned to agencies will be covered by individual volunteers. They include Fairfax, $420; Marinwood-Lucas Valley, $640; Loma Verde-Marin Golf and Country Club Estates, $675; San Geronimo Valley and Nicasio, $565; West Marin, $1,585.

Radio KTIM will broadcast special instructions for Marin volunteers at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. tomorrow, following telecasts at 10 o'clock on KTVU and 3 o'clock on KQED for all Bay Area residential campaigners.

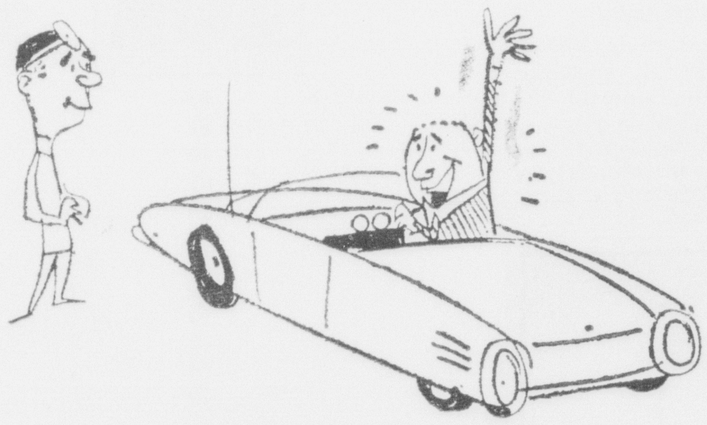
We're guilty of selling '63 models at year end prices!

Being of sound (?) minds and bodies, we willingly admit, without being subjected to duress, that we are guilty.

Yes, we are guilty of violating the unwritten law of automobile merchandising by accepting deals on the whole line-up of new 1963 Ford cars and trucks, including the Thunderbird, that other dealers might begrudgingly accept only on last year's models at so-called clearance sales.

Our crime has resulted in over 150 sales of 1963 models already to our happy customers who don't mind winking at an old fashioned law.

And, being incorrigable, we intend to continue breaking this law, and we're betting at least 150 more otherwise law-abiding citizens of Marin will also wink at this law by October 31.



Ole Kopy Kats

Notice how other dealers are trying desperately to imitate our merchandising policies? There's still a big difference though. They can't and won't give up as large a share of their profit on each car.

COME IN AND REGISTER!

You may win a new Thunderbird or one of 1224 other terrific prizes. No obligation, of course.

GIANTS RETURN HOME

The San Francisco Giants returned home last night from New York and were greeted by a small group of 100 persons when the Giants' plane landed at the airport. The crowd was a small comparison to the 50,000 which greeted them after the Giants won the playoff game from the Los Angeles Dodgers. (See story on page 18.)

Giants Must Win Tomorrow; Call On Lefty Billy Pierce To Pitch

It just had to happen. And now the Giants can try to bounce back once more.

San Francisco's own were one game from disaster today following yesterday's 5-3 New York Yankee victory in New York that gave the American League champions a three-to-two edge in the World Series.

As the rivals prepare for the sixth game here tomorrow, the Yankees need only one more victory to record their 20th world championship in the last 40 years.

The Giants, of course, must win tomorrow's as well as the seventh game on Saturday to reign as champions. Since they were forced to come from behind all through the regular season, why should the script be scrapped in the World Series?

They didn't catch the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race until the final day of the season after trailing since July 9. Then they had to overcome a 4-2 deficit with four runs in the ninth inning to win the final playoff game for the pennant.

The Giants' task is much more difficult now despite the fact the balance of the series will be played in their home park. They must beat southpaw Whitey Ford and righthander Bill Stafford, although not necessarily in that order. Each owns a victory without having tasted defeat in the series.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants named lefty Billy Pierce his sixth game pitcher immediately after yesterday's Yankee victory, which was triggered by Tom Tresh's three-run homer in the eighth inning. The blow by the rookie outfielder, off righthander Jack Sanford, snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Ralph Terry his first World Series triumph after four defeats, one in the current series.

Dark, however, delayed naming the rest of the lineup until he learned the identity of the Yankee starting pitcher. New York manager Ralph Houk said his pitcher would be either Ford or Stafford, but declined to name him until after the workout this afternoon.

"I still think we'll win it," said Dark, despite odds making the Yanks 3½-1 favorites. "I've said all along the series will go seven games and we'll win it. I feel we can beat them two straight."

Houk did no gloating. He is fully aware thatt his has been a terrific struggle so far, with very little to choose between the two teams. Going into the seventh inning, neither team has had more than a one-run lead in any of the five games.

The Yankees have collected 38 hits to 37 for the Giants. Tresh's homer yesterday was only the second for the Yankees. The Giants have hit five off Yankee pitching. Only in the first game has either team hit in double figures.

If Ford pitches tomorrow, he will be making his third start in the series. He won the opener 6-2 and then went six innings, giving up two runs, in the fourth game, last Monday, won by the Giants 7-3. Jim Coates was charged with the loss.

Bulldogs, Hornets Clash Tomorrow

With both teams trying for their first Marin County Athletic League victory for the season, the Novato Hornets and San Rafael Bulldogs will clash tomorrow at 4 p.m. on the San Rafael High School field.

Novato lost to Redwood 6-0 in its league opener last week and the Bulldogs were downed by Drake 14-13 in San Rafael's '62 league debut.

Novato could not get its running game moving last week against the Redwood Giants as Novato only rolled up 71 net yards and made but three first downs.

Big running threat for Novato tomorrow will be John Miller, a left halfback who carried the ball 12 times last week. Miller will be trying to move the ball to pick up his 2.1 average which he managed against the Giants in the league opener.

San Rafael will be hoping for a comeback after their close defeat in its opener. Head grid coach Bob Muster now knows his chargers are possible of winning many games after last week's showing.

Although Drake won on the scoreboard — and that's what counts — San Rafael had the wide margin on paper. San Rafael led in total offense, 241 to 118 for Drake. And San Rafael hit for 13 first downs to four for the Pirates.

Left halfback Mike Shafer for San Rafael is fresh from a big ground game last week. Against the Pirates, Mike picked up 142 yards in 29 carries. If Novato is to stop San Rafael, they will have to stop the hard running halfback.

Dark Says Series Will Go Full Limit Of Seven Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants still are full of fight.

"It'll go seven games," said manager Alvin Dark, "whoever takes the seventh takes it all."

"We have a great record in our own park," said 35-year-old lefthander Billy Pierce, who'll pitch the sixth game when the World Series returns to San Francisco tomorrow with the New York Yankees leading 3-2 victories. "We still have a good chance to win it."

Pierce lost the opener at San Francisco last Thursday but he'll have four days of rest before his next start and he vows he'll be ready to prevent the Yankees from winning their 20th world championship. He has won 12 games while losing only one in that park.

SANFORD GLUM

In the Giant clubhouse after yesterday's 5-3 defeat on an eighth inning homer by Tom Tresh good for three runs off Jack Sanford, most of the losers still were full of fight. But not Sanford.

"This is the one we wanted to win, the big one," he said in a barely audible voice.

But after holding the Yankees to two runs on three hits for seven innings, Sanford gave up singles to Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson with one out in the eighth and then Tresh homered to wrap up the victory.

"I tried for a strike on the outside corner but it was a fast ball right up the middle and that was it," Sanford said. "I was trying to strike him out with two men on and (Mickey) Mantle coming up next.

OVER PLATE

"We want to pitch fast balls to Tersh on the outside and curve balls low. I got it over the plate and about knee high.

"It was the worst game we have played in a long time," Dark said, but he refused to elaborate except to parry a question with, "What kind of a first inning do you call that?"

Second baseman Chuck Hiller and first baseman Willie McCovey both made errors in the inning although the Yankees didn't score. Sanford bailed himself out with a double play after catching a liner by Tresh and throwing to first to double Richardson. McCovey tried to turn it into a triple play by throwing to second in an effort to trap Kubek but Tony got back safely.

Through the first seven innings, the Yankees had managed to score their two runs on a wild pitch and a passed ball instead of the power for which they're noted.

A SLIDER

"I can't remember when I let in a run with a wild pitch," Sanford said. "This one came on a slider that spun away from the catcher."

Catcher Tom Haller, who let a passed ball go by him for a run in the sixth, said, "It was a curve ball that hit my glove and I must have taken my eye off it."

One gleeful Giant was little Jose Pagan, San Francisco's hottest hitter of the series, who rapped a homer and a single off winner Ralph Terry.

"I love to play these big games," said the 27-year-old shortstop from Puerto Rico who played a 100-game schedule of winter baseball in addition to the 165 in the National League. "My homer? It was a fastball, inside."

What Happened To Big Power Hitters Of Yanks And Giants?

CONNOLLY

What do you suppose comes over a ball club that one day picks you up and sends you into ecstacies, and the next day leaves you flat as a pancake?

Your guess is as good as mine. The so-called vaunted power house attack of the Giants and Yanks has been a lot of malarkey.

Who of the high priced athletes, the guys who collect the real sugar, have done a dime's worth in this World Series swinging into its sixth game tomorrow?

You can't say Willie Mays, the anchor man all year, has looked like a $90,000 a year baby; you haven't seen a thing resembling the "Baby Bull" Cepeda earning his $46,000, and outside of Felipe Alou, who looks better than usual, the penny ante players on both clubs have carried the burden. Guys like Chuck Hiller, Tom Haller, Willie McCovey and Jose Pagan, the small pay check guys, have done what the other guys are paid to do. Of course I'll add that the pitching staffs, to a man, really deserve a lot of credit for checking the high priced and high powered Yankee thunderbolts.

BUT GOOD pitching, if it isn't coupled with timely hitting is wasted, just like it was when Jack Sanford struggled through yesterday's ball game.

Even the radio announcers like Joe Gargialo and George Kells saw in Sanford a tiring individual. But Manager Dark who has so often jerked Sanford yesterday allowed him to continue.

The Yankees have a similar situation. The big salaried guys like Mantle, Maris, Howard haven't proved they are worth their paychecks.

IT'S A FUNNY thing but you'd suppose that in a short series, such as a seven game affair, managers would be more alert than they are. But they are so engrossed in so-called strategy and so close to the forest "they can't see the trees."

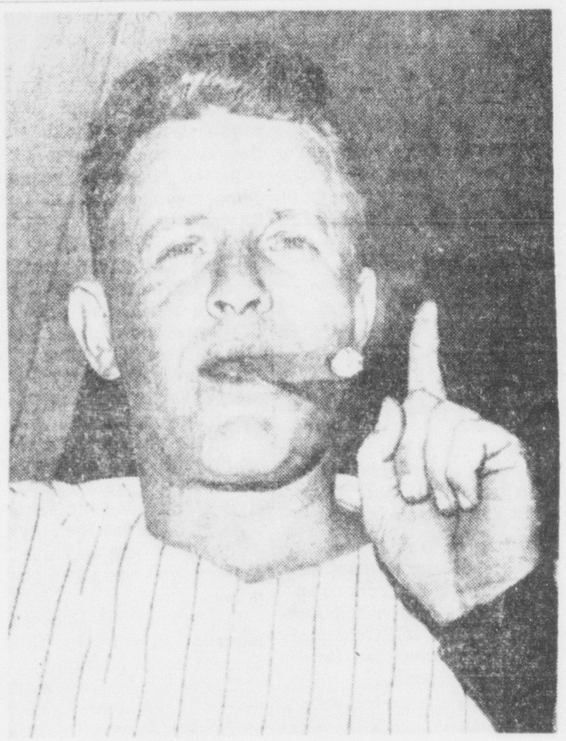
Todate the World Series has been, if you want to call it major league baseball, a monumental catastrophe. From a standpoint of real down to earth playing, it leaves a lot to be desired. Fielding has been offshore, hitting, excepting by the window smashers on both clubs, has been missing.

All season long the managers cry for pitching strength and then they get into a seven game series they have to pitch a single pitcher three times in a week to save face. I ask you, if that is major league baseball?"

WHITEY FORD has been in two games; Ralph Terry has been in two games; Jack Sanford has been in two games and so has Billy O'Dell. Where and what has become of the pitching depth that is synonymous with flag winning ball clubs?

Tomorrow in Candlestick Park the Yanks and Giants go at it again in what could be the final game. Billy Pierce, a 35 year old vet will be pitted against Bill Stafford, if the Yankee righthander can walk to the mound. He almost had his leg amputated free of charge when Felipe Alou drove a liner through the box that hit him on the shin. Stafford no doubt will recover for the sixth game and then we'll see Whitey Ford if Manager Houk doesn't get shakey and use Whitey tomorrow.

Now that Juan Marichal has been eliminated from any further use in the series, the only available pitcher, if the series goes to seven games is Jack Sanford. It'll take Billy Pierce and perhaps Billy O'Dell to finish off the Yanks tomorrow if they're real lucky.



THE BIG ONE

New York Manager Ralph Houk holds up one finger representing the one more victory his club needs to wrap up the World Series. The Yankees now lead the Giants three games to two. The sixth game of the series will be tomorrow at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Trio Of Mighty Mites Top Football Offense

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A trio of mighty mites—none over 170 pounds — lead the three major individual offense departments in college football today, according to figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Edlon Fortie, a 167-pound senior tailback who is the sparkplug of Brigham Young University's attack, leads in total offense with 886 yards in four games. He is 232 yards ahead of Jerry Gross, Detroit's 168-pound quarterback, who tops the passers.

Pistol Pete Pedro, the 5-foot-7, 160-pounder from West Texas State, is the rushing leader with 621 yards, 94 more than Fortie.

Terry Baker, Oregon State's all-around quarterback, is third in total offense with 643 yards in three games. He is also the third-ranked passer, having picked up 560 yards through the air.

Jim Pilot of New Mexico State is the No. 3 rusher with 373 yards in four games.

SHOT BLOCKED—San Francisco Seals' goalie Bev Bentley got a stick and a pad in front of this shot by Portland Buckaroos' Tom McVie (19) enough to deflect puck from going into goal in this second period action of last night's Western Hockey League opener in San Francisco's Cow Palace. Seals Hockey Men Nip Portland 4-3

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Almost lost amid the clattering spikes of football and baseball, hockey season came to the West Coast last night to the quiet satisfaction of 6,376 renegades from other arenas.

The Western Hockey League got out of the starting blocks with the San Francisco Seals nipping the Portland Buckaroos 4-3 at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

The Seals' winning goal came off the stick of defenseman Tom Thurlby, who hit from 30 feet out with less than three minutes to play.

Thurlby trotted off to the penalty box about a minute later and the Seals withstood a final Buckaroo bid featuring six forwards and no goalie, as coach Hal Laycoe went all out to tie it up.

Edmonton is at Calgary to open northern division play tonight, while tomorrow finds Portland at San Francisco, Seattle at Vancouver, and Los Angeles at Edmonton.

Series Sidelights

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the series:

IN SPRING training, the pitchers usually are ahead of the batters. This also seems to be the case in this World Series. The San Francisco Giants, as a team, are hitting .228 for the first five games while the New York Yankees' batting average is only .214.

THE THREE "Big M's" of the clubs haven't been faring too well at the plate. Willie Mays of the Giants and Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris of the Yanks all failed to hit in the fifth game. Mays was 0-for-4 while Mantle and Maris were 0-for-3. Mays' series average is .238, Mantle's .111 and Maris' .188.

THE WILD pitch by Jack Sanford and the passed ball by Tom Haller in the 5-3 Yankee victory over the Giants were the first such misplays by anyone in the series so far. No pitcher has yet to commit a balk.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, the Yanks defeated the Giants 4-2 behind the pitching of Lefty Gomez and captured the World Series, 4 games to 1.

IF SHORTSTOP Jose Pagan of the Giants maintains his batting pace, he can equal the record for the highest batting average in either a six or seven-game series. Pagan has seven hits in 14 trips for a .500 average. The record for both six and seven games is .500.

THE THREE Yankee victories all have achieved with a National League umpire working behind the plate. Both of the Giants' triumphs came with an American League man calling balls and strikes.

EVEN MONEY FOR SIXTH SERIES GAME

NEW YORK (UPI) — The oddsmakers today quoted "even money" in man-to-man betting on tomorrow's sixth game of the World Series at San Francisco.

It was the first time since this best-of-seven series between the New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants opened last week that the Yankees were not favored before a game.

The professional range for tomorrow's contest is "6-5 and pick 'em."

However, New York is favored at 7-2, in man-to-man wagering, to win the series, now that the Yanks are ahead 3-2 in games.

Patterson Wants Liston Rematch

BOSTON (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager says the deposed heavyweight champion wants a rematch with Sonny Liston, who knocked him out last month and won his crown.

"There definitely will be a rematch," Cus D'Amato said yesterday at a news conference. "It's in the original contract and Floyd will insist on a second fight."

D'Amato, deflating speculation that Patterson might not hold Liston to the rematch agreement, said Patterson feels the second fight "will be a very different one."

Liston knocked Patterson out in the first round of a scheduled 15-rounder in Chicago Sept. 25.

Hickey Hopes For Revenge In Chicago

A determined Red Hickey declares "We're going to do something about that this week" — referring to the San Francisco 49er jinx at Chicago's Wrigley Field where they take on the Bears Sunday.

In the last three years the 49ers have lost in the Windy City in a most convincing manner, 14-3, 27-10 and 31-0.

Hickey predicted yesterday "I've got that good feeling about our ball club right now. If we stay away from the injury jinx, we don't have to take a back seat to anybody."

He said the squad is "taking people on and enjoying it. That's the way the game should be played. It's a determined team. They have a helluva lot of fire and concentration."

As of yesterday the only 49er doubtful of starting was Bob Gaiters, who has a bad charley horse.

Hickey put no faith in reports of injuries by Chicago Coach George Halas.

"I don't take any stock in wounded announcements out of Chicago. Fact is, I don't even ask about them, because I don't believe any of them."

Cal Bears Leave For Duke Grid Tilt

BERKELEY (AP) — The California Bear football team was scheduled to leave for Durham, N.C., today where they will work out for Saturday's game against the Duke Blue Devils.

Tom Meshack, a 205-pound junior center from San Diego, was named yesterday as second unit replacement for injured Mike Cezario, 210, from Richmond, who has a broken rib.

Beginning Sailors Can Pick Up Some Knowledge In Class

There is still time to learn a heap of boating knowledge with a group of eager boaters. Coast Guard Auxiliary classes are being held Tuesday evenings in the Little Theater of the San Rafael High School. Classes start at 7:30 p. m. and five more meetings are scheduled. There is no charge, and all persons interested in the curriculum are welcome.

An examination is held at the end of the course. Those wishing to, can take it and will receive a certificate if they pass.

Just so the boat owner will not refer to his craft's stern as its end, or the lines as ropes, seaman's nomenclature will be one of the lessons. Also on the list is knot tying, small and large boat handling, and general motor maintenance. How to read charts and symbols will be taught, and on the subject of the compass, how it acts and why. "Students" will learn the rules of the road and some law, and two sessions will point up general safety practices.

EVERY YEAR qualified persons give their time as instructors. Bob Soldavini, Abe Blumenfield, Mel Moore and Al Hart are among the current faculty.

Colored slides relating to the varied subject matter make for interesting presentation, and on this Al Hart says, "We owe the school a vote of thanks. They not only furnish this visual-slide equipment—but an operator as well."

REP. CLEM MILLER will be deeply missed by Marin County's boaters. He recognized the magnificent potential of this area, and was fully alert to the rapid growth and coming necessities in this field of pleasure and sport. We have lost a good ally.

DON'T BE a galley slave! This column proposes saving the feminine boater from this horrible detail. Send us your easy-to-prepare-and transport, food or beverage recipe, one especially engineered for the small-boat owner's convenience. Here's the first, from Mrs. John Cadou of San Rafael. It is Slum-gullion, and prepared thus: one-pound hamburger, two cups chopped celery, one chopped green pepper and one chopped medium sized onion. Brown everything, season and add to a package of macaroni, cooked as usual. Take on your trip hot in an insulated container—or heat it later. Actually it's tasty hot or cold. We tried it! And please, don't look Slum-gullion up in the dictionary. We never knew a dictionary could be so wrong.

She also advises cubed lunch meats and cheeses with crackers as a boatman's snack-fest.

MEMBERS OF the Gallinas Boat Club will celebrate their annual Bass Derby next Saturday. A pot luck dinner will follow at the home of Maury Cisco in San Rafael.

QUESTION: Recently my boat ran out of gas on the North Fork of the Mokolumne River and I tried paddling upstream a short distance for fuel. I finally threw the paddle overboard and accepted a tow. What's all this jazz about carrying a paddle in a boat? All the mules in Mexico couldn't beat my boat for stubborness. Why?

Up a Stream WITH a Paddle; Kent Woodlands

ANSWER: You didn't say, but we'd guess you own a planing hull. It will behave well only when doing precisely what it was designed to do. Planing, that is. Without power, and in a current they are simply miserable to hand-propel. Worse than a waddly, water-soaked duck. Even so, I'd sure go back and dive for that paddle. The knack can be acquired.

QUESTION: What's a good bailing kettle to use for my old fish boat. She's a clunk alright, and has some leaks which never seem to get worse.

Al F., Novato

ANSWER: A slow leak today. Tomorrow, an artesian gusher; however, on the question of bailing: Take a look at the plastic or metal buckets that are square on one side. Check with a marine supply store. We prefer the flexibility of the plastic.

Davidson May Be Ready For Denver

OAKLAND (AP)—Injured Oakland Raiders quarterback Cotton Davidson has a 50-50 chance of starting against Denver in Sunday's American Football League game here.

Trainer George Anderson said Davidson had pulled ligaments in his right shoulder, which still is sore.

Davidson reported "As of Tuesday, I couldn't throw."

He was injured in the game against the Broncos at Denver last week.

$20,000 Bowling League!

A new league is now being formed at Country Club Bowl that will be one of the largest and most sensational leagues on the west coast—with more than $20,000 in cash prizes and five new compact automobiles going to the winners — announced Zeno Gelatti, co-owner of Country Club Bowl.

The league, scheduled for Sunday nights, will be composed of 40 teams. Fifteen teams have already indicated they will enter, Gelatti said. He said he expected entries from Marin, Sonoma, San Francisco and the East Bay.

The league will be a 925 maximum for men only. The members of the winning team will each win a compact car, Gelatti declared. He said entries are now being taken at the bowl.

In the week's bowling, Frank Wilson, bowling in the Men's 900 Classic League, led series scores with a big 621 series. High game honors went to Fred Butler of the Wednesday Men's Handicap League with a 249. Second was Virg Dodson of the 900 Classic League, 245.

Small Group Meets Returning Giants

What a contrast!

On Oct. 3, the San Francisco Giants returned from Los Angeles after winning the National League pennant and a howling mob of 50,000 was on hand to greet them.

Last night, the Giants returned from New York down 3-2 in the World Series and only about 100 friends and family showed up. A total of 152 police officers were on hand but had little to do.

But the quiet reception does not mean that this baseball-happy city has lost any of its enthusiasm.

The differences between the homecomings were twofold. First, officials kept the exact landing spot a secret and the Giants came down two miles from the airport at the maintenance base.

Second, city officials have promised fans a mammoth parade in honor of the team after the series.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants said the trip home was uneventful and repeated his prediction that the Giants would win it in seven.

National League home run king Willie Mays echoed these sentiments.

"We're ready for two games," he said, "and we'll send New York home a loser."

A few minutes after the Giants had landed, a jet carrying the New York Yankees set down at the main airport.

There was no noticeable crowd to welcome the New Yorkers. They stepped into a waiting bus and slipped away much as any other group of passengers.

Canada Takes Lead In World Golf Tourney

KAWANA, Japan (AP) — Canada shot into the lead in the third World Amateur Golf Team Championship today, overtaking a faltering United States squad with consistent near-par play on the dismally cold and wet Fuji course.

Long-hitting Gary Cowan, the first player on the course for the second round of the 72-hole stroke play tournament, showed the way with a 71 on the rain-soaked par 70 Course which measures 6,587 yards.

Two other Canadians, Bill Wakeham and Nick Weslock carded 73s to give Canada a 217-stroke team total for the day and a two-day score of 432. Only the lowest three scores for each team each day are counted in compiling the team figures. After the first round yesterday it was 212 for the United States and 215 for Canada.

The Americans, who had led by three strokes after the first round, came apart in today's cold rain and wound up six strokes behind Canada at 438. Meanwhile Ronnie Shade, playing in the next-to-last threesome, shattered the Fuji course record with a round of 33-33—66 and boosted the combined Britain-Ireland team into contention.

Fullmer And Tiger In Fine Trim For Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer says he's "ready to fight right now," and a decision was due after today's workout on whether he will box again before he takes on Nigeria's Dick Tiger next Tuesday night.

Veteran boxing observers said Wednesday they can't recall when two middleweights were ever in better fighting trim. Both boxers like to work hard over a long period of time in preparation for a bout.

Fullmer boxed four rounds Tuesday — giving him 234 rounds to date. "That's more rounds than he's ever boxed for a single fight," manager Marv Jenson explained.

Fullmer took the day off yesterday and went to the nearby Golden Gate Fields race track.

Tiger, meanwhile, gave U.S. 6th Army soldiers a treat by working out at the Ft. Scott gymnasium at the Presidio in San Francisco.

STEVENS

During the 28 years I have received releases from the DFG, I honestly believe the one just received is the most helpful to the duck hunter. It consists of 14 of the most frequently asked questions concerning waterfowl hunting, and the answers.

1. Q. If I shoot a limit of ducks today, how may I legally shoot another limit tomorrow?

A. By disposing of today's limit. By transferring today's limit to another person, by shipping the ducks to them or presenting them as a gift, or by eating them. In the northeast part of California where daily limit is four ducks and possession limit is eight, you may retain today's limit and shoot another tomorrow.

2. Q. May I take ducks into a restaurant to be cooked and served?

A. Yes, provided you are present on the premises. Or, if you leave the ducks to be served at a later hour, they must be tagged with a signed statement bearing your name and address, the date taken, and the total number and kind of ducks.

3. Q. May I take my ducks to a processing plant to be cleaned, and then may they be stored at a cold storage plant?

A. Yes, if they are properly identified and bear your name, address and the date killed. Remember, they are still in your possession.

4. Q. If I shoot a limit of ducks and geese, may I store them in my freezer and shoot another limit?

A. Only if ownership or possession of stored birds passes to another person, such as your wife.

5. Q. After I have my limit, may I help my friend get his?

A. No, you may kill only one legal limit during one day.

6. Q. If I have already shot four ducks, and get two birds on the next shot, what should I do with the sixth duck?

A. If limit is five ducks you have shot too many ducks. It is your responsibility to not shoot more than one legal limit in one day.

Q. May I hunt ducks on private property?

A. Only if you have permission from the property owner.

8. Q. If I hunt on private property, may I shoot over the limit?

A. No, the legal limits prevail on both public and private lands.

9. Q. If I want to hunt ducks in Nevada, must I buy a second Federal duck stamp?

A. No, the one duck stamp is valid in every state.

10. Q. Why are waterfowl hunting laws different in northeastern California and along Colorado River, than in the rest of the state?

A. Because of migration habits in these areas. Weather conditions, migration habits and population of certain species are all taken into consideration in establishing the laws.

11. Q. May I take or transport into another state, ducks and geese taken on a California hunting license?

A. Not without a permit from the Department. Only non-resident hunters may ship or transport game birds out of California.

12. Q. If I hunt in another state, where bag limits are greater, may I ship the birds into California?

A. You may ship your legal limits by common carrier. The label on the container must give full information regarding ownership and contents.

13. Q. To bring ducks and geese from other states, or from Mexico, where in California should I declare these birds?

A. Declare game at Department of Agriculture Quarantine Station you must pass through on your entry into California from another state. Entering California from Mexico you may declare them with U. S. Customs at the border station. Also, declaration may be made with nearest justice court or notary public at port of entry.

14. Q. If I hunt in Mexico, how many birds may I bring into California?

A. Ten ducks and five geese per calendar week. A calendar week begins on Sunday.

So there you are. Many other questions are asked of the F&G, but the above are the prevailing ones. Hope your question is answered. Goodbye, good luck and go get 'em!

There's Still Hope For Injured Boxer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Argentine boxer Alejandro Lavorante's doctors still remained hopeful today that the 25-year-old fighter would "wake up" but they would not predict his final condition.

Dr. J. DeWitt Fox, who performed two emergency brain operations on Lavorante after he was knocked out Sept. 21, said the boxer "improves slightly" each day.

"In view of that we still hold up hope he'll wake up," Fox said. "What will happen then, we cannot anticipate."

The neurosurgeon cautioned, however, that under such lengthy periods of unconsciousness, the greater were the hazards. "He is just like anyone in a deep sleep," he said. "If you touch him, he moves, as if trying to get around. But he does not talk or open his eyes," Fox said.

The doctor said he had cases in which the coma has lasted longer. In one, he said, "The patient got up and walked out three months after his injury."

Lavorante has remained in a coma since being knocked out and doctors have regarded his condition as serious.

Sanford Lost Tough Game

By HARVEY KUENN
San Francisco Giants
Written for Associated Press

Now it's a matter of winning two straight.

It's unfortunate that we were unable to get any more runs for pitcher Jack Sanford in yesterday's 5-3 loss to the New York Yankees.

Sanford pitched one of the best games I've seen him throw this year. Even the pitch that beat him—the one Tom Tresh hit for a three-run homer in the eighth—wasn't a bad pitch, just a little high.

You have to give Tresh credit. It wasn't a pitch that got away from the pitcher. Tresh just hit it, that's all. And the Yankees now have a one-game lead, 3-2, with the series back to San Francisco for the finish.

I think we're all still very confident we can win it in seven. This was a tough one to lose, but we've been bouncing back all year. Now we've got to win two straight. Well, we've done it before, and I see no reason why we can't do it again.

But let's get back to Sanford. He really pitched a great game. His best pitch was the fast ball. It tails away from a left-handed hitter. He kept his breaking stuff low and his fast ball away.

Why, in the first seven innings, only three balls were hit out of the infield, and one of those was a pop fly that went for a double. And those first two runs — one was on a wild pitch and the other on a passed ball. . . .

You must give Ralph Terry credit, too. He pitched a fine game, a very smart game. He had his stuff working just about like he wanted it to.

Nahapiets Tell Experiences During Their Stay Abroad

Enthusiastically describing her experiences during four months in Europe is Mrs. John Nahapiet, who with her husband has just returned to their home in Mill Valley.

AFTER LEAVING from Long Beach on June 5 sailing through the Panama Canal to Southampton in England, they spent two months in London visiting Nahapiet's family and taking many short trips into the surrounding area. One of special interest to Nahapiet was his visit to Bedford, one of England's well known public schools.

"I got so that I felt like a native in London," said Mrs. Nahapiet. "I could actually find my way around London by myself and handle their money without difficulty.

"THIS WAS our second visit. We found the countryside as lovely as ever but were impressed with the great amount of modern building going on, like the very modern Hilton Hotel.

"We spent three weeks in Scandinavia, where the highlights were the trip around the Norwegian shore to Bergen and the train trip from Bergen to Oslo.

"We were completely charmed with Copenhagen, which was a dream spot—so vivacious and full of fun and friendly people. There we met my sister, Mrs. Marshall Williams of San Fernando, who was conducting her own tour for the Southern California Automobile Assn. She is a retired junior high school principal who has just as much drive as ever.

"THEN WE returned to London for 10 days that were such a grand social windup with so many parties that my husband was glad to get away and go on to Germany, where we spent several days on the beautiful Rhine and visited a number of towns. We were especially impressed with Frankfort because though the buildings are new, they are designed in an old fashioned style that retains old world appeal."

The Nahapiets ended their tour by going to Milan and sailing for New York from Genoa. They stopped in Chicago and Milwaukee to visit friends before taking the train home to San Francisco.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Young Belgian Businessman Honored On Belvedere Visit

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Kenneth and Betty Frost have been entertaining a handsome young businessman from Brussels, Jean Perre Narinx, a houseguest at their Belvedere home. Jean came to San Francisco from Brussels representing his family's interests, which include advertising of all sorts. He visited the Frosts a year ago consulting with Ken, a civil engineer, on construction problems connected with outdoor advertising operations of his business in Belgium. He returned to make arrangements about manufacture of certain luminescent displays.

Jean, who is six feet, four inches tall, is an enthusiastic sportsman, a swordsman, yachtsman, drives sports cars, has his own plane and is a stunt pilot. He has a delightful sense of humor and exquisite European manners.

Jean speaks little English and Betty said it taxed her French to the utmost when she and Kent met Jean at the airport the same night the Giants returned from Los Angeles after their victory over the Dodgers, and tried to explain the typical American madness when the home team wins.

Mrs. Edwin Gratonik of Tiburon and her daughter, Lynn, a junior at Dominican, who had visited Jean's home in Brussels a month ago, a high point of their three months European tour, entertained at a dinner in his honor Saturday night. Other guests were the Frosts, their son, Tim, a sophomore at Redwood High School, Mrs. Gratonik's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hobson of Castro Valley, and Dante Leland of Tiburon.

That day the Frosts had taken their houseguest for a tour of Marin County including Muir Woods which Jean found "formidable". Sunday he participated in the final yacht race of the season, crewing with Ken on the yacht, Sumatra, skippered by Professor Jerome Raphael of University of California. The yacht returned to the San Frabcusci Yacht Club in Belvedere and then Jean went to the Corinthian Yacht Club with the Gratoniks and Frosts for dinner.

Tuesday night, Betty Frost's mother, Mrs. Charles W. White of San Francisco, honored Jean at a dinner party for 10 at Rocca's restaurant. He flew to Los Angeles yesterday with the Frosts' friend, Leon Willat of Alto, who will introduce him to several Hollywood celebrities. He will return to Europe Air France, having no desire to revisit other cities in the United States. Jean said as he left, in that Charles Boyer voice, "I live very much California, and particularment the Belvedere which makes me think of the Cote d'Azur (on the French Riviera), no?"

Kent and Betty hope Jean will relent enough to stop in Indiana to renew his friendship with their elder son, Ken Frost Jr., a freshman at Indiana University in Bloomington, a recent pledge to Phi Kappa Psi.

MRS THEODORE OSBORNE (Gloria Garvin) will fly from Hong Kong Nov. 2 to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denby Garvin of San Anselmo for a month. Mrs. Osborne and her husband, who is Far East director of Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co., live in Hong Kong. They have two daughters, Nicola, 14, and Deborah, 11. Mrs. Osborne recently saw Nicola off when she left by plane from Kai Tak for Switzerland. She is in her first year at La Pensee at Vevey on the Lake of Geneva. Her father, who was in Europe on business, met Nicola in Zurich. Deborah attends King George V School in Hong Kong. Her father will be at home while Mrs. Osborne visits in Marin and then flies to New York, London and Switzerland. She will take Nicola to Rome for a week during the holidays and then fly back to Hong Kong to be with her husband and Deborah on Christmas.

MRS. DIAMOND

Officer To Address Hadassah

Mrs. Bernard Diamond, president of the Central Pacific Coast Region of Hadassah, will address the first luncheon meeting of the Marin chapter Hadassah on Tuesday at noon at the Jewish Center in San Rafael.

Mrs. Diamond, a resident of Denver, Colo., and a graduate of the University of Denver, has served as chapter president prior to her presidency of the region. She is a former women's division chairman for Israel Bonds in Denver and has been active with the Allied Jewish Community Campaign, having served as divisional chairman and coordinator.

Marinites Traveling To Europe Oct. 20

Mrs. Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford) of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gladstein of San Rafael will be flying to Europe on Oct. 20. During the 30-day combined business and pleasure trip they will visit France, Italy, England, Vienna and Israel and the Holy Land.

The Gauntlet Look

The gauntlet, a fall fashion trend, also has appeared throughout the centuries, generally lavished with embroidery done in gold bullion or elegantly jeweled in a wide range of colored gems.

Convertible Top

Fall yarns about wool include this one: one New York socialite was so excited about her wool plaid greatcoat she had a matching wool fabric laminated and made into a top for her convertible.

Tiny Gourmets To Enjoy Dishes 'Out Of Space'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Babies will eat like astronauts and busy mothers will cook in paper dishes—in the immediate future.

Baby food packaged in spoon-tipped aluminum squeeze tubes was introduced at the Fifth International Food Congress here. So were plastic-coated paper dishes that can be used for some oven-cooking.

Other new products shown at the congress and the 20th annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference included: a low-calorie salad topping made with a non-caloric food ingredient; pineapple-topped cream cheese cake; swiss cheese tarts and swiss cheese balls to be deep-fat fried; a guaranteed leak-proof wide mouth vacuum bottle;

Steel-clad aluminum pots and pans; bottled beef sauce containing seasonings, malt, apples, tomato puree, soy, lemon and orange juice; an electric blender with 5-cup container and 2-speed motor to handle heavy loads; packaged mixes for spaghetti barbecue, chili, pizza, curry and white sauces;

Plain and sandwich-type peanut butter cookies; fully-baked small dinner rolls in three shapes and four flavors; a dessert and beverage cookbook that stands like a stenographer's notebook; and hamburgers you slice from a roll—like sausages.

A new plastic roll package is said to keep ground beef fresh under refrigeration for as long as 10 days, five times longer than is possible with current packaging.

Tricks With Wallpaper

NEW YORK (UPI)—Turn leftover wallpaper to decorative advantage by pasting cut-out motifs or a border strip to your window shades. This is an easy way to achieve a coordinated window and wall look, and special adhesives are available to do the paste-up job without danger of the paper buckling or curling.

IN RED, WHITE AND PINK

This contemporary garden room is given a fresh approach by decorator James Adler by contrasting bright red and pink against stark white and the green foliage. Verticals painted red span the front facade and ceiling and custom designed venetian blinds pull from floor to ceiling in alternate colors in red, pink, white with the reverse side white. White felt strips are casually looped through the beams, which camouflages high ceiling or one in poor condition. Chairs and table are white wrought iron. Red and White print fabric at windows is repeated in stack pillows. Vinyl floor has stone chip background with custom inlay.

Neil Cummins P-TA President Active In Group Seven Years

Heading the Neil Cummins Parent-Teacher Assn. this year is Mrs. J. W. McClintock of Corte Madera.

With a special aim this year to "help inform parents regarding their school system and to bring about a closer relation between the home and the school," Mrs. McClintock hopes to accomplish the task through public meetings, discussion groups and with key speakers covering various aspects in the educational field.

A member of the organization for the past seven years, Mrs. McClintock served as hospitality chairman for two years and last year completed a term as program chairman and vice president. As the new leader of the group she will head a P-TA membership of nearly 500 persons.

MRS. McCLINTOCK also brings to the organization a seven year background of business from her employment with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Francisco.

The first spark of interest in P-TA activities for Mrs. McClintock came with the enrollment of her first child in the public school system, "so that I could learn more of my son's school and teachers." Her son, Scott, is now 11 and her daughter, Lauri, is 8 years old, both attending Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera.

Other community interests keeping the new president busy include Brownie leadership for troop 118 and the secretarial post for the Garden Section of the Corte Madera Women's Club.

NAMED TO SERVE on the P-TA board this year are Mesdames W. W. Nichols, vice president; Robert Gicker, second vice president; Robert Commins, corresponding secretary; C. R. Foster, recording secretary; Fred Nicholson, treasurer; Robert Vogel, auditor; Walter McEvoy, historian; and Dean Short, parliamentarian.

Chairmen include Mesdames G. L. van der Hoeven, Francis Fugate, John Campbell, Nicholas Suntzeff, Frank Turco, A. A. Timossi, Jack DeMille, C. W. Valk, Toby Rein, Howard Perry, John Friend, Anthony Compagno, Lewis Perry, Herbert Schmidt, Aubrey Mendle, Londo Casassa, Harold Kling, and Lester Spillane.

Proceeds from the benefit will be given to the museum science program.

If You Have Extravagant Child Let Him Keep The Family Books

Are your teen-agers thrifty? Or extravagant? Most of our sons and daughters love to spend money. Have you noticed?

Their extravagance is really our fault. When they were little we could give them almost everything they wanted. They learned to ask, and to get. Now the costs of indulging them are greater. If we gave them what they wanted we'd go bankrupt. So we say no to them, and have troubles. Right?

You can teach your teen-agers to be thrifty. One good way is to bring them in on your family financial secrets. Have your girl take over your books for a year, letting her make the deposits, and add up your bills. Have her write the checks. Let her try to find the money needed to buy the expensive coat she wants. Do the same with your teen-age son. If your big kids can come to feel responsible for your money, they'll modify their expectations. They'll even preach economy to you. That'll be a switch, won't it?

Another way to teach thrift is to have your teen-agers earn their own way. Help them get jobs and allow them to spend their earnings. They may be extravagant at first. If so, have them suffer the consequences. They'll learn the hard way. I know that jobs are scarce, but you may be able to find work for them. Thousands of boys are learning about money by carrying poper routes.

Allowances are helpful too. Give each youngster a fixed sum. Have it cover his clothes, school expenses, church, entertainment, etc. Give each about the same amount his friends are spending, for the same things. Be sure not to bail your kids out when they spend their allowances foolishly. Then they'll catch on.

Psychologist Says An Honest Fight Good For Partners

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

Jane Doe down the street never gets a cross word from hubby—no matter how she crosses him.

She burns the toast, dents a fender or gives a charity his happiness and security object —a raccoon coat left over from college days.

Her mate fails to fling words or plate at her. He shuns fist shaking. But she's that peaceful type, too. She never gets angry—not even when he comes home at midnight when she expected him at six; not even when he snores through a lecture; not even when he reduces her allowance.

In the neighborhood, this angelic pair has a reputation for having found the way to make marriage work. Since there's no fighting, the marriage seems much happier than the fighty type.

Contrast the happy twosome with most families you know—now and then, there's a battle. A fuse blows in the nervous system. He thunders. She thunders.

The bone husband and wife growl about probably is a simple one—say she's being scolded about $50 she withdrew from their joint account without bothering to fill in the check stub.

What started the argument: A little notice from the bank.

Other times the arguments stem from equally pedestrian situations: She forgot to pick up the raincoat he left at the library; she hid a summons he got from traffic court because she didn't want to worry him; he brought three friends home for dinner but didn't call first.

Now take the two types of marriages: The one with no fights and the one with chronic fights—the type characterized by verbal punching punctuated when they kiss and make up.

Is the one with chronic quarrels less happy than the one without quarrels? Is it bound to fall apart some day?

The right answers: "No" and "no"—as one student of marriage views the situation. Quarrels, you see, aren't necessarily destructive.

"An honest fight about real issues can bring emotional release and a new intimacy between the partners," Psychologist George Bach notes.

Bach, a psychology instructor at Claremont College in Los Angeles, doesn't condone uncivilized quarrels—fights marked by plate tossing, kicking, punching and that sort of thing.

The quarrels he finds therapeutically sound are marked by discussion without hate, argument without rancor, fighting without violence.

His rules for therapeutic fighting:

Round one opens when she tells him her complaint.

Round two, he makes sure what the fight is about.

Round three, she tells him he stated the issue correctly.

Round four, he states under what conditions he would agree to her wishes—and how made it would make him.

Bach says you just keep adding rounds until you settle the argument. (UPI).

'The Cool Generation' Awareness Topic

Robert Prather, new principal of Tamalpais High School, will speak on "The Cool Generation" at Monday's 11:30 A.M. luncheon meeting of the Awareness Group at the Mill Valley home of Mrs. Edmond Gross.

A graduate of Tamalpais High School and the College of Marin, Prather received his bachelor of arts degree from San Francisco State College and did graduate work for teaching credentials at the University of California. He has also done graduate work in administration at Stanford University.

All of the new principal's professional career has been in Marin County. From 1945 to 1951 he taught at Tamalpais High School, from 1951 to 1959 at Drake High School, and he was employed in the Tamalpais Union High School District guidance department from 1959 to the present.

Alto P-TA Head Has Sports Interest

Except for bowling and swimming as a family hobby, the Alto Parent-Teacher Association has occupied just about all of the outside-of-the-home activities for two years of its new president, Mrs. Everett Miles.

She has been a member five years and last year was in charge of the unit's hot dog sales project.

Highlights for the unit this year, she reports, will be the two music programs—one on Dec. 18 and the other on May 15—to be presented by the school's music department, and the annual Alto Fair.

"We are very proud," Mrs. Miles said. "Of the fact that singing instruction is made possible through the P-TA's taking over the responsibility of paying the salary of the singing teacher, Mrs. Ethelee Reed. The Alto Fair in May is our one big fund raising event."

Mrs. Miles has served as president of the women's auxiliary of the Alto Fire Department, and last year she was a Cub Scout den mother.

A native of San Francisco, Joyce Miles was graduated from Mission High School and worked as an IBM operator in San Francisco before her marriage. Her husband is a salesman for the Mill Valley Auto Parts Store, and they have lived in Alto 13 years. They have one son, Steven, 9.

Other Alto P-TA officers are Mesdames Oaka Roan, first vice president; Tabor L. Kopan, second vice president; Harry Magill, secretary; Warren Staiger, treasurer; Gwen Denk, teacher representative; and Alfred Mainini, historian.

Organizations Join In Crusade Drive

MRS. STANLEY BECK, left, is narrator, while Mrs. Martin Katzman, center, wearing a sure-enough halo, makes a call on Mrs. Arthur Collbran during a staging of the skit "How To Win Your Halo" at a training meeting for United Crusade campaigners. Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Katzman are members of the Terra Linda Little Theater while Mrs. Collbran, a captain in the Belvedere residential drive, here plays a typical Marin resident talking to the volunteer who calls at her door. (Ken Molino photos)

This year, in addition to the United Crusade member agencies and their auxiliaries which have taken the leadership for specific areas in the residential campaign, other organizations are donating time and work.

Two of these are the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco Inc., and the Terra Linda Little Theater.

THE JUNIOR LEAGUERS, as part of their community service program, are organizing the campaign in the Pt. San Pedro area. It is the fourth year that they have participated in the local residential drive and the third year that they have assumed leadership for a specific area.

Mrs. Robert W. Dawson Jr. of San Rafael is chairman and Mrs. Bradford Koles of San Rafael and Mrs. William V. Morris of Mill Valley are co-chairmen.

THE little theater's contribution is presentation of a skit, "How to Win Your Halo," at training meetings for volunteers throughout the county. Mrs. Stanley Beck narrates while Mrs. Martin Katzman plays the role of a typical volunteer making door-to-door calls and thereby winning her "halo."

DONE IN pantomime, the skit calls for a cast of four, so at each of the training sessions, two "extra players" are recruited from among the local volunteers. Mrs. Arthur Collbran of Belvedere and Mrs. Robert Fraser of Tiburon played these roles at a recent meeting held at St. Stephen's Parish Hall in Belvedere.

TWO MEMBERS of the Marin Unit of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc., Mrs. R. M. D. Childs, left, and Mrs. Robert W. Dawson Jr., right, discuss the United Crusade residential drive with Mrs. Jose Alicastro of San Rafael, center, president of the Junior Social Service Auxiliary. The Junior League is organizing the campaign in the Point San Pedro area while the Junior Social Service Auxiliary is staffing in the Santa Venetia area for Catholic Social Service, one of the Crusade member agencies which are participating in the drive.

FACE AND FIGURE

Marin Women

You could always tell a Cecil B. DeMille spectacular movie by its inevitable trademark. There always was one scene in which the heroine was shown reveling in a super-luxurious bath, surrounded by suds, scents and solicitous attendants.

This trademark was an excellent bit of psychology directed at women who went to movies to escape for a bit from the frustrations of their own mundane lives. For to most women, a luxurious bath is the height of glamor and femininity, a ritual in which she can feel most pampered.

You may not have a sunken tub in which you can bathe in milk or champagne, but you can enjoy the pampered feeling of a DeMille heroine with your next bath.

THE FIRST STEP to a luxury bath is in the timing. Plan your bath for a period when you are not rushed with everyday chores. Choose a period when the family is out of the house and you have plenty of time to relax and enjoy your bath in leisurely, lazy fashion.

Make your bath glamorous with plenty of bubbly suds and a scented bath oil that fills the air with perfume as you leisurely prepare for the tub. Then, as you sink into the warm water, relax every muscle and soak to your heart's content. Surrounded by warmth and perfume, you can close your eyes and imagine yourself in the lap of luxury.

WHEN YOU'RE ready, and only when you are ready, shampoo if you must, taking time to enjoy a gentle scalp massage and the tingling feeling of utter cleanliness.

Dry yourself gently after your bath, using the softest, most fluffy towel you have. For that extra touch, dust yourself with fragrant body powder and apply a touch of that special perfume that makes you feel like a siren.

While your hair is drying, give yourself a slow, careful manicure while lying propped up in bed wearing your most feminine robe. Take your time and enjoy the feeling of luxury, of freedom from everyday duties. You're deliberately being lazy and loving every minute of it.

When you finally do have to pull yourself back from your pampered retreat from everydayness, you'll find your spirits have a lift that'll last until the next time you have a chance to pamper yourself with a luxury bath.

For Fraternity Men

The nation's capmakers have thought of the fraternity man who wants to give a heady gift. They suggest a peaked cap in green and black broadcloth tweed with stretchable knit band that fits every egghead's cranium.

North bids two hearts, the enemy's suit, to show heart strength and to invite a game at the same time.

South is expected to try for game in notrump with strength in the unbid suit, particularly if he has some help in hearts.

ALL BY SELF

North would bid the game all by himself with either black ace as additional strength, and North might bid two notrump with an additional king. The actual North hand is good enough to suggest game, but no more.

South can well afford to accept the suggestion since he has a club stopper and additional heart strength.

If South wanted to reject the suggestion he would just rebid his diamonds.

DOUBLE STOPPER

With South playing the hand there is a double stopper in hearts. South lets the opening lead ride around to the queen, after which dummy's king will serve to win a later trick.

South should lead spades immediately to develop the two spade tricks needed for the contract. West must play low, and dummy's king wins.

South gets back with the king of diamonds and leads another spade.

NERVE NEEDED

Now West will defeat the contract if he has the nerve to play low, for he will eventually take two spades, one heart and two clubs. If West puts up the ace of spades, however, declarer will get two spades, two hearts and five diamonds.

It is all very close. South would have a far easier time with a sixth diamond.

North cannot make the game if he becomes declarer at three notrump. East would lead a heart, and West would finesse with the nine to drive out North's king. Sooner or later declarer would have to tackle spades, whereupon West would take the ace of spades and put East in with a club for another heart lead.

The defenders would get four hearts, a spade and two clubs.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Farm Bureau Strives To Retire Membership Trophy

Each year about this time we like to root a little bit for one segment of the Marin County economy—its farmers.

At one time the farm was the backbone of the county. There was a dairy in Mill Valley's front yard. Walnuts and grapes were major crops. Pear, peach, cherry orchards were much in evidence. There were field crops and truck gardens.

Now little is left in Marin County for the agriculturalist but dairying and, as the county grows, this too is being reduced.

The reason we pick this time of year to speak out is that this is the time the Marin County Farm Bureau conducts its annual membership campaign. And each year the Marin unit shows that it is a strong organization, rating high in the counsels of the state group.

For the last two years the Marin bureau has been first in the state to reach its membership quota. If it does it again this year, it will permanently retire the trophy offered statewide for the feat.

This year's quota is 373 membership among the farm families and farm cooperators of the county. The last we heard the drive had netted just under 250 memberships to date. Pres. Donald McIsaacs of Olema hopes to reach 400 members.

Go, Bureau, Go!

Help People Who Are Doing Their Part

Tomorrow scores of volunteers will kick off their annual residential solicitations for Marin's "One Big Give," the United Crusade.

Already workers have been seeking contributions in other of the nine divisions, driving toward their $145,893 goal. But as always, the largest single portion of Marin's share is expected to come from residential gifts, about one third of the total.

Marin, which set the pace for the Bay Area by being first over its goal last year, is leading in another way this year. Thirteen of the member agencies are organizing the residential drive in specific areas. Other agencies are helping in other phases of the campaign.

This "assumption of leadership" on the part of Marin agencies "has set an example for the entire Bay Area," according to Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon, United Area Campaign agency participation chairman.

This is the type of effort which we like to see from organizations directly benefiting from a fund drive. It is the type of cooperation which makes a person more willing to do his share, when other people are doing their's.

We hope the people of the county once more put Marin over the top first with numerous and generous contributions.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Ike Proves To Be Human Being Where Movie Star Is Concerned

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

We would guess that not one of the 2,750 persons who had dinner with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Monday night in the Cow Palace was as thrilled and excited about the whole thing as Mrs. Lee Sherry of San Anselmo. Dressed in a black evening gown with long white gloves, silver-haired Mrs. Sherry sat radiantly at the head table just one seat away from the former President.

"The general was so genuine, so real," she enthused after the dinner. What did she mean?

"Well, on the other side of me was Ginger Rogers. Ginger leaned over to me and said in a kind of embarrassed voice, 'Would you ask General Eisenhower if he would autograph my menu, please?'

"Here was a switch, a movie star asking for an autograph. I asked the general and he was most gracious. 'Of course I will,' he said. And he wrote a brief note before signing his name.

"Then, as he passed the menu back, he gave me a second one and added, 'Would you mind asking Miss Rogers if she'd give me her autograph too?' "

AT THE DINNER, most everyone pays $100 a plate for cold cuts with the trimmings and a slice of cake. My teenaged daughter was with me so I asked the waitress if she could have some milk.

"That will be 15 cents extra," she declared. But she was only kidding. They didn't have any milk.

THE AMERICAN Association of University Women has a public meeting scheduled next Monday night that should interest voters.

Legislative section chairman Ada Fusselman has arraanged for Bruce V. Reagan, GOP controller aspirant, to be there to discuss the campaign with Robert L. Coate, Northern California chairman for Controller Alan Cranston's re-election.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael will be there in behalf of his own candidacy, while Alvin Goldstein of San Anselmo will represent Robert Carrow, Bagley's Democratic opponent who had a previously scheduled meeting with a labor group.

There will be capsule presentations of the 25 ballot propositions by AAUW members Marian Moynihan, Alice Galloway, Alice Detweiler and Jean Marchant.

Carol Huston will present the case for Ralph Richardson and Carinne Rhoades for Max Rafferty in the superintendent of schools race.

An evening of politics and you're welcome at 8 p.m. in Ross School.

REAGAN, BY THE way, will be in Marin all day Tuesday with breakfast, luncheon, cocktail party at the Elks Club and dinner scheduled.

CRANSTON WILL be in Marin Monday as well, for a San Rafael Rotary Club luncheon at noon, and an address to the Mill Valley Awareness at 2 p.m. After the talk, which will be broadcast at 6 p.m. that night over KTIM-FM, he goes on to a rally in Sonoma and on into Mendocino County.

Strawberry property owners grew so bitter over bad roads that they asked Dist. Atty. Richard M. Sims to seek legal remedies against county officials, particularly Road Commissioner Carl P. Clow.

San Rafael's City Council decided on stricter regulations for bars and liquor stores, directing preparation of an ordinance setting midnight as closing time for bars and 11 p.m. as limit for sale of package goods.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Klahn's Answer Unfair To Realtors

The Independent-Journal welcomes contributions to "What Our Readers Say." Letters must be signed and must not exceed 300 words in length. The editor reserves the right to delete malicious material.

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Bert Klahn's critical response to the Marin Realty Board's request for a Grand Jury investigation of Marin City redevelopment, the stilt houses in particular, is not altogether fair. Because realtors have committed "sins by omission" in the past does not relegate them to silence and inaction now or in the future.

It is encouraging and commendable that Edward Ward, president of the board, recognizes that the whole county has something at stake in Marin City.

No matter how Director Klahn and other government officials, including Supervisor Peter Behr, justify the cost and design of the single family structures, the obvious fact is that they do not measure up to other buildings already occupied and, more important, the plans lack consideration of the feelings and needs of the people for whom they were intended.

Life savings, dearly earned and carefully saved, are not going to be invested in houses which remind Negro families, and those of us who have traveled by train in the South, of the shacks on poles throughout the depressed and ghetto areas, rural and urban, of those states, and which also are typical of the primitive and backward areas of other parts of the world. Who cares to be identified forever with symbols of this kind?

The whole situation is an exact illustration of Jane Jacob's critical views of urban redevelopment in her stirring book "Death and Life of Great American Cities" in which she gives planners the panning so often deserved.

I have asked Negroes, who have cash assets and good credit ratings, why they didn't buy lots in Marin City and build homes to suit their personal needs and taste. They said they had tried to do so but were told by the redevelopment agency that this was a planned community and that individual construction might not meet the high standard of architectural conformity set by housing authorities. Such irony!

We need apparently less authority and more individual initiative and some rewards for those who have proven their stability.

The worst planning is being done on an arrogant "take it or leave it" scheme for those who deserve better: the self-supporting, law-abiding families who have maintained standards of living and behavior which white society is always holding-up to the minority groups as the basis for acceptance.

There is good in every situation and the best to come out of the Marin City planning fiasco is that responsible, non-professional Negroes will now do their part in the process of integration by coming out into the rest of the county to buy housing of their choice and thereby making important contributions in the educational and civic life of Marin communities.

Realtors will have the opportunity to answer Mr. Klahn with deeds that speak eloquently and the rest of us will have the rare opportunity to prove our willingness to be good neighbors.

Practical Joke Was Not Funny

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

We were driving down our court, leaving for the city the other evening. We waited at the corner for a car to pass, then continued down the hill when suddenly my husband slammed on the brakes.

In the street was a young boy, lying face downward, lifelessly still. Our hearts just leaped at the sight. Our first reaction was to recall that car that had passed our corner moments before.

My husband went to the child, and lifting the hat covering his head, found a mop.

We are writing to you in the hope that if you print this letter, the person responsible for this act will be a little more thoughtful in the planning of his practical jokes in the future.

We were driving down the street slowly, but what if it had been a speeding driver who happened by? How would this jokester feel if he had been responsible for the injuries to life and property if the driver had to go off the road in an effort to avoid hitting the "child," or perhaps the shock would have been just too great for someone with a heart condition.

A good joke can be a lot of fun, and I feel that we both have a good sense of humor, but if someone thought this joke was funny, please let them be advised that we're not laughing.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Jack Kofoed swears he saw this happen in the dining room of a swanky Miami Beach hotel. A clumsy waiter spilled a plate of soup on the white jacket of an outraged guest. The manager rushed up immediately and purred, "Give that coat to me, sir. I'll have it sponged immediately and returned to you absolutely spotless before you've finished your meal."

Five minutes later, the waiter who had spilled the soup poked the guest indignantly on the shoulder, and demanded, "Don't you know you're not allowed in this dining room unless you're wearing a jacket?"

An underpaid English professor recently applied for a job of a highly technical nature at General Dynamics. "But you have none of the requirements," demurred the employment manager. "Whatever made you think you could hold down a position like this?" "Because," said the professor with great dignity, "this is probably the only chance you'll ever have of hiring a worker who has read "Beowulf' twice in the original Anglo-Saxon."

A bragging session at recess in a Clinton, Iowa, school produced this lively exchange: "You've learned about the Pacific Ocean? Well, my pa built the hole for it." "So what? You know about the Dead Sea? Well, it was my father who killed it!"

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRED WYATT

That Fused Soil In Greenbrae Came From A Short Not A Volcano

"Maybe it's a volcano!" was the cry that drew College of Marin students and instructors to Greenbrae's hot tree mystery last week.

A fireman interrupted geology instructor Stephen C. Bruff in class at 9:30 a.m. to exhibit a chunk of fused soil resembling volcanic rock taken from the base of the smoking or steaming oak tree at Corte Cordova and Los Cerros Drive. At 10 a.m. several students visited the curbside conundrum. At 11 a.m. more students.

At noon, Bruff went, reinforced by zoology instructor Paul Wilson and botany instructor Al Molina.

BY THIS TIME a utility crew had arrived and shut off a nearby street light and the smoking had stopped. The trouble was believed caused by a short due, county public works director Donald Frost said, to "rotted out" underground wires.

Possibility of a volcano's suddenly bursting from a peaceful flat earth surface was not without precedent in our times in the western hemisphere.

Such a case developed Feb. 20, 1943, in the village of Paricutin in the state of Michoacan, Mexico. County librarian Virginia V. Keating said I could dig it out of an old magazine issue in the Corte Madera branch of the library and I did.

FARMER Dionisio Pulido was turning furrows for corn with his ox accompanied by his son. The son heard an underground noise. Then the farmer heard a rumble and behind a furrow saw a spiral of white smoke.

Father, son and ox galloped away. That night they and their neighbors saw a luminous smoking above his field and heard thunderous sounds. The next morning there was a cinder cone 25 feet high. At noon it began to belch stones and the earth trembled.

In a week the cone grew to a height of 500 feet. In 10 weeks it was 1,100 feet high, said February, 1944, National Geographic. From the crater masses of vapor rose to a height of three miles.

A few months later the thing was 1,500 feet high and estimated to be flinging 2,700 tons of lava, cinders and ashes per minute as high as 4,100 feet into the air. Eruption finally ceased nine years later, leaving a cone 800 feet high, said the Encyclopedia Britanica.

Instructor Bruff said he investigated the heat-hardened rock-like dirt from the Greenbrae tree base because "I didn't want a volcano to start in our backyard without our knowing it."

Students have put pieces of the broiled earth on exhibit in the college library.

SHORT TAKES: Enthusiastic Larkspur City Councilman Lesley A. Daveler didn't quite keep last week's meeting going to midnight. He discussed things for future consideration and said:

"Another thing I want to bring up—"

Councilman Daniel Allen cut in, "I move we adjourn," and Councilman Neil R. Brixon seconded him.

Start of Francis Eaton as a Larkspur policeman next Monday will give the force six men including Chief Howard Clark, who says, "We now will have 24-hour coverage all the time with two men on duty each day and each night." . . . Anne Donovan from San Rafael succeeds Patricia Roulston as Corte Madera police clerk.

Dr. Charles M. Secor and his wife, Larkspur School District board chairman Pauline Secor, solve their phone problem by having a separate line and listing for their sons, 16 and 11, and daughters, 15 and 8.

As of last week Ralph Richardson was seeking a press agent in his quest for state superintendent of public instruction; his rival, Max Rafferty, has obtained heavy favorable publicity in many rural papers.

Even Measures Passed Show Democrats Don't Act Together

WASHINGTON—Like Hurricane Daisy, the first Kennedy Congress adjourns in a fenzy of action. Two different estimates of its record are valid. It has finally approved a solid and significant package of Kenendy's requests, much to please the President and much he can praise as he goes to the country to ask the voters to give him more pro-Kennedy Democrats.

Judged by the tremendous volume of requests which the White House heaped upon Congress and the promises he made during the campaign, this Congress turned against the President far more often than it supported him.

ITS POSITIVE record of Kennedy measures enacted is a good one and quite considerable.

Its negative record of Kennedy measures rejected is wide-ranging and decisively disproves Kennedy's repeated assurance that if the country would only elect a Democratic President to work with a Democratic Congress, it would be all systems go.

It hasn't been so. Congress has refused 80 per cent of the White House-sponsored bills.

THIS ISN'T peculiar to President Kennedy. Except in the field of bi-partisan foreign policy, every Democratic Congress serving under a Democratic President from 1938 through 1962 has been substantially unresponsive to the White House.

This 87th Congress resisted Kennedy's advocacy of medicare. It refused his plea for a Department of Urban Affairs. It mutilated his farm bill. It cut up his tax bill. It redeemed none of his promises of federal aid to the public schools. It took no initiative to redeem the President's pledges that new civil rights legislation would be the "first business" of the new Congress.

These are not minor measures to be explained away by the shrug of a presidential shoulder. These were top-priority presidential commitments on which he waged much of his campaign. Despite the nearly two-thirds Democratic majority in House and Senate, they went by the wayside.

It wasn't that the Congress was so busy that it put them off for another time. Except for civil rights, which the President did not deem it prudent to press, it did consider them—and rejected them.

AS HE CAMPAIGNS across the country Kennedy will have a number of achievements to stress. He will have the signal accomplishment of the Trade Expansion Act in behalf of which the President's leadership was decisive. He will have the manpower re-training bill, the U. N. Bond issue, the needed postal rate increase, the Satellite Communications Act, tightened drug control, standby public works, and the boon to business from the tax incentive for new investment.

Most of these measures received a substantial bi-partisan vote. This is a source of strength to the President—but also a source of weakness. It revealed that even with large Democratic majorities Kennedy had to gain considerable Republican support to pass any controversial domestic legislation.

Francisco Beauty Drive

A campaign to beautify and stimulate development of San Rafael's Francisco Boulevard business district was begun yesterday by the newly formed Francisco Boulevard Assn. at a meeting at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant on the boulevard.

Charles Bellach, who presided, said the organization will work as a sub-group of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce on problems of its own area.

Bellach, Herbert Crocker and Lother Salin were chosen as "troika" chairmen with equal responsibility for leading the association.

Dues of $5 per month were established, committee chairmen were appointed, and two meetings were called for next week, Bellach said.

A breakfast meeting will be held at 8 a.m. Monday at Dominic's in addition to the noon meeting Wednesday, when the area will be mapped into blocks for a membership drive.

Clarence De Long was appointed chairman of a committee to work on street and freeway problems including landscaping, better lighting of Francisco Boulevard and "more intelligent" directional signs for the boulevard exit routes.

Bellach said Mrs. Alma L. Easton of Easton Enterprises volunteered to be the association's secretary.

Robert L. Peterson, who is attempting to start a bus system in San Rafael, said he is hopeful that service to East San Rafael can be incorporated.

Typewriter Stolen From Marin College

A new typewriter disappeared from the College of Marin business education building sometime Monday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Weaver Meadows, instructor at the college, reported the loss to the sheriff yesterday afternoon. He said two new typewriters were delivered Monday afternoon. One had vanished by 10 o'clock that night.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Air Pollution Is Matter For Public Action, Everyone Should Cooperate

VAN DELLEN

Several years ago a smog descended on Brisbane, Australia, and physicians began receiving telephone calls from patients with asthma. Hundreds of men and women started wheezing, and it was more than a coincidence because all of the attacks began within a brief period of time. Something in the smog was responsible.

Undoubtedly, many respiratory disorders are caused by air pollution. Smog accentuates the bad effects of contamination because it keeps the pollutants close to the earth. The chemical nature of the particles and gases also plays a role; some are more irritating or poisoning than others.

NORMAL AIR contains nitrogen, oxygen, and lesser amounts of argon, carbon dioxide, and several other trace elements. Civilized man has added a number of substances to this, usually in the form of dusts, fumes, mists, vapors, and gases. Some are harmful by themselves, whereas others become toxic only after they combine with other chemicals in the air.

This is important because physicians have noticed an increase in bronchitis and the more disabling lung conditions such as emphysema, bronchiectasis, and cancer. In addition, the death rate from respiratory diseases in this country has more than doubled since 1949.

SMOKING IS PARTLY to blame because it is concentrated air pollution. But the noxious chemicals in dusts, fumes, and gases we are forced to breathe also are factors. The respiratory passages teem with bacteria that cause few if any symptoms unless the membranes are irritated or congested. In the circumstances, the inhalation of the chemicals leads ultimately to disorders such as bronchitis or emphysema. Some of the chemicals constrict the bronchial tubes and this probably was responsible for the asthmatic attacks in Australia mentioned previously. Other chemicals are carcinogenic — that is, they are capable of causing cancer.

Years of exposure usually are necessary and some individuals are more susceptible than others. Air pollution is a matter for public action. All of us must cooperate to cut it down at the source.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

MOVING STONES

E.P.K. writes: When a person has gallstones or kidney stones, can they be felt moving from place to place?

REPLY

Not unless the stones decide to leave the gall bladder or kidney. When this occurs the individual has one of the worst pains he will ever encounter.

TIRED AFTER HEPATITIS

R. W. writes: My daughter was in the hospital 10 weeks with hepatitis. That was a year ago. She still tires easily. Does she need more blood tests?

REPLY

Only if your physician suspects the liver is responsible for the girl's fatigue.

THYROID TABLETS

A.W. writes: Do people suffering from thyroid deficiency become invalids in time?

REPLY

No, because the deficiency can be corrected easily and quickly with thyroid extract. A tablet or two a day and the individual is "alive" again.

Today's Health Hint—Don't make automation the scapegoat for your poor physical condition.

'Cultural Level' Of Ross Center To Be Discussed

Are wedding receptions and fashion shows "cultural" enough to be held in the Marin Art and Garden Center?

Ross town councilmen will discuss the "cultural level" of activities in the center when they meet at 8 p.m. today in the town hall.

At the last council meeting, councilmen said the center is zoned for community cultural use only. Wedding receptions and fashion shows, they said, don't fit the bill.

The council will also hold a hearing on an abandoned house at 1 Bolinas Avenue that residents say has become a breeding hole for rats which have invaded the neighborhood. Persons objecting to the burning of the Tonini apartment will be asked to show cause why the "nuisance" should not be abated.

Councilmen will also consider a request from Fred Wetheim, Madrona Avenue, to keep a horse on his property.

12 Cases Of Mumps Reported In Marin

Twelve cases of mumps, all in San Rafael, were reported to the Marin County Health Department last week.

Six cases of strep throat infections, three in Mill Valley, the others in Belvedere, Tiburon and Corte Madera, were also reported. Other communicable diseases reported include four cases of gonorrhea, two of syphilis, three of measles and one of infectious hepatitis.

Episcopal School Will Be Discussed

Desirability of starting an Episcopal Church school in Marin County will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in Whittaker Hall of St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Speaker will be Rev. Canon David Forbes, headmaster of Cathedral Boys School in San Francisco. His topic will be "The Church School in Comparison with the Public School."

Presbyterians Set 'Harvest Festival'

"Harvest Festival," first of three events to be held this fall to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia, is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Oct. 20.

Proceeds from the event will help build a new addition to the church. The celebration offers food, dancing, free entertainment, an art show and booths for baked goods, plants and hobbies, jewelry, needlework, novelties, books and other articles. There will be rides — including ponies—for the children.

Artists may enter works in the festival by contacting Dorothy Saver, chairman. The receiving date is Oct. 19, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Welding Contractor

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Contractors' State License board today announced it will issue a welding contractor's license to Sun Iron Works (Peter R. Zappetini), 931 Second Street, San Rafael, on or after Oct. 29, unless written protest is filed.

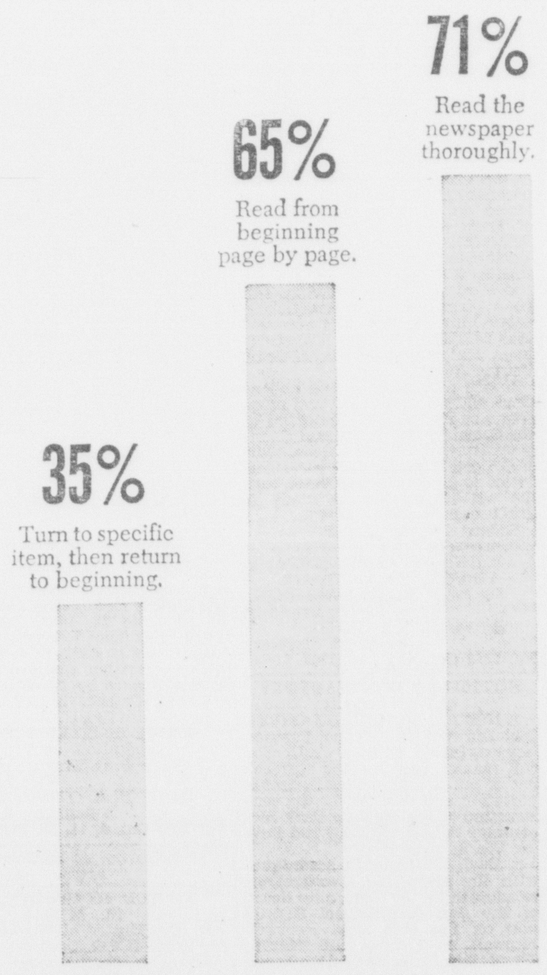
FRONT TO BACK . . . BACK TO FRONT

Research finds you're amazingly thorough in reading your newspaper



*Source: The Daily Newspaper and Its Reading Public—1961 Survey, Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Assn.

How do you read your Independent-Journal? Are you a front-to-back reader? Do you turn first to a specific item then return to the beginning? Do you scan the paper before reading?

Latest research* shows 65% of readers start from the beginning and read page by page; 35% turn first to a specific feature then return to the front.

But no matter where you start, research shows 71% of newspaper readers have this in common: they read the paper thoroughly. The news, the advertising, the features . . . they're all one in readership. In fact, 84% of women say they like to look at ads even when they don't plan to buy anything. And 75% of the men.

That's why this major research finding about "you" is of very real concern to every advertiser. For only you bring ads to "life" with your attention. Only you can make the decision on the values offered.

Your readership, then, is a governing force in the business life of the county. Thanks to you, any advertiser can know that whether his ad is on page 2 or 22 you'll find it, you'll read it . . . and for the best of all reasons.

Because it's where you want to read: in your newspaper.

Excessive Salt Intake Linked High Blood Pressure In Test

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some persons have to consume as much as 30 times more salt than other persons in order to taste salt, and this is medical science's newest evidence that salt consumption is somehow involved in causing persistent high blood pressure.

Physiological scientists generally believe there is some kind of link between salt in the diet and high blood pressure. The accumulated evidence in support of such a link is voluminous, and some scientists believe salt is the cause or among the causes of the disease.

But just how salt could produce such an effect remains in the realm of theory. The newest evidence suggests it could be related to quantity—that a little salt is harmless but large amounts are dangerous.

Three scientists took the new evidence from comparisons of the salt-tasting abilities of 20 persons with persistent high blood pressure (or essential hypertension in technical language) and 20 persons whose pressures were consistently normal.

Cups of water were arrayed on a table in rows of four. In each row one cup of water was flavored either with salt or sugar. In each row the flavored water varied in intensity of flavoring, from the very slight to the overpoweringly strong.

The hypertensives and the normals went to this table one by one, sipped from each cup, spat out the sip and washed out the mouth before sipping from the next. And each subject said whether he tasted anything in the water, and whether the taste was of salt or sugar.

There were no differences between their abilities to distinguish the sweet taste. But in the salt-tasting test, the hypertensives, in the main, had to get to the very strong solutions before they tasted salt, while most of the normals tasted salt in very weak solutions.

In a few instances there was no difference between an individual hypertensive and his "control," and in one instance the normal "control" needed more salt than the hypertensive in order to taste salt. But the positive variations between hypertensives and normals were in the big majority and were dramatic—ranging from twice as much salt to more than 30 times more salt.

The scientists were Norma Fallis, Louis Lasagna and Leon Tetreault of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. Lasagna is associate professor of medicine. To them their evidence meant "hypertensives may eat more salt because they cannot taste it as well as can normotensive individuals."

This, of course, does not mean salt is among the causes of the disease which is a great though secondary killer of people in that it sets them up for heart attacks, kidney malfunctions and other lethal ills. It could be, the scientists said, that high salt intake among hypertensives reflects either the nature of the disease or the treatment for it.

The next item for investigation is to find out if the brothers, sisters, children and parents of their hypertensives have the same effect in salt-tasting.

Another is to follow the normals who had to take in a lot of salt to taste salt, to see if they develop high blood pressure. These investigations, they said, could strengthen the evidence that excessive salt intake is a cause and that it is due to a tasting defect which may be inherited.

Student B Average

Gloria Karen Burke, daughter of Col. and Mrs. John D. Burke, 212 Reed Circle, Mill Valley, and graduate of Redwood High School, has received honorable mention from University of California at Davis for maintaining a 3.0 grade average (B average) for all courses undertaken during the school semesters of 1961-1962.

Mill Valley's Art Festival Scheduled

Steamed beer and pretzels will be served at sidewalk cafes on Throckmorton Avenue at the Sixth Annual Fall Arts Festival to be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday in Mill Valley.

Clearance has been given by the State Board of Equalization to the city to permit the sidewalk cafes since a deed restriction on Old Mill Park forbids the selling of fermented beverages in the park.

All other activities—the gallery and open air art show, the art in action, craft exhibits, festival theater entertainment and a wandering folk singer—will be within Old Mill Park itself. Hours of the celebration are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Paintings have been posted in shop windows in the city, a group of teen-agers were to clean the park today. Booths are to be decorated in brightly-colored cloths.

Sixteen Girl Scouts of Mill Valley Troop 79 have produced 25 lanterns covered with leaves to be hung in the gallery area. A number of teen-age boys, under leadership of Vic Poulsen, park department assistant, will be on hand nightly to guard equipment and installations.

Booths are being provided to sell hot dogs, pop corn, soft drinks and ice cream. There will be other booths for games.

One of the entertainment highlights will be the Guckenheimer Band which plays Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. Other entertainment is as follows:

Friday—7:30 p.m., Los Desperados Flamenco dance group; Miss Fourtunes, members of the Marin Chapter of Sweet Adelines Inc., and Andrew and Nan Susac of San Rafael in a one-act Mime drama, "Buffo and the Angel." John Donhoff of Mill Valley will act as master of ceremonies.

Saturday—2 p.m., a program designed for children, "Mimes for Children" with Nan Susac; Dick Ford Dancers; Junior Theater of Mill Valley presenting highlights from "Wizard of Oz," as directed by Jan MacCready. Jerry Montizambert of Mill Valley is master of ceremonies. Paula White, Belgian folk singer, will sing starting at 4 p.m. in the art area of the festival; 7 p.m., "Sweet Adelines," a chorus of 30; Nan Susac's "Mime Theater"; intermission; Mill Valley Recorder Society; 8:30 p.m., John and Ann Brebner of Sausalito, a company of two presenting "Shakespeare in Love"; Leg O' Mutton Players from Sausalito Little Theater, presenting favorite oleo acts.

Sunday—1-3 p.m., Guckenheimer Sauer Kraut Band; Los Desperados Flamenco Dance group; 4-5 p.m., Lyric string quartet by Jean Maguire of Mill Valley. Paula White will sing folk songs in the art area.

Artist Chloe Gregg Paintings On Display

Paintings by Chloe Gregg of Forest Farm, Forest Knolls, will be on display throughout October at Neville's restaurant and gallery on the boardwalk in Tiburon.

This is Miss Gregg's first major West Coast showing but she has participated in group shows of the Marin Art and Garden Club and other displays in the Bay Area and the eastern United States.

Stanford Alumni Dinner Planned

Marin County alumni of Stanford University will dine at 7 p.m. next Thursday at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club in one of eight sectional gatherings to be held simultaneously throughout the Bay Area.

Stanford President Wallace Sterling will be principal speaker by television, his personal appearance being at a San Francisco dinner. Trustee speaker will be W. Parmer Fuller III, San Francisco industrial executive. James W. Barnett of 41 Pixley Avenue, Corte Madera, is arrangements chairman.

The German city of Mainz, home of Johann Gutenberg, rests in a natural amphitheater on a tranquil big bend of the Rhine.
